Chamber Manager Named

St. Joe Man to Fill Job

Richard S. Pinkerton, who has served as assistant manager to the St. Joseph Chamber of Commerce two years, has been named manager of the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce.

The announcement was made today by Sherman Grant, who headed a five - man selection committee.

Pinkerton will begin work Feb. 1, 1967, replacing Jim Musick, who resigned Oct. 15.

The new manager was hired on the basis of the high caliber of his education and experience, Grant said.

"We felt we wanted a top man with experience who came from a larger town and would know how to handle the problem of Sikeston as the town grows," Grant said.

St. Joseph has a population of 80,000.

Nine persons were considered. Four were eliminated because of lack of experience.

Pinkerton, 32, is married and has two daughters, 8 and 3.

He has served as membership director as well as assistant manager of the St. Joseph chamber since November of 1964.

He was responsible for membership drives and activities, better business activities and the preparation of the annual buyers guide and membership directory.

He taught in the Faucett high school from 1960 through 1964, four classes of vocal music and one class of band. In 1959, he taught in the St. Joseph public school system.

Prior to teaching, Pinkerton served as a sales and division manager in charge of inventory and salesmen for Sears, Roebuck & Co., and as a bookkeeper for Noma Lites, Inc., in St. Joseph.

Pinkerton has attended the institute of organizational management at the University of Houston in Texas. He is a member of the American Chamber of Commerce Executives and the Chamber of Commerce Executives of Missouri.

He attended high school in Albany, where his father owns

Fire Victims' Needs Great at Christmas

An appeal has been made for food, clothing, household furniture and utensils for a family of eight, who lost almost all personal belongings two weeks before Christmas in a fire.

A fire that destroyed the former home at 212 Luther, of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Lane and their six daughters broke out in the early morning hours Dec. 12. Mrs. Lane awakened in time to hurry the children out in the near freezing weather with only their bed clothing.

All other clothing was lost. The father was working at Hart's Bakery.

Mrs. Jewel Allen, city welfare center director, said today the family needs clothing, household furniture, utensils and food.

The Lane family has been living with a relative at 108 Thompson since the fire. They have rented an apartment at 1404 Osage.

"The only furniture we have is two beds," Mrs. Lane said. Some clothing has been received from friends.

The six daughters range in age from 4 to 12. Their dress sizes range from 5 to 12. Mrs. Lane wears a size 14 and Lane wears a 36 by 30 pants and size 15-1/2 or 16 shirt.

Shoe sizes for the children range from 4 to 7-1/2. The smaller children's shoe sizes are 9 and 10.

Mrs. Lane said they have been cleaning up the apartment they will occupy. She said the items the family needs most are chairs and a table for the kitchen, bedroom furniture, kitchen utensils and pots and pans, clothing and bedding.

Persons who wish to contribute may call GR 1-3044, or deliver items to 108 Thompson.

Agreement May Be Near In Kennedy Book Dispute

NEW YORK (AP) - Mrs. John F. Kennedy and Look magazine appeared to be approaching an agreement in their dispute over "The Death of a President," as lawyers for both sides said they would meet today for settlement talks.

Former Federal Judge Simon H. Rifkind, attorney for the widow of the president, said he would confer with Look counsel David W. Peck to see "if a sensible package" could be worked out.

Rifkind, who discussed the William Manchester manuscript with Mrs. Kennedy and Peck Saturday, said "many other things are involved" besides the text.

A Look spokesman commented that talks between representatives of the Kennedys and the magazine were continuing in "complete communication".

"We think things are progressing nicely," the spokesman said. He added, however, that "it would be presumptuous for us to make a unilateral statement."

One high source said it is possible there may be an announcement today.

The same source said that efforts were being made to edit word-by-word author William Manchester's book, "The Death of a President," which is about the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

"Look is making every effort to safeguard the personal feelings of Mrs. Kennedy," other sources said.

Secret negotiations were held Tuesday in the offices of Cowles Communications, Inc., the publishers of Look, by top editors and Richrd Goodwin, a former aide to President Kennedy who is acting as one of Mrs. Kennedy's advisers during the meetings aimed at settling the case out of court.

Another round of negotiations was set for today in hopes of effecting a settlement before Cowles and Harper & Row, publishers of the book, go into court Thursday to answer charges made by Mrs. Kennedy last Friday in her suit to block publication.

Jet Fires Missile As Planes Near Ship

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Two U.S. F4B Phantom jets fired air to air missiles Tuesday at two enemy planes that were flying toward the U. S. cruiser Long Beach and the enemy craft vanished from radar scopes, an American spokesman announced tonight.

Were the enemy planes shot down? The spokesman said he could not confirm or deny it. The encounter took place in early morning darkness.

The enemy planes were tracked from over the city of Thanh Hoa, 80 miles south of Hanoi, the spokesman said. The Long Beach, a guided-missile cruiser, was operating in the Gulf of Tonkin 25 miles northeast of Thanh Hoa.

"When first sighted, the aircraft were headed toward the Long Beach," the spokesman said.

The U.S. aircraft carrier Kitty Hawk launched the two Phantom jets.

These locked onto the other planes with radar and fire air-to-air missiles. The number of missiles fired was not reported in Saigon.

The spokesman said the only result known here was that the enemy aircraft disappeared from the radar scopes of the Phantom fighters.

They were not identified by type.

The only description was that they were "slow moving," indicating they may have been propeller-driven rather than MIG jets.

The spokesman said it was not known whether the planes intended to attack, but they were "headed toward the Long Beach."

The North Vietnamese Communist air force is not known ever to have attacked American ships sailing in the Gulf of Tonkin. Patrol boats, however, have fired on and damaged U.S. Navy ships.

The United States now has three aircraft carriers in the Gulf of Tonkin which launch bombing raids against the Communist mainland. The Long Beach is one of the surface ships protecting the aircraft carriers off the Communist coast.

The Navy refers to the American ships as being on Yankee Station.

U.S. B52 bombers pounded at North Vietnamese troops just north of the demilitarized zone today in a continuation of raids to smash a fresh Communist drive south before it starts.

While the big bombers struck less than half a mile above the buffer area, U. S. Marines clashed with Communist forces about 15 miles south of the demilitarized zone.

Fighting for an hour and a half in heavy fog, the Leathernecks beat off a Viet Cong mortar and small - arms attack and reported killing 54 of the enemy and capturing four. Marine casualties were termed light.

U. S. Army units elsewhere reported killing 25 Red soldiers in sporadic contacts during three operations ranging from Saigon to the northern border.

South Vietnamese troops reported killing 49 Viet Cong in three widely separated engagements.

U. S. pilots flew 87 strike missions over North Vietnam Tuesday and ranged close to the border of Communist China in one of them. Air Force F105 Thunderchief pilots reported destroying a railroad bridge on the main northwest rail line about 20 miles from the Chinese frontier and 135 miles northwest of Hanoi.

Most of the raids, however, were in coastal areas of the southern panhandle and in the west around Dien Bien Phu.

U.S. pilots claimed damage or destruction to 13 bridges, 7 military buildings, 12 storage areas, two railroads and an oil storage area.

U.S. Youth Sentenced to 3 Years by Soviet Court

LENINGRAD, U. S. S. R. AP -- A Soviet court today sentenced Buel Ray Wortham to three years in a restricted labor camp and fined Craddock M. Gilmour Jr. 1,000 rubles -- $1,111.11.

The two American youths were found guilty to violating Soviet currency regulations. Wortham also was convicted of stealing a statue of a bear.

Wortham was sentenced to two years on the theft charge and three years on the currency charge, the two terms to run concurrently.

Wortham first learned of his sentence after it had been read in Russian in the courtroom, when a spectator held up three fingers.

The North Little Rock, Ark., resident shook his head sadly and knowingly but otherwise showed no emotions.

The sentence was later read in English.

Gilmour showed no emotion during the reading.

As the court session ended, Wortham, 25, turned to Gilmour and shook hands with him. Wortham looked as if he might be close to tears. He was marched out by four armed guards.

Harlan G. Moen, consular officer from the U.S. Embassy in Moscow who attended the trial, said that Wortham's lawyer would appeal within the seven-day period allowed by Soviet law.

The three-year sentence on Wortham begins Oct. 1, the day the two youths were arrested as they tried to drive out of the Soviet Union to Finland after a one-week tourist visit.

The 18-inch cast-iron statue of the bear was found in their car, starting criminal proceedings which led to the three-day trial that ended today.

Wortham's sentence included confiscation of his car. He was also charged 163 rubles — $181.11 — as his share of court costs.

The sentence of Gilmour also included confiscation of souvenirs that Gilmour had bought with illegally obtained rubles. Gilmour was assessed 83.63 rubles — $92.92 — as his share of costs.

The type of labor camp to which Wortham was ordered is one of a restricted regime. Such camps are used for first offenders who have committed dangerous crimes. They work about eight hours a day on crafts and trade work such as woodworking or machine operating.

During nonworking hours the prisoners are allowed to move about freely within the camp, including using whatever library and recreational facilities are available.

The three Soviet judges returned their verdict after deliberating and writing it out for four hours, 45 minutes.

Their findings, which took 14 minutes to read in Russian, said that the charges against the two youths "have been fully confirmed."

Murder Retrial Opens

CHARLESTON (AP) - The retrial of Douglas Wayne Thompson, accused of slaying a Cape Girardeau policeman in 1961, began today in the court of Mississippi County Circuit Judge Marshall Craig.

A 12-member jury was selected Tuesday.

Cape Girardeau Prosecuting Attorney Bill Burlison has prepared a list of 67 prosecution witnesses who may testify at the trial, which was ordered last year by the Missouri Supreme Court.

Thompson is charged in the slaying of officer Donald Crittendon. Another policeman, Herbert Goss, was slain at the same time after the two officers sought to question Thompson and another man. Sammy Tucker was electrocuted in 1963 in the murder of Goss.

The retrial, being held in Charleston on a change of venue, was granted after Thompson alleged evidence was withheld by the prosecution during his first trial.

The defendant currently is serving a concurrent life-sentence in the shooting-death of a bystander during a gunbattle with Missouri Highway Patrolmen at the time of his arrest in Poplar Bluff.

Ten Guards Receive Call

Ten members of the Sikeston branch of the Army National Guard have been notified to report for six months active duty Jan. 9. Their destination for initial training has not been specified, Msgt. B. Caldwell, said today.

The men called are members of company B, 2nd battalion (mechanized), 140th infantry. After completion of training they will return to their unit of assignment for completion of their military obligation.

The men are, Privates Marvin D. Merideth, route two, Sikeston; James M. Miles, route two, Sikeston; Kenneth D. Darter, 415 Lake; Dennis F. Miller, 1905 Indiana; William H. Waltrip, 415 Prosperity; Lanny D. Presley, route two, Sikeston; Alton R. Crowley, 719 Matthews; Michael W. Rowell, Morehouse; Jack L. Calbert, Lilbourn, and John R. Walker, Canalou.

CAB Sets Hearing for Air Routes

A Civil Aeronautics Board hearing, previously postponed pending possible merger of Ozark and Central airlines, has been reset for Feb. 28, in Oklahoma, City, Okla., City Manager W. Raymert Miller said today.

It is possible that Sikeston's application for commercial airline service will be considered at the hearing, Miller said today.

"We do not know if our application will come up for consideration or not. We'll probably have a representative there," Miller said.

City Attorney Manuel Drumm and Bob Matthews, Sikeston businessman, have been asked to look into the matter, Miller said.

City officials sent a report to the CAB in Washington, D.C. in early July containing facts on the city business potential, the need for a commercial airline service, and requested that Sikeston be granted commercial service.

Sikeston has been trying to get a route certified by the CAB for service to and from Memphis, Tenn. Dyersburg, Tenn. and St. Louis.

Once a city is certified for a route, interested airlines bid on the contract.

Live Grenade Surprises Doctor

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — A Navy surgeon pulled a lethal M79 rifle grenade from the throat of a U.S. Marine private Tuesday night and showed it around the operating room before he found out it might kill the eight persons in the room.

"I didn't know what it was," said the surgeon, Lt. Cmdr. James Chandler of San Francisco. "All the military training I ever had was a couple of weeks where they say 'okay, this is a gun.' "

The 20-year-old patient is doing fine, Chandler reported.

The patient's name was withheld until his relatives are notified.

The Marine, who also had a compound fracture of his right leg from a bullet, was brought to the Da Nang "Charlie" medical hospital at 9:30 Tuesday night.

The M79 round — dome shaped, an inch and a half in diameter and two inches long — had crashed through the Marine's right lower jawbone, traveled through the thick part of the tongue and stopped a fraction of an inch from the soft skin below the lower left jawbone.

Chandler said that before the five-hour operation he had no idea what he was going after.

He would have sandbagged the operating table and sought expert advice if he had known, Chandler said.

The doctor could see part of the grenade's shiny dome at the rear of the patient's mouth. Two attempts with forceps failed to release it. He reached in with his fingers and "it popped out."

As he showed it around the operating room, Chandler said, "The eyes popped out of the people who knew what it was."

"We've got to get it out of here," Chandler said when he learned what he had.

"I held it away from me in my left hand. I had the silly idea that if it blew up, I would still have my right hand. Of course, it would have blown me to bits.

"We got it out to the helicopter pad (about 30 yards from the hospital). I put it down, took about four steps slowly, then ran like hell."

Demolition experts arrived and exploded the grenade.

The Marine private was wounded as he sat with his patrol near a road 11 miles southwest of Da Nang.

"He is a remarkable boy," Chandler said. "He could barely breathe and was in danger of suffocating. He was quite conscious. If he had panicked, he might not have made it."

The surgeon said the youth will have a slight hairline scar along his jawbone, another hairline scar following a neck crease from ear to ear, and a two-inch scar at the base of the throat where a breathing tube was inserted. The Leatherneck now writes on a notepad, but his voicebox was unharmed and Chandler said he will be talking in three to six weeks.

The rifle grenade arms itself in flight, normally after 30 revolutions, which amounts to about 14 yards. A spokesman said the grenade that hit the Marine probably only traveled 10 yards.

"We do not know if our application will come up for consideration or not. We'll probably have a representative there," Miller said.

City Attorney Manuel Drumm and Bob Matthews, Sikeston businessman, have been asked to look into the matter, Miller said.

City officials sent a report to the CAB in Washington, D.C. in early July containing facts on the city business potential, the need for a commercial airline service, and requested that Sikeston be granted commercial service.

Sikeston has been trying to get a route certified by the CAB for service to and from Memphis, Tenn. Dyersburg, Tenn. and St. Louis.

Once a city is certified for a route, interested airlines bid on the contract.

Live Grenade Surprises Doctor

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — A Navy surgeon pulled a lethal M79 rifle grenade from the throat of a U.S. Marine private Tuesday night and showed it around the operating room before he found out it might kill the eight persons in the room.

"I didn't know what it was," said the surgeon, Lt. Cmdr. James Chandler of San Francisco. "All the military training I ever had was a couple of weeks where they say 'okay, this is a gun.'"

The 20-year-old patient is doing fine, Chandler reported.

The patient's name was withheld until his relatives are notified.

The Marine, who also had a compound fracture of his right leg from a bullet, was brought to the Da Nang "Charlie" medical hospital at 9:30 Tuesday night.

The M79 round — dome shaped, an inch and a half in diameter and two inches long — had crashed through the Marine's right lower jawbone, traveled through the thick part of the tongue and stopped a fraction of an inch from the soft skin below the lower left jawbone.

Chandler said that before the five-hour operation he had no idea what he was going after.

He would have sandbagged the operating table and sought expert advice if he had known, Chandler said.

The doctor could see part of the grenade's shiny dome at the rear of the patient's mouth. Two attempts with forceps failed to release it. He reached in with his fingers and "it popped out."

As he showed it around the operating room, Chandler said, "The eyes popped out of the people who knew what it was."

"We've got to get it out of here," Chandler said when he learned what he had.

"I held it away from me in my left hand. I had the silly idea that if it blew up, I would still have my right hand. Of course, it would have blown me to bits.

"We got it out to the helicopter pad (about 30 yards from the hospital). I put it down, took about four steps slowly, then ran like hell."

Demolition experts arrived and exploded the grenade.

The Marine private was wounded as he sat with his patrol near a road 11 miles southwest of Da Nang.

"He is a remarkable boy," Chandler said. "He could barely breathe and was in danger of suffocating. He was quite conscious. If he had panicked, he might not have made it."

The surgeon said the youth will have a slight hairline scar along his jawbone, another hairline scar following a neck crease from ear to ear, and a two-inch scar at the base of the throat where a breathing tube was inserted. The Leatherneck now writes on a notepad, but his voicebox was unharmed and Chandler said he will be talking in three to six weeks.

The rifle grenade arms itself in flight, normally after 30 revolutions, which amounts to about 14 yards. A spokesman said the grenade that hit the Marine probably only traveled 10 yards.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Christmas should be a season of joy.

It usually is for most people but not for the right reason. Many enjoy it because of the Christmas gifts they receive.

Others, perhaps a minority, remember that it is in observance of Christ's birthday.

The holiday is not jolly but sad for many persons.

A St. Louis psychiatrist finds joy is not widespread at Christmas. He calls it a peak season for sadness and depression.

The Los Angeles Suicide Prevention Center confirms this. It has more calls in the week before Christmas than at any other time.

"Christmas is an anniversary of happy occasions when someone who has lost a loved one or whose children have left the home realizes his loneliness," Dr. Edward T. Auer says.

"It is a time when a person, who can no longer afford to give expensive gifts, may feel depressed. It is a time when people, who are mildly depressed, become aware that others are happy and that they should be having fun."

Another frequent victim of the Christmas blues is a person who is separated from his family or loved ones. Our troops in Vietnam and other foreign bases are among them.

Some feel depressed because they no longer receive gifts as they did when they were children. Somehow the magic of Christmas they felt as a child is gone forever.

Auer advises people to "to be aware of their feeling of sadness, to think about it and talk about it with friends, religious counselors or doctors. People who feel this way should share their feelings with other people rather than keep it within themselves.

Happily, most feelings of depression clear up either with medicine or pschotherapy or without.

To the unhappy people at Christmas mentioned by Dr. Auer those who are ill, especially with a terminal illness, and those who have had a death in the family during either the present season or an earlier Christmas season could be added.

So could those, who have had a rather trying, long, sad or unhappy year. Many, who have managed to keep up a rather good head of steam all year, grow weary at the year's end.

The high cost of giving and tight money may cause despondency. Christmas shoppers are aware of inflation during a season of heavy buying.

Without disputing the efficacy of the St. Louis doctors prescription for restored happiness, a few more suggestions are in order.

One is to quit thinking about self and engaging in purely selfish pursuits and turning to the celebration of Christ's birthday with happy reflections on what this has meant to mankind.

Another would be to find some way to watch a child at Christmas. Their innocent joy restores the Christmas spirit in those whose own has grown jaded with the years.

A third way to find Christmas happiness is to assist someone less fortunate than yourself. There are numerous ways to do this. A variety of opportunities are presented during the holidays.

Portageville residents Christmas party for patients at the Farmington State Hospital is a fine example.

Christmas baskets of toys, food and clothing, delivered by Sikeston firemen and members of other Bootheel organizations throughout will spread joy to those who give as well as those who receive.

If Christmas joy is universal it is up to those who are happy to spread this highly contagious quality to those depressed and sad persons, who are more numerous than many persons imagine or are willing to acknowledge.

Giving is required to get enjoyment from Christmas - giving generously and unselfishly in the spirit of Him whose birthday is celebrated.

It's what you give that counts. Not what you get, if anything.

COST OF SHOPLIFTING

With a boost from Christmas, stores and businesses are expected to rack up a record $3 to $4 billion for 1966 - not sales, but losses.

That's the price tag put on employe pilfering and amateur shoplifting. The latter is the nation's fastest growing form of larceny and should account for a third of the total figure, says the family economics bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance Co.

The average theft of the amateur shoplifter is petty, the bureau's study shows, usually between $3 and $5 in value (though this average has trebled in the past five years). The amateurs are so numerous, however, that they cost many stores as much as the fewer but more selective professionals.

As for employe thievery, one bonding company has disclosed that thefts of goods and cash by dishonest employes cost its client firms five times as much as losses from burglaries and holdups.

During a six-month period in 1965, there were 462 bank holdups in the United States, netting about $2 million. In the same period, defalcations by bank employes totaled more than three times as much - $6.5 million.

Outright need or actual poverty account for only a very small proportion of amateur shoplifting or employe thefts. Needy circumstances are found in only one out of 50 embezzlement cases, and kelptomaniacs represent less than one per cent of shoplifting cases.

What is causing this rise in amateur larceny? It seems to be a combination of more opportunities, the reluctance of merchants and employers to prosecute, easy penalties, a spreading popular attitude that "it's O.K. if you get away with it" and the inability to resist the chance to get something for nothing.

But the shoplifter doesn't really get what he steals for nothing. The cost of his stealing is merely tacked onto the price of everything else he buys, when he does buy.

One nationwide business protection service estimates that this can amount to as much as 5 per cent of the retail price of an item. Unfortunately, it is the overwhelming number of honest customers who must pay most of the bill for thievery.

How about a housewives' strike against this?

A court decision in Yakima, Washington, may lead traffic officials all over the United States to step up their program of providing uniformity in traffic signs.

Youths involved in an accident there sued county officials for $16,000 and won. Their claim was that Yakima county had failed to have standard road signs at the scene of the accident, in which one person was killed and three were injured.

Some state highway officials say the ruling will double or triple the amount being spent on traffic-sign replacement throughout the United States.

The "standard" road signs referred to in the Yakima case are those approved in the Manual on Uniform Traffic Control Signs, a guide published by the U.S. Department of Commerce. The manual's standards call for larger signs that are easier to see during the day, many of which are coated with reflective materials so they can be seen better after dark. For example, the manual calls for bright red, reflective stop signs, 42 or 48 inches across, in place of the 24-inch yellow stop signs that formerly were used in most jurisdictions and are still found in some areas.

All the new interstate highways are being equipped with signs called for by the manual, and all state highways that get U.S. funds must be equipped with such signs by 1968, according to current federal regulations. The precedent set by the Yakima decision also may lead to an improvement in signs or county roads, which sometimes have been neglected as road authorities have concentrated on building new roads rather than improving existing ones.

NEW YORK (AP) — Memory is the river of life.

It keeps open the channel between the past and the present and links them together. The more memories one has, the mightier is that river that finally winds us all to the sea.

Your own memory stream is pretty broad if you can look back and remember when—

Monday was laundry day in the basement, but no one had heard of a detergent. The magic ingredient was old-fashioned yellow soap.

The nearest thing to perpetual motion was a mother with a houseful of kids.

The favorite candy of children was a penny "jawbreaker."

A juvenile delinquent was a small boy who tried to fudge his knuckles across the circle while playing marbles for keeps.

Every little girl who could sing or dance hoped to grow up to be another Deanna Durbin or Shirley Temple.

One of the hottest sports arguments was whether Jack Dempsey could have whipped John L. Sullivan in his prime.

Men would have hooted at the idea that husbands and wives would ever have their names printed on the same checkbook.

A modern hotel was one that could brag it had a bath for every other room.

A man wasn't really a tycoon until he had a private railway car of his own.

If you still ate peas with a knife, everyone else at the table knew instantly you were a country boy and hadn't yet learned city ways.

Women never planned much else on the day they washed their hair, since it took all after noon to dry, even with the help of a hot sun.

Parents hated the thought of their daughters working in offices, because it was well-known that such jobs placed them in great moral peril.

Airplane pilots wouldn't think of going up without their helmet and goggles.

Everybody looked forward all week to the fun he'd have on Saturday night. You couldn't have much fun on Friday night, because you didn't get paid until the following day.

Many folks were so afraid of banks they hid their money at home — and the first places a sneak thief looked for it were under the mattresses and under the rugs.

It was taken as a fact of life by every young bride that sooner or later during her marriage she'd have to fight bedbugs. But she hoped that when it happened she could at least keep it a secret from her neighbors.

A teen-age girl looked forward hopefully for getting parental permission to attend her first dance when she was 16. Now a girl thinks she's an old maid if she hasn't been to a dance by the time she's 12.

A henpecked husband was one who appeared in public helping his wife carry home the weekend groceries.

The filling station attendant had to pump the gas for the family auto by hand.

The federal government spent less in a year than it now does in a month.

TEN GOLDEN MAXIMS

1. Honor your chief. There must be a head to everything.
2. Have confidence in yourself; make yourself fit.
3. Harmonize your work. Let sunshine radiate and penetrate.
4. Do the hardest job first each day. Easy ones are a pleasure.
5. Do not fear criticism -- criticise yourself often.
6. Be glad and rejoice in the other fellow's success. Study his methods.
7. Do not be misled by dislikes. Acid ruins the finest fabric.
8. Be enthusiastic -- it is contagious.
9. Do not have the notion that success means simply money making.
10. Be fair, and do at least one decent act every day in the year.

STARTING POINT FOR TAX REFORM

Tax reduction and tax reform are prime matters of domestic discussion. We have had reductions in income tax rates and elimination of some federal excise taxes.

Tax reform is another matter. It involves the elimination of inequities in the federal tax system. There is much talk about them -- but so far, no correction.

One of the worst inequities is double taxation of dividend income. First, the corporation is taxed on its profits at the high going rate. Then dividends paid to the corporation's stockholder-owners are taxed again at the individual income tax rates.

The government gave some recognition to this injustice 10 years ago when a law was passed providing that stockholders could deduct 4 per cent from taxes due on dividends received. But even this token relief was subsequently withdrawn.

Double taxation of dividends is no small matter these days. More than 20 million Americans, the majority in the middle income brackets, own stocks and most of them receive dividends. There is neither rhyme, reason or justice in a tax policy that single one group of earners out for punitive treatment. The elimination of double taxation would be an excellent starting point for tax reform in general.

A primary factor in the death of the New York Herald Tribune -- irresponsible union leadership -- goes, I feel, a long way in explaining the case FOR voluntary and AGAINST compulsory unionism.

Imagine, if you will, what happens to the people of New York if Mike Quill's successor, Mathew Guinan gets his way. He is now plotting to tie all the 80-odd unions that serve the city into one powerful unit and is quoted as follows by Charles Bartlett (Washington Star, August 18): 'Then we'll have them by the throat!' he shouted with relish recently."

On one hand we have Roy Siemiller complaining that "it would be a tragic mistake for the Congress of the United States to take freedom away from any segment of the working population." But with compulsory union membership what freedom did the professional members of the American Newspaper Guild have to save their jobs, to save the New York Herald Tribune.

Note the letter to the editor in the New York Daily News from an ex-employee of the Trib and the commentary by Jimmy Breslin in LIFE on the talk between the Trib's editor and the New York Newspaper Guild leader!

We don't contend that the restoration of voluntary union membership in all 50 states is the total cure to excesses by union leadership. But we do feel it would provide the checks and balances necessary to keep union leadership responsive to the desires of the rank-and-file.

"TREATMENT FOR PATRIOTS"

In furtherance of their nefarious schemes, the collectivist conspirators against freedom are constantly on the alert against anyone who takes his stand four square on the side of freedom and love of country. In the collectivist mind of every stripe, such person is equivalent to Public Enemy No. 1 and must get the "treatment."

The "treatment" consists of a deliberate attempt to defame, discredit and smear the Pro-Freedom advocate. Having extensive power to influence public opinion through their worming into positions of importance in the communications media, the collectivist makes full use of this media to harass his prey at every turn of the road.

As openers, the Pro-Freedom advocate is first ridiculed as being some sort of an old fogey who is out of step with modern needs. Warming up, he is next accused of being an exploiter of his fellow man, unappreciative and inhuman, cold and hard-hearted. The big guns come next, firing barrage charges of being "controversial," a "right-wing extremist," "paranoid-patriot," a "pseudo-patriot" and a "super-American." Finally, the ultimate smear is launched, accusing him of being part of a sinister "far-right plot" of some sort. By this time, the collectivist conspirators figure they have sufficiently defamed the person so as to draw attention away from what he has to convey.

Those with eyes and ears need but use them to see who is daily getting the "treatment," and then compare their stand and their record with those of their accusers. Facts are old fashioned but their use is the best possible means of conveying the truths which are needed to protect our freedom. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON - Rep. Adam Clayton Powell of Harlem is not the only congressman for whom the State Department rolls out the red carpet on foreign junkets.

Cabled instructions to get hotel reservations, make sightseeing plans, etc., for Congresswoman Lera Thomas, D-Tex., have just been sent to State Department offices in the far east, even though Mrs. Thomas is a lame duck, whose term of office runs out in the middle of her junket.

When she returns from her sightseeing trip around the far east in mid-January, she will no longer be a congresswoman. She is finishing out the term of her late husband, Rep. Albert Thomas of Houston. Officially Mrs. Thomas is touring the far east as a member of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, but our Tokyo Embassy quickly discovered that she has little interest in merchant ships or fish. She is doing more newspaper reporting than fish studying.

"Judging from stay in Japan so far," radioed the Tokyo Embassy, "Mrs. Thomas has no strong interest in embassy briefings or appointments, nor would there appear to be any necessity for strenuous schedule of visits to harbor projects and the like."

Referring to the congresswoman's private arrangements with the Houston Chronicle and the Japanese Broadcasting Agency to do some newsgathering, the American Embassy continued: "NHK (Japanese Government Broadcasting Agency) has a special interest in Rep. Thomas's travel and has taken charge of the majority of her stay in Japan. It intends to do the same in Korea.....

"For Seoul, hotel reservations and other arrangements for (her) being made by Seoul Bureau of NHK lacks the manpower to assume primary responsibility for the visit. State Dept. posts should make all reservations, plans for sightseeing, etc., and establish liaison with local NHK rep."

GOV. KERNER'S TRADE MISSION

Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois got the green light from President Johnson last week for a trade mission to European communist bloc countries to peddle midwest farm equipment and farm products.

The president told Kerner this was in line with LBJ's moves to relax tensions with the European communist world and promote trade. Export-import bank credits would be available. Kerner plans to take a dozen or so Illinois industrialists, including representatives from Caterpillar, John Deere, International Harvester, and Moline to most of the smaller communist countries of Europe - Czechoslovakia, Poland, Yugoslavia, and Romania. They would not go to Russia.

Kerner, who married the daughter of the late Mayor Cermak, fatally wounded by an assassin's bullet when riding with President Roosevelt in Miami, believes there's a market for U.S. farm machinery in Central Europe. He proposes to help the dollar trade balance by promoting their sale.

Note - Silviu Brucan, former minister to Washington, has reported to his government that while U.S. factory equipment is in many cases not as up to date as the French and West German, American farm machinery is far ahead of any other country in the world. He has recommended that Romanians concentrate on a study of American farm methods.

WHEAT FOR INDIA COTTON

Rep. Bob Poage, D-Tex., the new House Agriculture Chairman, has flown to India supposedly to study the extent of the famine; but secretly, his White House-blessed trip will serve as a prelude to asking India to turn part of its cotton land into grain-producing land.

The subject is touchy, because India makes money on the world cotton market. But Indian farmers are more efficient at growing grain than cotton. Thus they should increase over-all production by converting cotton fields into grain crops.

More important, we now ship India one of every five bushels of American wheat. Yet our wheat surplus has all but disappeared, while cotton is still a surplus crop. Thus we can spare more cotton than wheat for India.

Note - With Poage on the India mission are two wheat-belt Republicans, Sen. Jack Miller of Iowa and Rep. Robert Dole of Kansas.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

A company in Pinellas Park, Fla., has broadcast a mail offer to supply "master keys" to open almost any brand of auto or truck. Williams says Shimon is doing investigative work, not eavesdropping....Gov. Pat Brown of California turned down an offer from Clint Murchison, owner of the Dallas cowboys and the Delmar Race Track, of $100,000 to be given to California boys clubs to combat juvenile delinquency. Murchison hoped for favorable consideration for the renewal of his Delmar track franchise. Instead, California authorities awarded the track to Jonnie Alessio, operator of the Tijuana track and one of the biggest bookmaking establishments in the west - just across the border in Mexico. Many law enforcement authorities are unahppy with a bookmaker - incidentally a supporter of Brown's - as a prospective operator of Delmar.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Justice Dept. Creates 'Tactical Labor Unit' For Permanent Probe of Labor Rackets and Terror.

Washington, D.C.: -- Two Junes ago, a former Teamster official was walking with his lady to a bowling alley in Kansas City, Mo. A car rolled past slowly.

From the passenger side of the front seat came a blast. The teamster fell. The car stopped. The killer got out.

Calmly he walked to the prone man, side stepping the blood. He put the shotgun barrel against the neck of the dying man, pulled the trigger -- and with no haste got back into the death car.

The killer and his driver never were publicly identified. They were Mafia men. They knocked out a witness who had turned state's evidence in a Justice Dept. probe of the Cosa Nostra link with labor.

The man lying in the gore was Floyd R. Hayes. He had been leader of Teamsters Joint Council 56 and Local 41. He had, with others, stolen hundreds of thousands of dollars. He had been convicted, sentenced to five years and had begun to talk to a federal grand jury.

He had not talked long. However, his prosecutor, young Jim Featherstone, had done well anyway.

He had gotten a brace of convictions. He had also become thoroughly convinced of the tie between the mob and some forces which attempt to make a big, unholy business of chunks of the labor movement.

He and his colleagues also knew that the decent men inside labor stood no chance -- no matter how high their stations -- against the terror.

Now Jim Featherstone, only 40 (though he has 11 years behind him in the Justice Dept.), a tough, five-foot, ten-inch, 170 pound official, is back in Washington ready to do battle.

With the backing of Henry (Pete) Peterson, chief of the Crime and Racketeering Section, Featherstone is quietly setting up a tactical labor unit.

This is part of the overall beefing up of the Organized Crime Section.

The special labor unit now has but six attorneys. But there will be more shortly.

The unit is an imperative. It comes from the final recognition that the racketeers who have tunneled inside labor with their muscle and shotguns and dynamite and old-fashioned brass knuckles can't be beaten by speeches. It has become an immense problem.

Featherstone and Peterson believe that they are allies of the legitimate labor leaders. No one can survive if the mob does. Too many labor disputes are being settled by violence, bombings, shootings, killings.

In Birmingham, where the special unit has been looking, they're probing into sabotage of the Alabama Power Co. There, bullets were fired into a transformer tank.

In Kentucky fuel gas lines have been blasted.

In Los Angeles a friend of Cosa Nostra's acidy Johnny Dio is running an independent union. In new Jersey opposition leaders in several unions have been killed or beaten. So have they in New York, Chicago, and in a dozen other cities.

Just last week there was a summit Mafia labor parley in Chicago to analyze the effect of Jimmy Hoffa's going to prison.

But it is not all Mafia. There's just plain looting in thousands of locals -- in which the political dynamism is such that the national leaders can be told to "stay the hell out," as happened recently when AFL-CIO President George Meany attempted to move in on a New York situation.

Featherstone, only recently back from Kansas City, will move his tactical unit into "all the logical areas." One enormous front is the pension field. Billions are involved in some unions where the Mafia has its people.

The funds are not necessarily looted. There are other ways to make a buck. There are kickbacks and spurious investments and rigging of stocks. Of course, there is outright embezzlement of some of these funds and union treasuries.

The tactical labor unit will look for violations of the Hobbs anti-racketeering, anti-terror, anti-extortion act and into violations of Taft-Hartley (taking something of value) and the pressuring of legitimate businessmen.

The tactical unit is not an isolated development. The entire Organized Crime Section is being juiced up. Not only here, but across the land.

Peterson and his chief, Fred Vinson Jr., assistant attorney general and head of the Criminal Division, have guts -- do travel. They've been in Philadelphia, New Orleans, Los Angeles, Boston and Las Vegas -- and have just started. Wherever they go they line up FBI, IRS and Narcotics agents, along with regional U.S. attorneys.

They shy from being described as launching a new anti-crime war. They're realists. But they are running hard.

They know they have to or the country will be overrun if they just stand still for a minute. And running alongside them is that new tactical patrol force of Jim Featherstone's.

Under him the "labor" work will be more operational than supervisory. It will get up the raw material for the grand juries instead of just guiding its district attorneys.

The unit will get right into the probes -- face to face with the self-appointed untouchables.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Christmas should be a season of joy.

It usually is for most people but not for the right reason. Many enjoy it because of the Christmas gifts they receive.

Others, perhaps a minority, remember that it is in observance of Christ's birthday.

The holiday is not jolly but sad for many persons.

A St. Louis psychiatrist finds joy is not widespread at Christmas. He calls it a peak season for sadness and depression.

The Los Angeles Suicide Prevention Center confirms this. It has more calls in the week before Christmas than at any other time.

"Christmas is an anniversary of happy occasions when someone who has lost a loved one or whose children have left the home realizes his loneliness," Dr. Edward T. Auer says.

"It is a time when a person, who can no longer afford to give expensive gifts, may feel depressed. It is a time when people, who are mildly depressed, become aware that others are happy and that they should be having fun."

Another frequent victim of the Christmas blues is a person who is separated from his family or loved ones. Our troops in Vietnam and other foreign bases are among them.

Some feel depressed because they no longer receive gifts as they did when they were children. Somehow the magic of Christmas they felt as a child is gone forever.

Auer advises people to "to be aware of their feeling of sadness, to think about it and talk about it with friends, religious counselors or doctors. People who feel this way should share their feelings with other people rather than keep it within themselves.

Happily, most feelings of depression clear up either with medicine or pschotherapy or without.

To the unhappy people at Christmas mentioned by Dr. Auer those who are ill, especially with a terminal illness, and those who have had a death in the family during either the present season or an earlier Christmas season could be added.

So could those, who have had a rather trying, long, sad or unhappy year. Many, who have managed to keep up a rather good head of steam all year, grow weary at the year's end.

The high cost of giving and tight money may cause despondency. Christmas shoppers are aware of inflation during a season of heavy buying.

Without disputing the efficacy of the St. Louis doctors prescription for restored happiness, a few more suggestions are in order.

One is to quit thinking about self and engaging in purely selfish pursuits and turning to the celebration of Christ's birthday with happy reflections on what this has meant to mankind.

Another would be to find some way to watch a child at Christmas. Their innocent joy restores the Christmas spirit in those whose own has grown jaded with the years.

A third way to find Christmas happiness is to assist someone less fortunate than yourself. There are numerous ways to do this. A variety of opportunities are presented during the holidays.

Portageville residents Christmas party for patients at the Farmington State Hospital is a fine example.

Christmas baskets of toys, food and clothing, delivered by Sikeston firemen and members of other Bootheel organizations throughout will spread joy to those who give as well as those who receive.

If Christmas joy is universal it is up to those who are happy to spread this highly contagious quality to those depressed and sad persons, who are more numerous than many persons imagine or are willing to acknowledge.

Giving is required to get enjoyment from Christmas - giving generously and unselfishly in the spirit of Him whose birthday is celebrated.

It's what you give that counts. Not what you get, if anything.

COST OF SHOPLIFTING

With a boost from Christmas, stores and businesses are expected to rack up a record $3 to $4 billion for 1966 - not sales, but losses.

That's the price tag put on employe pilfering and amateur shoplifting. The latter is the nation's fastest growing form of larceny and should account for a third of the total figure, says the family economics bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance Co.

The average theft of the amateur shoplifter is petty, the bureau's study shows, usually between $3 and $5 in value (though this average has trebled in the past five years). The amateurs are so numerous, however, that they cost many stores as much as the fewer but more selective professionals.

As for employe thievery, one bonding company has disclosed that thefts of goods and cash by dishonest employes cost its client firms five times as much as losses from burglaries and holdups.

During a six-month period in 1965, there were 462 bank holdups in the United States, netting about $2 million. In the same period, defalcations by bank employes totaled more than three times as much - $6.5 million.

Outright need or actual poverty account for only a very small proportion of amateur shoplifting or employe thefts. Needy circumstances are found in only one out of 50 embezzlement cases, and kelptomaniacs represent less than one per cent of shoplifting cases.

What is causing this rise in amateur larceny? It seems to be a combination of more opportunities, the reluctance of merchants and employers to prosecute, easy penalties, a spreading popular attitude that "it's O.K. if you get away with it" and the inability to resist the chance to get something for nothing.

But the shoplifter doesn't really get what he steals for nothing. The cost of his stealing is merely tacked onto the price of everything else he buys, when he does buy.

One nationwide business protection service estimates that this can amount to as much as 5 per cent of the retail price of an item. Unfortunately, it is the overwhelming number of honest customers who must pay most of the bill for thievery.

How about a housewives' strike against this?

A court decision in Yakima, Washington, may lead traffic officials all over the United States to step up their program of providing uniformity in traffic signs.

Youths involved in an accident there sued county officials for $16,000 and won. Their claim was that Yakima county had failed to have standard road signs at the scene of the accident, in which one person was killed and three were injured.

Some state highway officials say the ruling will double or triple the amount being spent on traffic-sign replacement throughout the United States.

The "standard" road signs referred to in the Yakima case are those approved in the Manual on Uniform Traffic Control Signs, a guide published by the U.S. Department of Commerce. The manual's standards call for larger signs that are easier to see during the day, many of which are coated with reflective materials so they can be seen better after dark. For example, the manual calls for bright red, reflective stop signs, 42 or 48 inches across, in place of the 24-inch yellow stop signs that formerly were used in most jurisdictions and are still found in some areas.

All the new interstate highways are being equipped with signs called for by the manual, and all state highways that get U.S. funds must be equipped with such signs by 1968, according to current federal regulations. The precedent set by the Yakima decision also may lead to an improvement in signs or county roads, which sometimes have been neglected as road authorities have concentrated on building new roads rather than improving existing ones.

NEW YORK (AP) — Memory is the river of life.

It keeps open the channel between the past and the present and links them together. The more memories one has, the mightier is that river that finally winds us all to the sea.

Your own memory stream is pretty broad if you can look back and remember when—

Monday was laundry day in the basement, but no one had heard of a detergent. The magic ingredient was old-fashioned yellow soap.

The nearest thing to perpetual motion was a mother with a houseful of kids.

The favorite candy of children was a penny "jawbreaker."

A juvenile delinquent was a small boy who tried to fudge his knuckles across the circle while playing marbles for keeps.

Every little girl who could sing or dance hoped to grow up to be another Deanna Durbin or Shirley Temple.

One of the hottest sports arguments was whether Jack Dempsey could have whipped John L. Sullivan in his prime.

Men would have hooted at the idea that husbands and wives would ever have their names printed on the same checkbook.

A modern hotel was one that could brag it had a bath for every other room.

A man wasn't really a tycoon until he had a private railway car of his own.

If you still ate peas with a knife, everyone else at the table knew instantly you were a country boy and hadn't yet learned city ways.

Women never planned much else on the day they washed their hair, since it took all after noon to dry, even with the help of a hot sun.

Parents hated the thought of their daughters working in offices, because it was well-known that such jobs placed them in great moral peril.

Airplane pilots wouldn't think of going up without their helmet and goggles.

Everybody looked forward all week to the fun he'd have on Saturday night. You couldn't have much fun on Friday night, because you didn't get paid until the following day.

Many folks were so afraid of banks they hid their money at home — and the first places a sneak thief looked for it were under the mattresses and under the rugs.

It was taken as a fact of life by every young bride that sooner or later during her marriage she'd have to fight bedbugs. But she hoped that when it happened she could at least keep it a secret from her neighbors.

A teen-age girl looked forward hopefully for getting parental permission to attend her first dance when she was 16. Now a girl thinks she's an old maid if she hasn't been to a dance by the time she's 12.

A henpecked husband was one who appeared in public helping his wife carry home the weekend groceries.

The filling station attendant had to pump the gas for the family auto by hand.

The federal government spent less in a year than it now does in a month.

TEN GOLDEN MAXIMS

1. Honor your chief. There must be a head to everything.
2. Have confidence in yourself; make yourself fit.
3. Harmonize your work. Let sunshine radiate and penetrate.
4. Do the hardest job first each day. Easy ones are a pleasure.
5. Do not fear criticism -- criticise yourself often.
6. Be glad and rejoice in the other fellow's success. Study his methods.
7. Do not be misled by dislikes. Acid ruins the finest fabric.
8. Be enthusiastic -- it is contagious.
9. Do not have the notion that success means simply money making.
10. Be fair, and do at least one decent act every day in the year.

STARTING POINT FOR TAX REFORM

Tax reduction and tax reform are prime matters of domestic discussion. We have had reductions in income tax rates and elimination of some federal excise taxes.

Tax reform is another matter. It involves the elimination of inequities in the federal tax system. There is much talk about them -- but so far, no correction.

One of the worst inequities is double taxation of dividend income. First, the corporation is taxed on its profits at the high going rate. Then dividends paid to the corporation's stockholder-owners are taxed again at the individual income tax rates.

The government gave some recognition to this injustice 10 years ago when a law was passed providing that stockholders could deduct 4 per cent from taxes due on dividends received. But even this token relief was subsequently withdrawn.

Double taxation of dividends is no small matter these days. More than 20 million Americans, the majority in the middle income brackets, own stocks and most of them receive dividends. There is neither rhyme, reason or justice in a tax policy that single one group of earners out for punitive treatment. The elimination of double taxation would be an excellent starting point for tax reform in general.

A primary factor in the death of the New York Herald Tribune -- irresponsible union leadership -- goes, I feel, a long way in explaining the case FOR voluntary and AGAINST compulsory unionism.

Imagine, if you will, what happens to the people of New York if Mike Quill's successor, Mathew Guinan gets his way. He is now plotting to tie all the 80-odd unions that serve the city into one powerful unit and is quoted as follows by Charles Bartlett (Washington Star, August 18): 'Then we'll have them by the throat!' he shouted with relish recently."

On one hand we have Roy Siemiller complaining that "it would be a tragic mistake for the Congress of the United States to take freedom away from any segment of the working population." But with compulsory union membership what freedom did the professional members of the American Newspaper Guild have to save their jobs, to save the New York Herald Tribune.

Note the letter to the editor in the New York Daily News from an ex-employee of the Trib and the commentary by Jimmy Breslin in LIFE on the talk between the Trib's editor and the New York Newspaper Guild leader!

We don't contend that the restoration of voluntary union membership in all 50 states is the total cure to excesses by union leadership. But we do feel it would provide the checks and balances necessary to keep union leadership responsive to the desires of the rank-and-file.

H. L. Hunt Says

"TREATMENT FOR PATRIOTS"

In furtherance of their nefarious schemes, the collectivist conspirators against freedom are constantly on the alert against anyone who takes his stand four square on the side of freedom and love of country. In the collectivist mind of every stripe, such person is equivalent to Public Enemy No. 1 and must get the "treatment."

The "treatment" consists of a deliberate attempt to defame, discredit and smear the Pro-Freedom advocate. Having extensive power to influence public opinion through their worming into positions of importance in the communications media, the collectivist makes full use of this media to harass his prey at every turn of the road.

As openers, the Pro-Freedom advocate is first ridiculed as being some sort of an old fogey who is out of step with modern needs. Warming up, he is next accused of being an exploiter of his fellow man, unappreciative and inhuman, cold and hard-hearted. The big guns come next, firing barrage charges of being "controversial," a "right-wing extremist," "paranoid-patriot," a "pseudo-patriot" and a "super-American." Finally, the ultimate smear is launched, accusing him of being part of a sinister "far-right plot" of some sort. By this time, the collectivist conspirators figure they have sufficiently defamed the person so as to draw attention away from what he has to convey.

Those with eyes and ears need but use them to see who is daily getting the "treatment," and then compare their stand and their record with those of their accusers. Facts are old fashioned but their use is the best possible means of conveying the truths which are needed to protect our freedom. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON - Rep. Adam Clayton Powell of Harlem is not the only congressman for whom the State Department rolls out the red carpet on foreign junkets.

Cabled instructions to get hotel reservations, make sightseeing plans, etc., for Congresswoman Lera Thomas, D-Tex., have just been sent to State Department offices in the far east, even though Mrs. Thomas is a lame duck, whose term of office runs out in the middle of her junket.

When she returns from her sightseeing trip around the far east in mid-January, she will no longer be a congresswoman. She is finishing out the term of her late husband, Rep. Albert Thomas of Houston. Officially Mrs. Thomas is touring the far east as a member of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, but our Tokyo Embassy quickly discovered that she has little interest in merchant ships or fish. She is doing more newspaper reporting than fish studying.

"Judging from stay in Japan so far," radioed the Tokyo Embassy, "Mrs. Thomas has no strong interest in embassy briefings or appointments, nor would there appear to be any necessity for strenuous schedule of visits to harbor projects and the like."

Referring to the congresswoman's private arrangements with the Houston Chronicle and the Japanese Broadcasting Agency to do some newsgathering, the American Embassy continued: "NHK (Japanese Government Broadcasting Agency) has a special interest in Rep. Thomas's travel and has taken charge of the majority of her stay in Japan. It intends to do the same in Korea....."

"For Seoul, hotel reservations and other arrangements for (her) being made by Seoul Bureau of NHK lacks the manpower to assume primary responsibility for the visit. State Dept. posts should make all reservations, plans for sightseeing, etc., and establish liaison with local NHK rep."

GOV. KERNER'S TRADE MISSION

Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois got the green light from President Johnson last week for a trade mission to European communist bloc countries to peddle midwest farm equipment and farm products.

The president told Kerner this was in line with LBJ's moves to relax tensions with the European communist world and promote trade. Export-import bank credits would be available. Kerner plans to take a dozen or so Illinois industrialists, including representatives from Caterpillar, John Deere, International Harvester, and Moline to most of the smaller communist countries of Europe - Czechoslovakia, Poland, Yugoslavia, and Romania. They would not go to Russia.

Kerner, who married the daughter of the late Mayor Cermak, fatally wounded by an assassin's bullet when riding with President Roosevelt in Miami, believes there's a market for U.S. farm machinery in Central Europe. He proposes to help the dollar trade balance by promoting their sale.

Note - Silviu Brucan, former minister to Washington, has reported to his government that while U.S. factory equipment is in many cases not as up to date as the French and West German, American farm machinery is far ahead of any other country in the world. He has recommended that Romanians concentrate on a study of American farm methods.

WHEAT FOR INDIA COTTON

Rep. Bob Poage, D-Tex., the new House Agriculture Chairman, has flown to India supposedly to study the extent of the famine; but secretly, his White House-blessed trip will serve as a prelude to asking India to turn part of its cotton land into grain-producing land.

The subject is touchy, because India makes money on the world cotton market. But Indian farmers are more efficient at growing grain than cotton. Thus they should increase over-all production by converting cotton fields into grain crops.

More important, we now ship India one of every five bushels of American wheat. Yet our wheat surplus has all but disappeared, while cotton is still a surplus crop. Thus we can spare more cotton than wheat for India.

Note - With Poage on the India mission are two wheat-belt Republicans, Sen. Jack Miller of Iowa and Rep. Robert Dole of Kansas.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

A company in Pinellas Park, Fla., has broadcast a mail offer to supply "master keys" to open almost any brand of auto or truck. Williams says Shimon is doing investigative work, not eavesdropping....Gov. Pat Brown of California turned down an offer from Clint Murchison, owner of the Dallas cowboys and the Delmar Race Track, of $100,000 to be given to California boys clubs to combat juvenile delinquency. Murchison hoped for favorable consideration for the renewal of his Delmar track franchise. Instead, California authorities awarded the track to Jonnie Alessio, operator of the Tijuana track and one of the biggest bookmaking establishments in the west - just across the border in Mexico. Many law enforcement authorities are unahppy with a bookmaker - incidentally a supporter of Brown's - as a prospective operator of Delmar.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Justice Dept. Creates 'Tactical Labor Unit' For Permanent Probe of Labor Rackets and Terror.

Washington, D.C.: -- Two Junes ago, a former Teamster official was walking with his lady to a bowling alley in Kansas City, Mo. A car rolled past slowly.

From the passenger side of the front seat came a blast. The teamster fell. The car stopped. The killer got out.

Calmly he walked to the prone man, side stepping the blood. He put the shotgun barrel against the neck of the dying man, pulled the trigger -- and with no haste got back into the death car.

The killer and his driver never were publicly identified. They were Mafia men. They knocked out a witness who had turned state's evidence in a Justice Dept. probe of the Cosa Nostra link with labor.

The man lying in the gore was Floyd R. Hayes. He had been leader of Teamsters Joint Council 56 and Local 41. He had, with others, stolen hundreds of thousands of dollars. He had been convicted, sentenced to five years and had begun to talk to a federal grand jury.

He had not talked long. However, his prosecutor, young Jim Featherstone, had done well anyway.

He had gotten a brace of convictions. He had also become thoroughly convinced of the tie between the mob and some forces which attempt to make a big, unholy business of chunks of the labor movement.

He and his colleagues also knew that the decent men inside labor stood no chance -- no matter how high their stations -- against the terror.

Now Jim Featherstone, only 40 though he has 11 years behind him in the Justice Dept.), a tough, five-foot, ten-inch, 170 pound official, is back in Washington ready to do battle.

With the backing of Henry (Pete) Peterson, chief of the Crime and Racketeering Section, Featherstone is quietly setting up a tactical labor unit.

This is part of the overall beefing up of the Organized Crime Section.

The special labor unit now has but six attorneys. But there will be more shortly.

The unit is an imperative. It comes from the final recognition that the racketeers who have tunneled inside labor with their muscle and shotguns and dynamite and old-fashioned brass knuckles can't be beaten by speeches. It has become an immense problem.

Featherstone and Peterson believe that they are allies of the legitimate labor leaders. No one can survive if the mob does. Too many labor disputes are being settled by violence, bombings, shootings, killings.

In Birmingham, where the special unit has been looking, they're probing into sabotage of the Alabama Power Co. There, bullets were fired into a transformer tank.

In Kentucky fuel gas lines have been blasted.

In Los Angeles a friend of Cosa Nostra's acidy Johnny Dio is running an independent union. In new Jersey opposition leaders in several unions have been killed or beaten. So have they in New York, Chicago, and in a dozen other cities.

Just last week there was a summit Mafia labor parley in Chicago to analyze the effect of Jimmy Hoffa's going to prison.

But it is not all Mafia, There's just plain looting in thousands of locals -- in which the political dynamism is such that the national leaders can be told to "stay the hell out," as happened recently when AFL-CIO President George Meany attempted to move in on a New York situation.

Featherstone, only recently back from Kansas City, will move his tactical unit into "all the logical areas." One enormous front is the pension field. Billions are involved in some unions where the Mafia has its people.

The funds are not necessarily looted. There are other ways to make a buck. There are kickbacks and spurious investments and rigging of stocks. Of course, there is outright embezzlement of some of these funds and union treasuries.

The tactical labor unit will look for violations of the Hobbs anti-racketeering, anti-terror, anti-extortion act and into violations of Taft-Hartley (taking something of value) and the pressuring of legitimate businessmen.

The tactical unit is not an isolated development. The entire Organized Crime Section is being juiced up. Not only here, but across the land.

Peterson and his chief, Fred Vinson Jr., assistant attorney general and head of the Criminal Division, have guts -- do travel. They've been in Philadelphia, New Orleans, Los Angeles, Boston and Las Vegas -- and have just started. Wherever they go they line up FBI, IRS and Narcotics agents, along with regional U.S. attorneys.

They shy from being described as launching a new anti-crime war. They're realists. But they are running hard.

They know they have to or the country will be overrun if they just stand still for a minute. And running alongside them is that new tactical patrol force of Jim Featherstone's.

Under him the "labor" work will be more operational than supervisory. It will get up the raw material for the grand juries instead of just guiding its district attorneys.

The unit will get right into the probes -- face to face with the self-appointed untouchables.

Designer Thinks Future Humans Will Not Dress

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON AP - "In the future," said American designer Bonnie Cashin, "human beings will wear very, very little clothes - probably nothing."

Then what will become of the people in Miss Cashin's profession - the designers of clothes?

"Oh, the world won't need us," she replied. "We'll become architects, chemists, scientists."

"Chemistry will have more to do with design than the people whom we now look upon as designers. What will develop will be some sort of marvelous substance that humans will rub on their skin," he said.

"This substance will have a dermatoptic control, so that a lot of clothes won't be needed. People will have a sort of chemical glow about them - a golden glow, a green glow, a pink or blue one, whichever one you want.

"I would really like to come back to earth in about 100,000 years and take a peek.

"We won't grow old. I think we'll just go off - after the age of 150 - like old elephants and disappear. Our bodies will not deteriorate.

"I really believe that, through science, we will control the shape and temperature of our bodies and that we'll paint our bodies again, like the so-called savages do.

Actually I think some savages are pretty sophisticated."

83rd Veterans Are Sought

DAYTON, O. -- The 83rd. infantry division -- the famed Thunderbolt division of World War II, seeks 25,000 of its former members.

That is the number of men on its roster, who have not been contacted since the end of the war.

At the close of the war, an 83rd infantry division association was formed and an annual reunion has been held every year. This coming year the 21st annual conclave will be staged at Chicago in August.

Former members of the old 83rd. are asked to contact the national secretary, Larry Redmond 132 Rockwood Ave., Havertown, Pa.

Mother, Son Separated by WW II Reunited

SEATTLE, (AP) - "My Son, my son!" sobbed Mrs. Heinrich Gedicks as she clasped her oldest boy in her arms, ending a 22-year separation that began when he was taken prisoner by the Russian army in World War II.

In 1944, the Gedicks lived in East Germany. Horst, then 15, was living on a farm in East Prussia, apprenticing as an agriculture specialist.

When the Russians invaded Horst was interned and sent to Siberia. The rest of the family fled.

For years the family sought news of Horst's fate. They continued their search from Bremerton, Wash., where they were brough under sponsorship of the city's Our Saviour's Lutheran Church.

Six years ago they learned Horst was alive, married and the father of a son.

The family tried to find a way to bring him home. His sister, Christel, wrote former Premier Nikita Khruschev, but without success.

Three times Horst and his family were refused exit visas.

Three months ago the visas were granted. The family attributes the change to improved American-Soviet relations.

Horst, his wife Angelica and their son Wolfgang, 7, arrived here Monday and were met by his parents and two brothers.

Mama Santa Scores Hit

BRICK TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) - The beard is the same, the red outfit looks the same, and even the eyes twinkle the same. But there is definitely something different about one store's Santa Claus this year.

Could it be the voice is a little softer, a little higher even? And maybe the movements are a bit gentler too?

Yes, for this year, Mama Santa has taken over.

The face behind the beard belongs to Sophie Deptula, 53, who filled in at the Steinbach Co. when the regular Santa caught cold the day before Thanksgiving.

The switch has been a hit with older and younger shoppers. The youngest don't even know the difference. But some of the older ones challenged her.

"She's a mama Santa Claus," said one little girl.

Mrs. Deptula answers: "I'm Santa's helper. Santa is so busy this time of the year he needs lots of new helpers. There's only one real Santa Claus, he comes Christmas Eve."

Mama Santa, who has two sons, 22 and 24, has dropped the traditional "Ho, ho ho" and speaks in a very soft voice so as not to frighten the younger children.

"I let a child warm up to me if he's frightened, I pat his head and tell him not to be afraid. If I have a baby in my arms and he starts to cry, I rock him a little."

Designer Thinks Future Humans Will Not Dress

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON AP - "In the future," said American designer Bonnie Cashin, "human beings will wear very, very little clothes - probably nothing."

Then what will become of the people in Miss Cashin's profession - the designers of clothes?

"Oh, the world won't need us," she replied. "We'll become architects, chemists, scientists."

"Chemistry will have more to do with design than the people whom we now look upon as designers. What will develop will be some sort of marvelous substance that humans will rub on their skin," he said.

"This substance will have a dermatoptic control, so that a lot of clothes won't be needed. People will have a sort of chemical glow about them - a golden glow, a green glow, a pink or blue one, whichever one you want.

"I would really like to come back to earth in about 100,000 years and take a peek.

"We won't grow old. I think we'll just go off - after the age of 150 - like old elephants and disappear. Our bodies will not deteriorate.

"I really believe that, through science, we will control the shape and temperature of our bodies and that we'll paint our bodies again, like the so-called savages do.

Actually I think some savages are pretty sophisticated."

Miss Cashin, a native of Oakland, Calif., is a winner of many awards for clothes designing. She has a show currently in London of photographs and sketches of her designs.

SEATTLE, (AP) - "My Son, my son!" sobbed Mrs. Heinrich Gedicks as she clasped her oldest boy in her arms, ending a 22-year separation that began when he was taken prisoner by the Russian army in World War II.

In 1944, the Gedicks lived in East Germany. Horst, then 15, was living on a farm in East Prussia, apprenticing as an agriculture specialist.

When the Russians invaded Horst was interned and sent to Siberia. The rest of the family fled.

For years the family sought news of Horst's fate. They continued their search from Bremerton, Wash., where they were brough under sponsorship of the city's Our Saviour's Lutheran Church.

Six years ago they learned Horst was alive, married and the father of a son.

The family tried to find a way to bring him home. His sister, Christel, wrote former Premier Nikita Khruschev, but without success.

Three times Horst and his family were refused exit visas.

Three months ago the visas were granted. The family attributes the change to improved American-Soviet relations.

Horst, his wife Angelica and their son Wolfgang, 7, arrived here Monday and were met by his parents and two brothers.

Mama Santa Scores Hit

BRICK TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) - The beard is the same, the red outfit looks the same, and even the eyes twinkle the same. But there is definitely something different about one store's Santa Claus this year.

Could it be the voice is a little softer, a little higher even? And maybe the movements are a bit gentler too?

Yes, for this year, Mama Santa has taken over.

The face behind the beard belongs to Sophie Deptula, 53, who filled in at the Steinbach Co. when the regular Santa caught cold the day before Thanksgiving.

The switch has been a hit with older and younger shoppers. The youngest don't even know the difference. But some of the older ones challenged her.

"She's a mama Santa Claus," said one little girl.

Mrs. Deptula answers: "I'm Santa's helper. Santa is so busy this time of the year he needs lots of new helpers. There's only one real Santa Claus, he comes Christmas Eve."

Mama Santa, who has two sons, 22 and 24, has dropped the traditional "Ho, ho ho" and speaks in a very soft voice so as not to frighten the younger children.

"I let a child warm up to me if he's frightened, I pat his head and tell him not to be afraid. If I have a baby in my arms and he starts to cry, I rock him a little."

Central Takes Easy Win Over Parma

By RON JAYNES

PARMA -- Scott County Central high school continued its domination over Class S teams last night as it handed defending champion Parma a 84-65 setback.

Central also captured the B game, 51-33.

Larry Boley and Steve Miles were standouts for the Braves on defense and rebounding while teammate Terry Bell led them in scoring with 23 points.

Parma, who had only one returning lettermen from last year's regional tournament team, faced the strong rebounding of Scott County Central's Terry Owens, John Lee and Larry Boley and found themselves fall at the free throw lane again for the second consecutive time. Central had three starters returning from last year's regional runner up.

Parma opened the scoring with a basket by James Gibson after Central took the opening tip but the Pirates led only momentarily. Parma's David Newell missed a free throw that would have put them out front 3-0.

Two quick baskets within 25 seconds apart sent the Braves ahead 4-2 for the first time and had they little trouble from the free-throw-missing Parma quintet.

The Pirates opened the game with a zone press which gave the Braves easy baskets all night. They moved the ball well without mistakes.

Scott Central dominated the rebounding and used a zone defense to coral the Pirates offense.

Before one person could turn around the Braves had posted a 12-3 lead. The good shots and layins began to add up.

Fouls almost took a toll of the Braves early in the game as Central's big rebounder John Lee collected his third foul of the game with only 1:11 seconds remaining. Teammate Terry Owens collected his third foul in the first quarter with only 13 seconds remaining.

Eight free throws missed by Parma in the first quarter held them back 21-13.

Parma closed the lead to 27-23 with 5:07 left in the second period as its press tightened. This caught the Braves off stride as they lost the services of John Lee who, with 4:38 remaining in the period, collected his fourth foul.

The third period ended with the Braves holding a commanding 43-29 lead.

Parma's Ken Womack, a five-foot, seven-inch guard, paced the Pirates in both the defense and offensive catagories. He pumped in 19 points to lead his team. David Newell, senior forward, played his best game. He pulled won 18 rebounds and pumped in nine points. Larry McClung netted 11 points and assisted Womack in the defensive department.

Bell not only led Scott Central in the defensive department but took high honors along with Owens, who held normally high scoring Henry Lutes to three points.

Central used reserves the final quarter as did Parma.

Lee topped Central scorers in the B game with 15 points. He was followed by teammate Gilliland, who hit 12 points. White took high honors for the Pirates. He hit 12 points.

Both teams' next games will be in tournament play. Central plays Tuesday night at Cape Girardeau. Parma goes at it again at Senath Wednesday night.

Dark Bourbon: It's not the kind of whiskey you give Charlie Whatsizname.

Hill & Hill Preferred is one-of-a-kind whiskey. As different from the crowd as a winesap apple is from a "greenie."

It's a dark, deep-flavored Bourbon. With a classical kind of body and finish.

We fix it with a sour mash that goes back more than 75 years. We fire it gently and draw it off just a little at a time. And, even then, we only take the prime part of the run.

It's honest. It's emphatic. Yet it's smooth as the rocks in a limestone creek.

It's certainly not the kind of whiskey you give Charlie Whatsizname. For him, a bottle of Whatchamacallit is plenty good enough.

Layton's Basket Gives Dexter Win

DEXTER -- A basket with one second remaining by Dexter's Layton gave the host Bearcats a 61-59 overtime basketball triumph over Puxico last night.

The Bearcats David Guethle, poured in 30 points in leading his team to victory. This was his best performance of the season.

Dexter held an 11 - point lead going into the second half but the fighting Indians rallied to forge ahead at the end of three quarters, 46-43. The Indians fell back as both teams used hard nose defense in the third quarter and fought to a 54-54 deadlock at the end of regulation time.

Puxico relinquished four points to the Bearcats as the overtime period started. It added three more before it ended to outscore the Indians 7-5 in the three minute period.

Dexter used a man-to - man defense while Puxico used a 2-1-2 zone defense.

Anthony topped the Indians in the scoring column. He hit the nets for 19 points.

The Bearcats also captured the B game for a sweep of the night's action 57-36.

Cox topped Dexter scorers with 14 points. Andrews took high scoring honors for Puxico with 12 points.

Both teams next games will be in the Bloomfield Christmas tournament next week.

Sikeston Dumps ISC

By Dan Spears

SCOTT CITY - Playing their best game of the year, the Sikeston Bulldogs came through in fine form to stage a minor upset last night by dumping, eighth rated in the Daily Standard basketball poll, Illmo-Scott City 73-61. The Bulldogs raised their pace to a two-game winning streak and a 2-4 record. The Rams dropped to a 7-3.

Senior Wayne Limbaugh, played an exceptional game behind the scenes and also up front where it counts. He netted 12 points.

Fred Townes hauled down 18 rebounds off the boards and dunked in 16 points.

Lester Carter, the Dogs ball control specialist, kept the Rams on their toes all night with his constant driving for layups on offense, and his defensive game.

Junior center, Gary Wiss, held Illmo's big Rick Wadlington to 6 points while dropping 10 himself.

SIKESTON (73)
I-S-C (61)

Sikeston jumped to a lead in the first quarter which it held throughout most of the game. Illmo gained the lead twice in the first period but could not hold it. The Rams trailed at the quarter 16-15.

The Dogs made up for lost time in the second period. They popped in 24 points boosting their lead to 40-31 at the half.

Having their best third quarter of the season, the Bulldogs continued to add to their score. Wayne Limbaugh dominated, hitting eight points.

Holding a five-point lead in the closing minutes, Limbaugh and Carter both added single punches for a margin of eight points.

B GAME
I-S-C 57, Sikeston 47

Playing a big role in the game was Sikeston's rebounding, spearheaded by Fred Townes. The Dogs collected 35 rebounds while the Rams got only 22.

Sikeston's B team dropped its second of the year, losing by 10 - 57-47. The Dogs went in the intermission leading 25-24, Illmo outscored it in the third, posting a 44-41 score after three periods.

The Bulldogs got into foul trouble late in the fourth, as the Rams sacked up 13 points for their winning margin.

Ernest Butler led the Dogs scoring with 12 points. Pete Harrington followed close behind hitting 11.

Pettit and Caraness took honors for the Rams as they hit 14 and 10 respectively.

Bloomfield Cage Date Changed

BLOOMFIELD - A correction in the Bloomfield high school basketball schedule was reported today. The Wildcats will play host to North Pemiscot Thursday night instead of Friday night as previously announced.

Dark Bourbon: It's not the kind of whiskey you give Charlie Whatsizname.

Hill & Hill Preferred is one-of-a-kind whiskey. As different from the crowd as a winesap apple is from a "greenie."

It's a dark, deep-flavored Bourbon. With a classical kind of body and finish.

We fix it with a sour mash that goes back more than 75 years. We fire it gently and draw it off just a little at a time. And, even then, we only take the prime part of the run.

It's honest. It's emphatic. Yet it's smooth as the rocks in a limestone creek.

It's certainly not the kind of whiskey you give Charlie Whatsizname. For him, a bottle of Whatchamacallit is plenty good enough.

Oran Seeded First In Cape Christmas Tourney

CAPE GIRARDEAU-- Oran's Eagles have been seeded first in the annual College High Christmas tournament, which starts Tuesday at Houck field house.

Oran has one tournament championship under its belts this season, that being its own in which they defeated Illmo-Scott City for the title.

Four games open the tournament Tuesday night with four games being played on Wednesday and Thursday nights. Semi-finals will be held Friday night and finals Saturday.

The first game will pit Morehouse against Charleston at 5 p.m. and will be followed by Howardville vs. Kelly, Oran and St. Vincent, and Illmo-Scott City taking on St. Henry's.

First round action ends Wednesday night when Patton meets Jackson, Cape Girardeau Central tackles Delta, Notre Dame meets College high and Scott County Central clashes with East Prairie.

Following Oran in the seedings were Notre Dame with an 8-1 record, Scott County Central posting a 7-2 record, Illmo-Scott City 7-2, Howardville 3-2, Cape Central 3-2, Patton 7-0, Morehouse 9-5, Charleston 3-4, Jackson 4-3, Delta 3-7, East Prairie 2-7, College High 0-6, and St. Vincent of Perryville 1-5.

Ron Jaynes SPORTS CORNER

Six nights of roundball action is in store in the coming week with the opening of the Bloomfield and Cape Girardeau tournaments Monday night.

Sixteen teams are entered in each tourney.

The third of the Christmas tournaments opens Wednesday at Senath. Eight teams are entered.

We'll waste no time in picking the winners of Mondays' action as we will have no paper Monday....A big holiday for ME.

MONDAY'S TOURNAMENT ACTION

Bloomfield

Doniphan vs. Woodland - We see the Dons taking a very convincing opening round victory...Crader will get his 40 but the other boys will have their troubles...Doniphan 78, Woodland 57.

Matthews vs. Chaffee - Those Pirates drew a rather easy game to open the tournament but after that the going gets tough... Matthews 89, Chaffee 55.

Kennett vs. Advance - This should be a real thriller...Perhaps one of the best first round contests...We see the Hornets picking their heads up...Advance 68, Kennett 66.

Dexter vs. Sikeston - We just don't know how to pick this game...after those Bulldogs mauled Illmo-Scott City Tuesday night...We'll take a chance and say Sikeston ...Sikeston 62, Dexter 61.

CAPE TOURNAMENT ACTION

Morehouse vs. Charleston - Boy...The Tigers don't have an advantage in this contest... Charleston is big...and will take a rather easy victory... Charleston 72, Morehouse 66.

Howardville vs. Kelly - We see the Hawks as the dark horse in the tournament...Those Kelly Hawks shouldn't even show up... I wouldn't ...Howardville 97, Kelly 67.

Oran vs. St. Vincent - The Eagles are fresh from a split with two of Memphis' top basketball squads and have learned one thing...They have got the team...Oran 78, St. Vincent 48.

Illmo-Scott City vs. St. Henry - Those Trojans will hustle you to death...But those Rams will beat them to death...Illmo 75, St. Henry 49.

Swing Along With Ted by Ted Williams

YES, VIRGINIA, THERE'S STILL BASEBALL

In case Virginia has forgotten, baseball is still the big game. Of course, there are some things that have to be rectified; namely, upping the base salary of major league rookies. If the average pro footballer can earn over $20,000, and the minimum pay is at least $10,000, it's about time baseball's $7,000 miminum is raised to at least $11,000. Baseball has been doing very well at the box office during the past few years, thanks to outstanding pennant races, outstanding players, and better and bigger ball parks. Whether or not we would like to see the good old days return, as far as costs are concerned, the truth is, those days are over, and the minimum baseball salary is in dire need of a healthy boost.

Somehow, baseball is shouldering its way through the maze of football stories, and, as many fans get ready for their final football games of the season, with favorites continuing to upset each other, baseball is still making news. Though the winter trades bring on the usual cliches about "strengthening the club," one wonders about the Yankees. Theirs is a mammoth rebuilding job, and though no one is wasting much sympathy on the Yankees, it is interesting to watch their building moves. "We're going with the young players" is another overworked phrase. If Roger Maris decides to play with the Cardinals, don't be surprised if he turns out to be the 1967 version of Frank Robinson. Maris is still only thirty-two and barring his history of physical injuries, trading him to the National League was the logical move. The same goes for Clete Boyer. Trades like these have a history of back-firing. But why anyone would consider putting Mickey Mantle on first base I really don't know. In normal cases, okay, but Mantle's legs are so delicate that a bad spill or an abrupt turn could raise havoc. Not that the outfield is any safer, but there does seem to be a little more leeway. Of course, anything can happen as I well know. So maybe I shouldn't prejudge the stability of Mantle's legs at first base. My own most bothersome injuries took place in the outfield, especially during spring training of '54 when I broke my collarbone. If it's going to happen, it can happen in the dugout!

It's ironic to think that New York, for so many years home of the champions, will again wonder who's going to finsih in the cellar, the Mets or the Yanks.

Meanwhile, as the pro and college bowl games get ready for their television showings, football is dominating the airwaves. And why not? It beats sitting out in freezing, rainy, snowy weather. And when you can relax with a beer in your hand and watch the instant replay of an exciting run or pass, that's living. Baseball is the game you want to go out to see on a beautiful spring or hot summer day.

Simpson Paces Southern Baptist

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark. -- Curtis Simpson, Parma, Mo., paced the Southern Baptist basketball squad past Phelander-Smith College of Little Rock Saturday night, 93-88. Simpson pulled 22 rebounds and added 15 points to his total, most coming in an overtime period.

Phelander-Smith jumped out into a five-point lead before the Eagles evened the score in the first half. The lead changed hands throughout the game with the Eagles tying the score in the closing minute of regular play, 84-84.

In the overtime, the Eagles scored first and went into their stall game, drawing fouls from the Panther players.

Simpson, in the words of his coach "turned in a tremendous defensive game as well as pulling down rebounds."

Meredith Ready to Rejoin Cowboys

DALLAS (AP) - Quarterback Don Meredith of the Dallas Cowboys was ready to join the team for a workout this afternoon after giving the fans a big scare because of a stomach ache.

Meredith went to the hospital Tuesday morning suffering a "tremendous cramp."

He was found to be all right and was out doing some Christmas shopping, however, before fans learned he had left the hospital.

Meredith said he'll be ready to play Jan. 1 when Dallas meets Green Bay for the National Football League Championship in the Cotton Bowl.

The Cowboys' star told the team physician, Dr. Ronald Garvey, that the cramp might have resulted from a sleeping pill and a pain pill he took Monday night for his headache.

Albanians, according to legend, are descended from an eagle.

Woodland Uses Second Half Surge To Knock Off Bernie

LUTESVILLE - After a second quarter surge, the Woodland Cardinals showed fine form in beating Bernie last night in the varsity outing 94-85. Bernie staged a split in the night's activities by trouncing Lutesville's B team 71-66.

Craft paced the Mules with 33 as Hahn popped 27 for the Cardinals.

Not all countries acknowledge the three-mile limit. At least 24 claim sovereignty over seas from four to 12 miles out and several South American nations claim jurisdiction 200 miles beyond their coasts.

Lilbourn Top Seeded At Senath

SENATH -- Lilbourn's Panthers were seeded first in the annual Senath-Hornersville Christmas tournament, which starts next Wednesday and runs through Saturday.

Other teams seeded in order were South Pemiscot, Delta, and North Pemiscot.

First seeded Lilbourn opens the tournament Wednesday night when it meets the Campbell Camels, whom it defeated earlier in the season. The second game Wednesday night will pit North Pemiscot and Parma, which have not met this season.

Thursday night's action will pit second seeded South Pemiscot against Senath-Hornersville at 7 p.m. Third seeded Delta will take on Southland at 8:30.

Semi-finals will be played Friday night with finals being staged Saturday night.

Kennett, the defending champion, dropped out of the tournament this season in order to enter the Bloomfield Christmas tournament, which starts Monday, a 16-team affair.

Bridgers Optimistic For Blue-Gray Duel

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) - John Bridgers of Baylor, the head coach for the Southern squad in this year's Blue-Gray game, still is sounding optimistic about Saturday. But he'd probably be more so if he knew who was going to play fullback.

Both Billy Tucker of Tennessee A&I and Tom Bryan of Auburn still are more or less slowed by leg injuries.

Coach Glenn Dobbs of Tulsa has no injuries among his Blue players to worry him.

The game will be televised nationally by CBS.

Local Bowling

By Richard Lucy

At their regular meeting December 7th The Sikeston Bowling association pointed a committee of five men to work out a system for an Association hall of fame. The committee consist of Don Miller, Bob Simpson, Cline Carter, Pick Arnold, and Richard Lucy, on December 13th the hall of fame committee met and adopted a set of rules and regulation that will be presented to the Associations board of Directors for their approval January 18th at their next meeting. If excepted the Association will start a survey to see who has 10 years of active service in the association, which is one of the requirements, after the survey is completed. This list will be narrowed to fifteen men by the board of directors. From this group, five will be selected by the board using the point system, 10 points for first, 8 for second, and so on. From these five, one will be selected by the selection committee using the point system as the Sikeston Bowling Associations first hall of fame member. The selection committee will be made up of one member from each league and four from the associations board of directors. Votes to be tabulated by Charles Heath and Don Miller.

Pirates Chalk Up 12th Win

BENTON -- The high flying Matthews Pirates took a 67-52 victory from the Kelly Hawks last night and raised their unbeaten basketball record to 12-0 for the season.

The Pirates had trouble pulling away from their host. They stayed within four points of the leaders in the first quarter and were only back six points at the half.

The winning tradition kept the Pirates in the game. They fought back after being tied midway in the second quarter and held a lead throughout the game.

Bishop hit the nets for 19 points while teammate Hicks poured in 16 and Brooks added 16 to top Matthews scoring.

Urhahn and Matthis took high scoring honors for the Hawks as they hit for 24 and 19 points respectively.

Matthews captured the B game, 52-30.

Nunn topped the Pirate scorers in the B game with 14 points while Demrster took high honors for the Hawks with 14 points.

Morehouse vs. Charleston - Boy...The Tigers don't have an advantage in this contest... Charleston is big...and will take a rather easy victory... Charleston 72, Morehouse 66.

Howardville vs. Kelly - We see the Hawks as the dark horse in the tournament...Those Kelly Hawks shouldn't even show up... I wouldn't ...Howardville 97, Kelly 67.

Oran vs. St. Vincent - The Eagles are fresh from a split with two of Memphis' top basketball squads and have learned one thing...They have got the team...Oran 78, St. Vincent 48.

Illmo-Scott City vs. St. Henry - Those Trojans will hustle you to death...But those Rams will beat them to death...Illmo 75, St. Henry 49.

YES, VIRGINIA, THERE'S STILL BASEBALL

In case Virginia has forgotten, baseball is still the big game. Of course, there are some things that have to be rectified; namely, upping the base salary of major league rookies. If the average pro footballer can earn over $20,000, and the minimum pay is at least $10,000, it's about time baseball's $7,000 miminum is raised to at least $11,000. Baseball has been doing very well at the box office during the past few years, thanks to outstanding pennant races, outstanding players, and better and bigger ball parks. Whether or not we would like to see the good old days return, as far as costs are concerned, the truth is, those days are over, and the minimum baseball salary is in dire need of a healthy boost.

Somehow, baseball is shouldering its way through the maze of football stories, and, as many fans get ready for their final football games of the season, with favorites continuing to upset each other, baseball is still making news. Though the winter trades bring on the usual cliches about "strengthening the club," one wonders about the Yankees. Theirs is a mammoth rebuilding job, and though no one is wasting much sympathy on the Yankees, it is interesting to watch their building moves. "We're going with the young players" is another overworked phrase. If Roger Maris decides to play with the Cardinals, don't be surprised if he turns out to be the 1967 version of Frank Robinson. Maris is still only thirty-two and barring his history of physical injuries, trading him to the National League was the logical move. The same goes for Clete Boyer. Trades like these have a history of back-firing. But why anyone would consider putting Mickey Mantle on first base I really don't know. In normal cases, okay, but Mantle's legs are so delicate that a bad spill or an abrupt turn could raise havoc. Not that the outfield is any safer, but there does seem to be a little more leeway. Of course, anything can happen as I well know. So maybe I shouldn't prejudge the stability of Mantle's legs at first base. My own most bothersome injuries took place in the outfield, especially during spring training of '54 when I broke my collarbone. If it's going to happen, it can happen in the dugout!

It's ironic to think that New York, for so many years home of the champions, will again wonder who's going to finsih in the cellar, the Mets or the Yanks.

Meanwhile, as the pro and college bowl games get ready for their television showings, football is dominating the airwaves. And why not? It beats sitting out in freezing, rainy, snowy weather. And when you can relax with a beer in your hand and watch the instant replay of an exciting run or pass, that's living. Baseball is the game you want to go out to see on a beautiful spring or hot summer day.

Simpson Paces Southern Baptist

WALNUT RIDGE, Ark. -- Curtis Simpson, Parma, Mo., paced the Southern Baptist basketball squad past Phelander-Smith College of Little Rock Saturday night, 93-88. Simpson pulled 22 rebounds and added 15 points to his total, most coming in an overtime period.

Phelander-Smith jumped out into a five-point lead before the Eagles evened the score in the first half. The lead changed hands throughout the game with the Eagles tying the score in the closing minute of regular play, 84-84.

In the overtime, the Eagles scored first and went into their stall game, drawing fouls from the Panther players.

Simpson, in the words of his coach "turned in a tremendous defensive game as well as pulling down rebounds."

Meredith Ready to Rejoin Cowboys

DALLAS (AP) - Quarterback Don Meredith of the Dallas Cowboys was ready to join the team for a workout this afternoon after giving the fans a big scare because of a stomach ache.

Meredith went to the hospital Tuesday morning suffering a "tremendous cramp."

He was found to be all right and was out doing some Christmas shopping, however, before fans learned he had left the hospital.

Meredith said he'll be ready to play Jan. 1 when Dallas meets Green Bay for the National Football League Championship in the Cotton Bowl.

The Cowboys' star told the team physician, Dr. Ronald Garvey, that the cramp might have resulted from a sleeping pill and a pain pill he took Monday night for his headache.

Albanians, according to legend, are descended from an eagle.

Woodland Uses Second Half Surge To Knock Off Bernie

LUTESVILLE - After a second quarter surge, the Woodland Cardinals showed fine form in beating Bernie last night in the varsity outing 94-85. Bernie staged a split in the night's activities by trouncing Lutesville's B team 71-66.

Craft paced the Mules with 33 as Hahn popped 27 for the Cardinals.

Three-Mile Limit

Not all countries acknowledge the three-mile limit. At least 24 claim sovereignty over seas from four to 12 miles out and several South American nations claim jurisdiction 200 miles beyond their coasts.

Lilbourn Top Seeded At Senath

SENATH -- Lilbourn's Panthers were seeded first in the annual Senath-Hornersville Christmas tournament, which starts next Wednesday and runs through Saturday.

Other teams seeded in order were South Pemiscot, Delta, and North Pemiscot.

First seeded Lilbourn opens the tournament Wednesday night when it meets the Campbell Camels, whom it defeated earlier in the season. The second game Wednesday night will pit North Pemiscot and Parma, which have not met this season.

Thursday night's action will pit second seeded South Pemiscot against Senath-Hornersville at 7 p.m. Third seeded Delta will take on Southland at 8:30.

Semi-finals will be played Friday night with finals being staged Saturday night.

Bridgers Optimistic For Blue-Gray Duel

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) - John Bridgers of Baylor, the head coach for the Southern squad in this year's Blue-Gray game, still is sounding optimistic about Saturday. But he'd probably be more so if he knew who was going to play fullback.

Both Billy Tucker of Tennessee A&I and Tom Bryan of Auburn still are more or less slowed by leg injuries.

Coach Glenn Dobbs of Tulsa has no injuries among his Blue players to worry him.

The game will be televised nationally by CBS.

Local Bowling

By Richard Lucy

At their regular meeting December 7th The Sikeston Bowling association pointed a committee of five men to work out a system for an Association hall of fame. The committee consist of Don Miller, Bob Simpson, Cline Carter, Pick Arnold, and Richard Lucy, on December 13th the hall of fame committee met and adopted a set of rules and regulation that will be presented to the Associations board of Directors for their approval January 18th at their next meeting. If excepted the Association will start a survey to see who has 10 years of active service in the association, which is one of the requirements, after the survey is completed. This list will be narrowed to fifteen men by the board of directors. From this group, five will be selected by the board using the point system, 10 points for first, 8 for second, and so on. From these five, one will be selected by the selection committee using the point system as the Sikeston Bowling Associations first hall of fame member. The selection committee will be made up of one member from each league and four from the associations board of directors. Votes to be tabulated by Charles Heath and Don Miller.

Pirates Chalk Up 12th Win

BENTON -- The high flying Matthews Pirates took a 67-52 victory from the Kelly Hawks last night and raised their unbeaten basketball record to 12-0 for the season.

The Pirates had trouble pulling away from their host. They stayed within four points of the leaders in the first quarter and were only back six points at the half.

The winning tradition kept the Pirates in the game. They fought back after being tied midway in the second quarter and held a lead throughout the game.

Bishop hit the nets for 19 points while teammate Hicks poured in 16 and Brooks added 16 to top Matthews scoring.

Urhahn and Matthis took high scoring honors for the Hawks as they hit for 24 and 19 points respectively.

Matthews captured the B game, 52-30.

Nunn topped the Pirate scorers in the B game with 14 points while Demrster took high honors for the Hawks with 14 points.

AMERICA'S FIRST Apollo crew posed with a model of their command module and service module in Houston recently and explained some of the detail of their mission, which is now scheduled for February of 1967. The three astronauts are, left to right, Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom; Edward White; and Roger Chaffee.

VOTING RIGHTS and LEGAL WRONGS

As a second example, ex-Attorney General William P. Rogers, while testifying before a Senate Committee in 1960, regarding legislation similar to that in question, stated:

"I might say, Mr. Chairman, that I have been surprised how few complaints we have had, and I would hope that if Congress does give support to these proposals, this one and the one about preserving election records, which is vitally important, that there will be greater effort on the part of the Negro to register and vote, because constitutional rights cannot be enforced unless the people attempt to exercise them."

The records are replete with similar testimony.

Q. Why do you believe the bill would pervert the Constitution?

A. The States, and the States alone, possess the right to establish qualifications for voting. Article I of the Constitution provides that, in choosing members of the House of Representatives, the electors shall have the same qualifications required for electors of the most numerous branch of the State Legislature.

The Seventeenth Amendment, respecting the election of United States Senators, reaffirms the rule.

Anyone qualified to vote for members of the most numerous branch of a State legislature is qualified to vote for members of Congress.

It would seem obvious that those not possessing the qualification to vote for State legislators are, under the terms of the Constitution, ineligible to vote for members of the United States Congress.

In other words, exercising the "right to vote" is nothing more or less than exercising the right of franchise which the person has acquired under and in accord with a State law.

Q. Have the courts of the land so held?

A. On innumerable occasions. The Supreme Court of the United States, in the early case of McPherson v. Blacker, 142 U.S. 1, stated:

"In short, the appointment and mode of appointment of electors belong exclusively to the States under the Constitution of the United States. They are, as remarked by Mr. Justice Gray in IN re Green (134 U.S. 377, 379 (33:951, 952), 'no more officers or agents of the United States than are the members of the State legislatures when acting as the electors of Federal Senators, or the people of the States when acting as the electors of Representatives in Congress.' Congress is empowered to determine the time of choosing the electors and the day on which they are to give their votes, which is required to be the same day throughout the United States, but otherwise the power and jurisdiction of the State is exclusive, with the exception of the provisions as to the number of electors, and the ineligibility of certain persons, so framed that congressional and Federal influence might be excluded."

In the case of United States v. Cruikshank et al, 92 U.S. 542, the Court said:

"In Minor v. Happersett (21 Wall. 178, 22 L. Ed. 631), we decided that the Constitution of the United States has not conferred the right of suffrage upon anyone, and that the United States have no voters of their own creation in the States."

In the Minor case, supra, the Court held:

"The United States has no voters in the States of its own creation. The elective officers of the United States are elected directly or indirectly, by State voters (Emphasis added.)"

The "Uncanny" Salmon

It's uncanny, the way salmon find their way back to the fresh waters where they were born--apparently sometimes to the very same streams. And this is following one to five years of "cavorting" in the Pacific Ocean with salmon from other areas.

Ancient West Coast Indians, in fact, were so impressed by salmon that they attributed god-like powers, or at least demi-human qualities to these fish. Salmon was their "staff of life."

Though no longer revered for superhuman powers, this amazing fish receives well-earned praise for its super versatility on the table.

Salmon can be the basic ingredient for many glamorous dishes, entrees or side dishes which can be served almost any meal of the day. Yet it is equally delicious eaten just as it comes from the can--flavored by no more than a sprinkling of salt, pepper, minced onion or mayonnaise.

The flavor and texture of salmon combine well with other foods in salads, sandwiches, casseroles, hors d'oeuvres, souffles, croquettes, breads, soups and many other cooking creations.

So, why not "un-can" some salmon and whip up an attractive and flavorful dish for your family today. Canned salmon, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service, is one of our most plentiful foods currently.

DEVILED SALMON
1-pound can salmon
2 tblspns butter or other fat
2 tblspns flour
1 cup liquid (liquid from canned salmon plus milk to make volume)
1 tspn Worcestershire sauce
8 drops Tabasco sauce
2 cups fine bread cubes
1/2 tspn salt
Dash oregano
Dash pepper
2 tablspns butter or margarine

Drain salmon, reserving liquid. Flake salmon. Beat egg whites until stiff. Beat yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Add salmon liquid, parsley, chives, salt, oregano, pepper, and salmon, mix well. Fold into egg whites. Pour mixture into hot buttered 10-inch frying pan and spread evenly. Cook over low heat 3 to 5 minutes or until knife inserted in the center comes out clean. Cut part way through center of omelet and fold in half. Serve immediately on a warm platter. Serves 6.

AND NOW HOW ABOUT 1968?

If you've been listening to the election predictions by now you know that everybody was right--or at least partly right.

But the analysts and the politicians are going to be up late at night for weeks trying to decide just what they were right about -- and where they went wrong.

On the national level, it's true the Republican Party made traditional gains for the out-of-power party. It's true that the war in Vietnam, inflation, the Johnson Administration's wheeling and dealing, and the "backlash" were factors in elections of members of Congress and governors.

But the factors are so confused, so ill-defined, that even a well-programmed data computer couldn't clarify what the national elections mean.

With unabashed boldness, then, we'll try to make some sense out of it, and take a look at what it means for the 1968 presidential election.

First of all, President Lyndon B. Johnson has suffered a rebuke of greater magnitude than he expected in his most pragmatic moments. He didn't lose his comfortable Democratic majority in Congress, but his predictions -- and those of many pollsters -- now look pretty silly. LBJ looked for a Democratic gain in the Senate but the Republicans appear to have taken three seats away from him. Johnson said Democratic losses in the House would be far fewer than the average 40 for an off-year election, but the GOP picked up about 45.

The President tried to imply that the "white backlash" was the great danger to the nation and the Democratic Party. He downgraded the idea that inflation was hurting anyone. With a few exceptions, the backlash turned out to be a myth, and inflation (tied to an indefinable concern about war) seems to have been a big turning point in the ballot box. The politicians had best not forget that the housewife votes, and that she votes with considerably more conviction and emotion than her husband. She may not know much about gold reserves, but she counts up the cost of groceries and household necessities.

There is little doubt that President Johnson's pressures on a lopsided Democratic 89th Congress were resented more than he expected. The Republican Party hasn't gained significant power, and LBJ may still try his armtwisting, but the GOP has acquired impressive bargaining power in Congress. Republican conservatives and moderates and Southern Democrats may not constitute a bloc, but they have a workable coalition.

The economy of the United States is the major issue facing the 90th Congress. The Vietnam question had little appreciable effect except to show discontent with the "ins" and a vague hope that new members of the legislative branch could do something to shorten the war.

Open housing is a national issue, although the election provided no mandate.

American voters showed they still want Federal services, but not on basis of wholesale profligacy. If the "Great Society" is not being pushed back into a corner, at least the idea of "creative federalism" certainly has been rejected for at least the next two years.

Did Johnson's Pacific trip and the Manila conference influence the election, as some prophesied? Has LBJ's recommendation that we hold hands with the Soviet Union been accepted? Indeed, do the voters believe that the Johnson Administration is weakening the nation with the plea for "reconciliation?" The answer lies in what columnist Roscoe Drummond wrote the other day: "I like the advice of the British historian and foreign correspondent James Morris who recently wrote: "To be loved is not the end of greatness. Do right and damn the odds might be an American motto.

Now, as to 1968, the year of the next presidential conventions and elections.

This year's voter proved we yet have a strong two-party system, with the probability of a three-party year in 1968.

The Republicans remain split between the liberal Nelson Rockefeller wing, sometimes called the Eastern Establishment, and the conservative upswing of the Reagan-Murphy-Nixon power base in California. Populous New York and California can swing a party nomination, or an election.

While Richard Nixon may not seem to fit easily into the new California Republicanism of Gov.-elect Ronald Reagan and Senator George Murphy, he is after all a Californian. And Nixon, more than any other GOP leader, campaigned for the elction of Republicans to Congress this year. After his two months of traveling on a 35,000-mile campaign featuring his coattails, a great many GOP representatives and senators will be beholden to Nixon at the 1968n Republican convention, however much it deals in in-fighting.

Speaking of splits, the Democrats are in worse trouble. We find no indication that they elected liberal governors this year. Tammany Hall in New York and the Daley machine in Chicago are in smithereens.

And as for Democratic hopes of uniting their party behind the Great Society, ex-officio Gov. George Wallace has made it crystal clear that he's now a recruiter for a third party of nationalistic Hamiltonian-type voters who are disenchanted with both major political organizations.

So it's impossible to say who on a widespread basis "won" in the 1966 election.

Poll-taker Samuel Lubell put it well a few days ago when he said the significance of the Tuesday election "will be a shift from 'green light' politics to 'yellow light' politics."

The amber light means slow down. While the new alignments pointing toward the 1968 presidential election are being assessed and formed, the yellow light is the one to watch.

Someday—A Real Christmas

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

SOMEDAY THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS will mean more in national and international affairs than it does today.

Someday there will be peace on earth.

Someday there will be good will toward men.

When?

Can it be while men hate each other, deceive one another, envy one another, rob one another?

Can it be while men, without basis, question each other's integrity instead of debating issues and ideas?

Can it be while those who boast of freedom and democracy are intolerant of the views of others in their own communities and really do not believe in freedom of speech for their fellow men?

Can it be while men malign one another and distort truth just to win an election to public office?

Can it be while men in foreign lands conspire to enslave their fellow men-to imprison them in isolated camps far from their homes and families?

Can it be while tyrants deny liberty to the individual and wield the scepters of despotism over millions of helpless persons?

Can it be while men who profess to be righteous sit down to bargain with evil regimes and to negotiate a "live and let live" philosophy that openly condones sin and cravenly runs away from the sacrifices so necessary to win a triumph for a cause that is just?

Can it be while men surrender principle and morality and excuse their conduct as necessary to meet "political expediency" in international relations?

Can it be while we prate of morals and idealism and then sell our souls amid the hypocrisies of the hour?

The world each year is reminded of Christmas in an outburst of generosity toward kin folk and friends. But the gifts mostly are of material things. The voice of the spiritual is rarely heard above the din of the crowd. We recite the rituals, but do we fulfill the words which speak the true creed?

This is an age of decaying morals and of crass materialism. The prophets of old have been silenced. The new prophets urge the advantages of compromise with evil -- they terrorize the people with a strange fear of death. They regard sacrifice as obsolete. Jesus, they argue in effect, would better have appeased the enemy.

The motivation to resist tyrannical masters at the risk of death has always been heroic, but nowadays we are asked to buy security at any price -- even at the price of ideals and moral principle.

The Great Martyr of all times had no fear of mortal death. His was to the last a voice of patience and restraint, of charity and forgiveness. There was no flinching in the test.

The lesson in the life of Jesus, well known to all of us but little heeded, is one of martyrdom for a great principle. This principle offers a firm foundation for all human relationships. It is a principle of unselfish concern for and, indeed, love on one's fellow man.

Nations will never manifest it in their relations with other nations until individuals learn its true meaning and give it effect in their daily lives.

For the principle of love is not merely affection for each other. It connotes tolerance, helpfulness, willingness to share each other's resources, and, above all, rendering unto others the respect and the consideration that equals deserve from one another.

We speak of peace as an objective. But we seldom examine the ingredients of peace that comprise the moral force of mankind.

For until the spirit that permeated the life and teachings of Jesus nearly two thousand years ago becomes the code of mankind, there will be continuous friction and misunderstanding and perhaps even war.

Peoples do not willingly fight one another. Rulers bring on war by misleading oppressed peoples, hiding the truth from them and falsely accusing other nations of threatening attack. It is the oldest crime in all history. We are conscious of its vicious impact today. Only truth can overcome it, by reaching into the hearts of men everywhere.

Someday there will be a real Christmas.

Someday the peoples of the world will rise to pay homage to the principles that will assure peace.

But the real Christmas will never come through the electric display of slogans or the myriads of tinseled trees exhibited along our thoroughfares.

The real Christmas will come when men have discovered within themselves the power that overnight can frustrate any commands issued by the despots.

The real Christmas will come when, among nations like our own and our allies, there is an impulse to follow the courageous will of a liberated Conscience.

To achieve this emancipation from the shackles of modern ideologies, we must grow a Christmas tree that doesn't wither the day after Christmas -- a tree that is nourished within our own hearts and spreads its branches from man to man as it unites us all in a world of eternal love.

Lacerda Claims Mounting Anti-Americanism in Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Carlos Lacerda, Brazil's permanent political gadfly says anti-American feeling is rising in Brazil and may explode next year.

"There is an anti-American movement developing in Brazil that cannot be called communist," Lacerda told newsmen, "and I believe some of it is justified."

The former governor of Guanabara State, covering Rio de Janeiro and its suburbs, has used the anti-Americanism he described as a weapon to attack the U.S.-backed government of President Humberto Castello Branco. Lacerda, who helped Castello Branco to power after the 1964 overthrow of President Joao Goulart, has turned against the retired army marshal.

He charges almost daily in fiery articles written for the daily newspaper Tribuna da Imprensa that Castello Branco is "delivering" Brazil to foreigners.

"I believe the Brazilian government is giving too much to some American groups," he says, without defining the groups. He names only a Brazilian capitalist and a Canadian-based power company — Brazilian Traction — when asked for examples.

He warns that President-elect Arthur da Costa e Silva, due to assume power next March, faces trouble.

"In September or October of next year, if Costa e Silva keeps to the same line, he will be in bad trouble," Lacerda asserts.

AMERICA'S FIRST Apollo crew posed with a model of their command module and service module in Houston recently and explained some of the detail of their mission, which is now scheduled for February of 1967. The three astronauts are, left to right, Virgil I. (Gus) Grissom; Edward White; and Roger Chaffee.

VOTING RIGHTS and LEGAL WRONGS

As a second example, ex-Attorney General William P. Rogers, while testifying before a Senate Committee in 1960, regarding legislation similar to that in question, stated:

"I might say, Mr. Chairman, that I have been surprised how few complaints we have had, and I would hope that if Congress does give support to these proposals, this one and the one about preserving election records, which is vitally important, that there will be greater effort on the part of the Negro to register and vote, because constitutional rights cannot be enforced unless the people attempt to exercise them."

The records are replete with similar testimony.

Q. Why do you believe the bill would pervert the Constitution?

A. The States, and the States alone, possess the right to establish qualifications for voting. Article I of the Constitution provides that, in choosing members of the House of Representatives, the electors shall have the same qualifications required for electors of the most numerous branch of the State Legislature.

The Seventeenth Amendment, respecting the election of United States Senators, reaffirms the rule.

Anyone qualified to vote for members of the most numerous branch of a State legislature is qualified to vote for members of Congress.

It would seem obvious that those not possessing the qualification to vote for State legislators are, under the terms of the Constitution, ineligible to vote for members of the United States Congress.

In other words, exercising the "right to vote" is nothing more or less than exercising the right of franchise which the person has acquired under and in accord with a State law.

Q. Have the courts of the land so held?

A. On innumerable occasions. The Supreme Court of the United States, in the early case of McPherson v. Blacker, 142 U.S. 1, stated:

"In short, the appointment and mode of appointment of electors belong exclusively to the States under the Constitution of the United States. They are, as remarked by Mr. Justice Gray in IN re Green (134 U.S. 377, 379 (33:951, 952), 'no more officers or agents of the United States than are the members of the State legislatures when acting as the electors of Federal Senators, or the people of the States when acting as the electors of Representatives in Congress.' Congress is empowered to determine the time of choosing the electors and the day on which they are to give their votes, which is required to be the same day throughout the United States, but otherwise the power and jurisdiction of the State is exclusive, with the exception of the provisions as to the number of electors, and the ineligibility of certain persons, so framed that congressional and Federal influence might be excluded."

In the case of United States v. Cruikshank et al, 92 U.S. 542, the Court said:

"In Minor v. Happersett (21 Wall. 178,22 L. Ed. 631), we decided that the Constitution of the United States has not conferred the right of suffrage upon anyone, and that the United States have no voters of their own creation in the States."

In the Minor case, supra, the Court held:

"The United States has no voters in the States of its own creation. The elective officers of the United States are elected directly or indirectly, by State voters (Emphasis added.)"

The "Uncanny" Salmon

It's uncanny, the way salmon find their way back to the fresh waters where they were born--apparently sometimes to the very same streams. And this is following one to five years of "cavorting" in the Pacific Ocean with salmon from other areas.

Ancient West Coast Indians, in fact, were so impressed by salmon that they attributed godlike powers, or at least demihuman qualities to these fish. Salmon was their "staff of life."

Though no longer revered for superhuman powers, this amazing fish receives well-earned praise for its super versatility on the table.

Salmon can be the basic ingredient for many glamorous dishes, entrees or side dishes which can be served almost any meal of the day. Yet it is equally delicious eaten just as it comes from the can--flavored by no more than a sprinkling of salt, pepper, minced onion or mayonnaise.

The flavor and texture of salmon combine well with other foods in salads, sandwiches, casseroles, hors d'oeuvres, souffles, croquettes, breads, soups and many other cooking creations.

So, why not "un-can" some salmon and whip up an attractive and flavorful dish for your family today. Canned salmon, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service, is one of our most plentiful foods currently.

DEVILED SALMON

1-pound can salmon
2 tblspns butter or other fat
2 tblspns flour
1 cup liquid (liquid from canned salmon plus milk to make volume)
1 tspn Worcestershire sauce
8 drops Tabasco sauce
2 cups fine bread cubes
1/2 tspn salt
Dash oregano
Dash pepper
2 tablspns butter or margarine

Drain salmon, reserving liquid. Flake salmon. Beat egg whites until stiff. Beat yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Add salmon liquid, parsley, chives, salt, oregano, pepper, and salmon, mix well. Fold into egg whites. Pour mixture into hot buttered 10-inch frying pan and spread evenly. Cook over low heat 3 to 5 minutes or until knife inserted in the center comes out clean. Cut part way through center of omelet and fold in half. Serve immediately on a warm platter. Serves 6.

AND NOW HOW ABOUT 1968?

If you've been listening to the election predictions by now you know that everybody was right--or at least partly right.

But the analysts and the politicians are going to be up late at night for weeks trying to decide just what they were right about -- and where they went wrong.

On the national level, it's true the Republican Party made traditional gains for the out-of-power party. It's true that the war in Vietnam, inflation, the Johnson Administration's wheeling and dealing, and the "backlash" were factors in elections of members of Congress and governors.

But the factors are so confused, so ill-defined, that even a well-programmed data computer couldn't clarify what the national elections mean.

With unabashed boldness, then, we'll try to make some sense out of it, and take a look at what it means for the 1968 presidential election.

First of all, President Lyndon B. Johnson has suffered a rebuke of greater magnitude than he expected in his most pragmatic moments. He didn't lose his comfortable Democratic majority in Congress, but his predictions -- and those of many pollsters -- now look pretty silly. LBJ looked for a Democratic gain in the Senate but the Republicans appear to have taken three seats away from him. Johnson said Democratic losses in the House would be far fewer than the average 40 for an off-year election, but the GOP picked up about 45.

The President tried to imply that the "white backlash" was the great danger to the nation and the Democratic Party. He downgraded the idea that inflation was hurting anyone. With a few exceptions, the backlash turned out to be a myth, and inflation (tied to an indefinable concern about war) seems to have been a big turning point in the ballot box. The politicians had best not forget that the housewife votes, and that she votes with considerably more conviction and emotion than her husband. She may not know much about gold reserves, but she counts up the cost of groceries and household necessities.

There is little doubt that President Johnson's pressures on a lopsided Democratic 89th Congress were resented more than he expected. The Republican Party hasn't gained significant power, and LBJ may still try his armtwisting, but the GOP has acquired impressive bargaining power in Congress. Republican conservatives and moderates and Southern Democrats may not constitute a bloc, but they have a workable coalition.

The economy of the United States is the major issue facing the 90th Congress. The Vietnam question had little appreciable effect except to show discontent with the "ins" and a vague hope that new members of the legislative branch could do something to shorten the war.

Open housing is a national issue, although the election provided no mandate.

American voters showed they still want Federal services, but not on basis of wholesale profligacy. If the "Great Society" is not being pushed back into a corner, at least the idea of "creative federalism" certainly has been rejected for at least the next two years.

Did Johnson's Pacific trip and the Manila conference influence the election, as some prophesied? Has LBJ's recommendation that we hold hands with the Soviet Union been accepted? Indeed, do the voters believe that the Johnson Administration is weakening the nation with the plea for "reconciliation?" The answer lies in what columnist Roscoe Drummond wrote the other day: "I like the advice of the British historian and foreign correspondent James Morris who recently wrote: "To be loved is not the end of greatness. Do right and damn the odds might be an American motto.

Now, as to 1968, the year of the next presidential conventions and elections.

This year's voter proved we yet have a strong two-party system, with the probability of a three-party year in 1968.

The Republicans remain split between the liberal Nelson Rockefeller wing, sometimes called the Eastern Establishment, and the conservative upswing of the Reagan-Murphy-Nixon power base in California. Populous New York and California can swing a party nomination, or an election.

While Richard Nixon may not seem to fit easily into the new California Republicanism of Gov.-elect Ronald Reagan and Senator George Murphy, he is after all a Californian. And Nixon, more than any other GOP leader, campaigned for the elction of Republicans to Congress this year. After his two months of traveling on a 35,000-mile campaign featuring his coattails, a great many GOP representatives and senators will be beholden to Nixon at the 1968n Republican convention, however much it deals in in-fighting.

Speaking of splits, the Democrats are in worse trouble. We find no indication that they elected liberal governors this year. Tammany Hall in New York and the Daley machine in Chicago are in smithereens.

And as for Democratic hopes of uniting their party behind the Great Society, ex-officio Gov. George Wallace has made it crystal clear that he's now a recruiter for a third party of nationalistic Hamiltonian-type voters who are disenchanted with both major political organizations.

So it's impossible to say who on a widespread basis "won" in the 1966 election.

Poll-taker Samuel Lubell put it well a few days ago when he said the significance of the Tuesday election "will be a shift from 'green light' politics to 'yellow light' politics."

The amber light means slow down. While the new alignments pointing toward the 1968 presidential election are being assessed and formed, the yellow light is the one to watch.

Someday— A Real Christmas

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

SOMEDAY THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS will mean more in national and international affairs than it does today.

Someday there will be peace on earth.

Someday there will be good will toward men.

When?

Can it be while men hate each other, deceive one another, envy one another, rob one another?

Can it be while men, without basis, question each other's integrity instead of debating issues and ideas?

Can it be while those who boast of freedom and democracy are intolerant of the views of others in their own communities and really do not believe in freedom of speech for their fellow men?

Can it be while men malign one another and distort truth just to win an election to public office?

Can it be while men in foreign lands conspire to enslave their fellow men-to imprison them in isolated camps far from their homes and families?

Can it be while tyrants deny liberty to the individual and wield the scepters of despotism over millions of helpless persons?

Can it be while men who profess to be righteous sit down to bargain with evil regimes and to negotiate a "live and let live" philosophy that openly condones sin and cravenly runs away from the sacrifices so necessary to win a triumph for a cause that is just?

Can it be while men surrender principle and morality and excuse their conduct as necessary to meet "political expediency" in international relations?

The world each year is reminded of Christmas in an outburst of generosity toward kin folk and friends. But the gifts mostly are of material things. The voice of the spiritual is rarely heard above the din of the crowd. We recite the rituals, but do we fulfill the words which speak the true creed?

This is an age of decaying morals and of crass materialism. The prophets of old have been silenced. The new prophets urge the advantages of compromise with evil -- they terrorize the people with a strange fear of death. They regard sacrifice as obsolete. Jesus, they argue in effect, would better have appeased the enemy.

The motivation to resist tyrannical masters at the risk of death has always been heroic, but nowadays we are asked to buy security at any price -- even at the price of ideals and moral principle.

The Great Martyr of all times had no fear of mortal death. His was to the last a voice of patience and restraint, of charity and forgiveness. There was no flinching in the test.

The lesson in the life of Jesus, well known to all of us but little heeded, is one of martyrdom for a great principle. This principle offers a firm foundation for all human relationships. It is a principle of unselfish concern for and, indeed, love on one's fellow man.

Nations will never manifest it in their relations with other nations until individuals learn its true meaning and give it effect in their daily lives.

For the principle of love is not merely affection for each other. It connotes tolerance, helpfulness, willingness to share each other's resources, and, above all, rendering unto others the respect and the consideration that equals deserve from one another.

We speak of peace as an objective. But we seldom examine the ingredients of peace that comprise the moral force of mankind.

For until the spirit that permeated the life and teachings of Jesus nearly two thousand years ago becomes the code of mankind, there will be continuous friction and misunderstanding and perhaps even war.

Peoples do not willingly fight one another. Rulers bring on war by misleading oppressed peoples, hiding the truth from them and falsely accusing other nations of threatening attack. It is the oldest crime in all history. We are conscious of its vicious impact today. Only truth can overcome it, by reaching into the hearts of men everywhere.

Someday there will be a real Christmas.

Someday the peoples of the world will rise to pay homage to the principles that will assure peace.

But the real Christmas will never come through the electric display of slogans or the myriads of tinseled trees exhibited along our thoroughfares.

The real Christmas will come when men have discovered within themselves the power that overnight can frustrate any commands issued by the despots.

The real Christmas will come when, among nations like our own and our allies, there is an impulse to follow the courageous will of a liberated Conscience.

To achieve this emancipation from the shackles of modern ideologies, we must grow a Christmas tree that doesn't wither the day after Christmas -- a tree that is nourished within our own hearts and spreads its branches from man to man as it unites us all in a world of eternal love.

Lacerda Claims Mounting Anti-Americanism in Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Carlos Lacerda, Brazil's permanent political gadfly says anti-American feeling is rising in Brazil and may explode next year.

"There is an anti-American movement developing in Brazil that cannot be called communist," Lacerda told newsmen, "and I believe some of it is justified."

The former governor of Guanabara State, covering Rio de Janeiro and its suburbs, has used the anti-Americanism he described as a weapon to attack the U.S.-backed government of President Humberto Castello Branco. Lacerda, who helped Castello Branco to power after the 1964 overthrow of President Joao Goulart, has turned against the retired army marshal.

He charges almost daily in fiery articles written for the daily newspaper Tribuna da Imprensa that Castello Branco is "delivering" Brazil to foreigners.

"I believe the Brazilian government is giving too much to some American groups," he says, without defining the groups. He names only a Brazilian capitalist and a Canadian-based power company — Brazilian Traction — when asked for examples.

He warns that President-elect Arthur da Costa e Silva, due to assume power next March, faces trouble.

"In September or October of next year, if Costa e Silva keeps to the same line, he will be in bad trouble," Lacerda asserts.

Washington Report

Sen. Stuart Symington

For Americans everywhere and for their representatives in Congress, the course of the war in Vietnam is of primary importance. In the coming session, as in the last, this must necessarily affect what may be accomplished here at home as well as our posture in other areas of the world.

TO VISIT SOUTHEAST ASIA

For these reasons, again this year as last year, I plan to visit Southeast Asia between now and the opening of the next session on January 10, and expect to be in the Far East over the Holidays.

Through discussions with our people there, including servicemen, I plan to obtain firsthand a review of this growing conflict; and on return to Washington in January, will report to the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees releasing that part of said report not classified.

In the next Congress, all our commitments abroad must be considered in the context of the monetary and fiscal problems which now confront the United States; because our economic stability is as important as our diplomatic and military position.

In the coming session, broad fiscal and monetary questions will be raised and must be answered.

A number of other legisiative matters, about which many Missourians have written, will again be considered. These will include limits on earnings by recipients of Social Security pensions, changes in the Selective Service draft law, revision of the existing federal - state unemployment compensation laws, civil rights legislation respecting housing and reform of federal and state jury systems, campaign financing and various proposals for fighting the increase in crime. Attention will continue on the problems of the cities.

As we approach the new Congress it is worthwhile to review the record of the 89th Congress. Significant legislation passed in the first session included medicare, federal aid to elementary and secondary education, and expansion of voting rights. Action in the recently adjourned second session included far-reaching antipollution measures, increases in the minimum wage, auto and highway safety bills and a "demonstration cities" plan to attack the growing problems of our cities, including poverty and blight.

There are many domestic reasons for more effective control of inflationary pressures in the United States, and the imbalance of our international payments pertinent to the inflation problem and reflected in the drain of gold reserves, is a warning which must now be recognized in more practical fashion.

It was for such reasons that I voted against foreign economic aid appropriations, and co - sponsored a resolution expressing the Sense of the Senate that United States forces in Europe should be reduced; and supported the poverty program only at the level of the Administration request, voting against amendments presented to the Senate to increase the authorization to $2.4 billion.

Let me now review some important measures enacted in this last session.

TAXES AND ECONOMIC POLICY

Receiving much publicity was the FOREIGN INVESTORS TAX ACT. Originally this legislation was designed to induce more foreign investment in the United States by providing more equitable tax treatment of foreign investments; and when it was a measure to improve our balance of payments deficit, it had my support.

Senate amendments added unrelated costs to the central purpose of the legislation which will result in a loss of some $470 million in revenues; and even though some of these provisions were meritorious, others were not. In any case, it would seem we were acting with unusual haste in approving tax changes of such special nature. Therefore, I voted against the bill.

TWO ANTI - INFLATIONARY REVENUE MEASURES PASSED.

Early in the session, Congress approved the TAX ADJUSTMENT ACT providing accelerated payment of corporate tax liabilities and a system of graduated withholding of individual income taxes. In addition, the recently reduced automobile and telephone excise taxes were restored to their December 1965, level, 10 per cent for telephones and 7 per cent for automobiles. Scheduled reduction of these taxes was postponed until April, 1968. This measure also scheduled, beginning last October, monthly payments of $35 for those 72 or older not covered by Social Security benefits or other Federal, state or local pension programs.

Late in the session, Congress approved suspension from October 10, 1966, to December 31, 1967, of the existing 7 per cent INVESTMENT TAX CREDIT. Under the law, accelerated depreciation allowances would continue for a single new building valued at $50,000 or less and the 7 per cent investment tax credit would still be available for the first $20,000 of new equipment.

When the bill came before the Senate, numerous amendments were offered to exempt from the suspension of the tax credit various transportation industries -- railroads, trucks and aircraft. The purpose of the bill had been to remove temporarily the incentives for business investment in order to ease pressures on the tight money market and to restrain inflationary pressures. Without an evenhanded application of the suspension, the bill seemed of questionable value, and I therefore voted against it.

MOVED TO INCREASE SUPPLY OF HOME MORTGAGE CAPITAL

Some remedial relief for the growing shortage of mortgage money in the home building industry and rising interest rates was provided in the FEDERAL NATIONAL MORTGAGE ACT AMENDMENTS which I supported. This increased by about $4.76 billion the purchasing authority of FNMA in order to provide more mortgage capital for home financing.

In order to assist federal officials in controlling competition between banks and savings and loans associations, authority was given for one year to the Federal Reserve Board, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board to regulate maximum rates of interest paid by banks and other financial institutions on deposits or share accounts. The Federal Home Loan Bank Board was also given authority to directly establish dividend rates that savings and loan institutions may pay.

DEFENSE AND MILITARY

The heavy cost of the Vietnam war is shown in the appropriation figures for Defense. As the year opened, Congress approved $13.1 billion in supplemental 1966 appropriations, mainly for support of Vietnam operations. As the session neared adjournment, $58.1 billion was approved for 1967 Defense Appropriations. Of this amount, Vietnam and related funds were estimated at $13 billion.

Defense appropriation legislation also authorized the President to call certain individual members of the READY RESERVE to active duty in an effort to correct existing inequities in the law on military services. The measure makes available approximately 208,000 Reservists.

Under the VIETNAM READJUSTMENT ACT, those who have served in the Armed Forces during the Vietnam era are provided benefits comparable to those received by veterans of World Wars I and II and the Korean conflict. Included are provisions for educational assistance.

STUDIES UNDERWAY ON DRAFT LAW

The current draft law expires next year. In late June, Congress began an investigation of the current system. Also President Johnson has appointed a 20 - member National Advisory Commission on Selective Service soon to make its report.

Regardless of possible changes, however, no draft system is going to be comfortable for everyone. Decisions will have to be made in the coming session and hopefully will provide the maximum degree of fairness possible.

OTHER BENEFITS FOR MILITARY

I served as chairman of the subcommittee of the Committee on Armed Services which considered and reported the MILITARY MEDICARE legislation which became law in this session. There is a new outpatient program in civilian facilities for active duty dependents, covering such matters as doctor visits and drugs; a new civilian hospitalization and outpatient program for military retireees and their dependents; and a new program of governmental financial assistance for those on active duty who have mentally retarded or physically handicapped wives or children. Cost of the first year of this program is estimated at $142 million. More than 6 million dependents and retired personnel are covered.

EDUCATION

Minor changes were made in the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 as Congress increased authorized funds for the program -- $2.3 billion for fiscal 1967 and $3.1 billion for fiscal 1968. However, the program was not funded for the amount authorized, $1.3 billion being appropriated for elementary and secondary education activities during fiscal 1967. Under the HIGHER EDUCATION ACT, $3.6 billion was authorized over a three-year period to aid construction of college facilities, to strengthen small impoverished colleges and to enlarge student loan programs.

HEALTH

Authority was granted the federal officials under the CHILD PROTECTION ACT OF 1966 to ban from sale extremely dangerous children's toys and other articles intended for household use. The law also requires that hazardous children's toys and articles be so labeled.

$186 million has been authorized through fiscal year 1969 to expand the existing program of federal grants for state, local and regional air control pollution activities. The CLEAN AIR ACT AMENDMENTS under the Clean Air Act of 1963.

The CLEAN RIVERS RESTORATION ACT OF 1966 extends for six years existing federal - state cooperation programs in waste treatment. The federal government will bear $30 per cent of the cost and the local governments will finance the balance. Additionally, the law provides for the federal government to pay up to 50 per cent of the cost in areas which have formulated acceptable plans to control water pollution in entire river basins.

AGRICULTURE

The CHILD NUTRITION ACT expanded the School Lunch Program to include a 2-year pilot breakfast program in schools drawing attendance from low-income areas or in areas where children must travel long distances. All children in eligible schools may participate, but breakfasts would be served at nominal or no cost to those local school authorities find unable to pay.

AGRICULTURAL APPROPRIATIONS BILL of $6.9 billion for 1967 included $350 million of loan authorizations for the Farmers Home Administration to help rural people get a new start in farming or expand existing operations to improve their economic positions.

The FOOD FOR PEACE ACT OF 1966 extends the foreign food aid program for two years through calendar 1968, changing the emphasis from one of surplus disposal to planned production for export. Provisions were made for sales of agricultural commodities to friendly foreign countries under agreements for 20 - year dollar credits with a two-year grace period. Whenever practicable, however, 5 per cent of the purchase price is to be paid in dollars or other hard currencies.

TRAFFIC SAFETY AND TRANSPORTATION

The TRAFFIC SAFETY ACT provides for the establishment of safety performance standards for motor vehicles beginning with 1968 models.

The URBAN MASS TRANSPORTATION ACT of 1964 has been extended through fiscal 1969. The existing grant authorization of $150 million has been retained for each fiscal year. The measure also requires research to develop new systems and provides two - thirds grants for planning, engineering, and designing.

NEW CABINET DEPARTMENT

A 12th Cabinet - level department of the Federal Government -- the DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION -- was established during this session. The new department is responsible for the development, direction and coordination of Federal highway, air and rail policies, with emphasis on safety.

Through amendments to the Interstate Commerce Act, Congress has taken a hopeful step toward the eventual solution of the BOXCAR SHORTAGES. The measure, which I co-sponsored, authorizes the Interstate Commerce Commission to establish rental rate on freight cars that would provide an incentive for the building of additional freight cars.

URBAN PROGRAMS

Two particularly controversial measures receiving approval were RENT SUPPLEMENTS and the DEMONSTRATION CITIES PROGRAM. The rent supplement programs, authorized in the first session, was designed to improve housing conditions for low - income families by paying the difference between 25 per cent of their income and their rent in standard housing. In the second session, funding of the program was in issue. Ultimately Congress provided $12 million in contractual authority for rent supplements in fiscal 1966 and $20 million for contracts in fiscal 1967. I did not support this funding.

Approval was given to the DEMONSTRATION CITIES and METROPOLITAN DEVELOPMENT ACT with my support. This plan for a renewed and concentrated attack on urban blight provides that cities selected would receive up to 80 per cent of local costs for federal grand programs in housing, welfare and urban transportation. Probably 60 to 70 cities will participate.

LABOR

The MANPOWER DEVELOPMENT TRAINING ACT OF 1962 was amended during this session to provide a necessary flexibility in the programs and in their administration. These changes will permit a more effective method of dealing with the growing problem of skill shortages in certain areas and occupations.

Nearly eight million more workers will be covered under the provision of the MINIMUM WAGE law. For the first time since 1938 when the Fair Labor Standards Act was enacted, coverage will be extended to include some agricultural workers, approximately 390,000 of the nation's 1.5 million. Minimum wage for covered agricultural employees have been established at $1 an hour beginning in 1967, to be increased to a minimum of $1.30 beginning in 1969.

The minimum wage for workers presently covered will be raised from $1.25 to $1.40 an hour beginning February 1, 1967, and to $1.60 an hour beginning February 1, 1968. This measure further provides that newly covered nonfarm workers will receive $1 an hour minimum beginning in 1967, this to be increased to a minimum of $1.60 beginning in 1971.

RESOURCE BUILDUP

This session has been one of the greatest for Missouri water projects. The MISSOURI RIVER BASIN PROJECT received increases by $60 million for fiscal years 1967 and 1968. This authorization for appropriation will be for continued work in this area.

The entire PUBLIC WORKS APPROPRIATIONS bill will provide $40,115,000 for Missouri flood control projects. Of particular significance for continued progress on water control and development in Missouri, Congress appropriated planning funds for flood protection work in the Chariton, Grand and Platte River basins authorized just last year.

Congress also enlarged the scope of the 1964 WATER RESOURCES RESEARCH ACT by authorizing $85 million over a 10 - year period in grants, matching funds for assistance to educational institutions.

INTERNATIONAL

Congress authorized $3.5 billion for foreign economic and military aid during this session. The FOREIGN ASSISTANCE ACT OF 1966 included technical assistance, limited to a number of countries for one year, through June 30, 1967, Development loans and Latin America Alliance for Progress programs, however, will receive 3-year authorizations. Due to the increased apprehension about the size and method of handling of the Foreign Aid Program and the combined steady loss of gold by this country to foreign countries resulting in our continuing unfavorable balance of payments, I voted against this measure.

MISCELLANEOUS

Approved during this session was the PET THEFT bill, which authorizes the Secretary of Agriculture to regulate the transportation, sale and handling of dogs and cats intended to be used for research or experimentation.

Action was also taken to establish a UNIFORM DAYLIGHT SAVINGS TIME throughout the United States beginning in 1967. Next year, therefore, daylight saving time will become effective nationwide from the last Sunday in April until October 30 except in those States where the Legislature votes to retain standard time for the entire state.

Lightest Mexico

by John Abney

Oaxaca, Mexico -- We were engaged in some dedicated research on Martinis and other chemicals in the sky-lighted lobby of the Hotel Monte Alban and Capn Gus Vega, the airlines gentleman, got to talking about Zapotec medicine. This being vaguely related to the experiments we were conducting. In the days before the Spanish conquest, Mr. Vega stated, the Zapotec Indians had a fair knowledge of the human body. And about the only study of anatomy they had performed was standing on the corner by the billiard academy watching Zapotec maidens swing past.

And Mr. Raymond Wright, the traveling architect, exclaimed, "Knew water was damaging to the human body. Another Martini please."

At any rate, the Zapotec medicine men worked pretty much like our modern doctors. To cure anything they had to discover the cause of illness and find a remedy which had the opposite qualities.

For instance, said Mr. Vega, things like headaches, irritations, skin diseases, measles and small pox were a result of too much heat. So the native doctors would apply wild tomatoes, castor oil plant leaves and demons (all of which have cold qualities) to the patient.

A Zapotec lady would call in their local Dr. Ben Casey to check her ailing husband. And he would put on his mask and dance around shaking rattles until he got the correct diagnosis.

Then he would say, "Basil has a bad case of irritation, ma'am. This is a hot disease so we have to get some cold medicine for him."

The anxious wife would ask, "Should I go out and pluck some castor oil plant leaves, doctor?"

And the doctor would study the patient and say, "This looks like a pretty severe case and we better not take chances. I'll apply a demon."

The Zapotecs used many plants with curative powers, some of which were discovered by today's scientists after considerable study. And finally King Phillip II of Spain sent over a medical man named Dr. Francisco Hernandez to investigate the plants of New Spain.

Mr. Vega reports that even today the medics are having stiff competition with the witch doctors in back woods areas. Modern pill pushers against centuries of concincing cures.

And in the extremely rural districts the Indians know that an emotional upset or sudden shock can cause sickness or even death. To cure this type of condition the witch doctor must be skillful and have vast experience.

First he informs the family that the patient's sould remained at the place of shock and must be called back.

Then the evil spirits that slipped into the soul's place must be driven out wit aromatic herbs and prayers. If there is one thing an evil spirit cannot tolerate, it is strong smelling herbs.

And after this is accomplished, the doctor goes to the place of the emotional upset and holds a series of discussions with the soul. It is a tedious job but in the end a reliable witch doctor can get the soul to follow him by shouting the patient's name in any empty jug.

After the soul answers with a sighing sound, the patient has to swallow hard to get it back inside him and he is then cured.

On calls like this, the wife tells the doctor, "Spencer suffered a terrible upset over by the creek yesterday and he has been lying here staring at the rafters ever since."

The doctor nods and says, "All right, get me the jug and the aromatic herbs so I can operate. And you better cut me a good fishing pole because this might take several days."

Science is a strenuous occupation and can never be taken lightly.

Awards Made For Decorations In Dexter

DEXTER -- The winners of the 1966 Christmas decorations contest were selected Saturday night by two Bernie women, Mrs. Mary Penick and Mrs. Verna Teeters.

The three categories included a prize for overall beauty which went to the R. W. Richmonds, Westwood Hills; a prize for the most beautiful spotlighted door, at the Ralph Riddle home, 122 South Walnut, and for the best decorated window the prize goes to Dr. and Mrs. Charles Loper and daughters of 725 Alice Street.

Each of the three winners will receive cash prizes of $10 each from the Statesman-Messenger, sponsor of the event for the past several years.

The prize to the Richmonds and the Riddles was a repeat from last year, since both were winners the previous year, selected by a different group of judges.

There were many beautiful decorations, and the selection was quite difficult, the judges said, as they viewed the many homes beautifully decorated for the coming holidays.

The decoration judging climaxes a summer and fall event, the "Green Thumb" award for the best yard each month during the summer and the decoration workshop held in November.

Washington Report

Sen. Stuart Symington

For Americans everywhere and for their representatives in Congress, the course of the war in Vietnam is of primary importance. In the coming session, as in the last, this must necessarily affect what may be accomplished here at home as well as our posture in other areas of the world.

TO VISIT SOUTHEAST ASIA

For these reasons, again this year as last year, I plan to visit Southeast Asia between now and the opening of the next session on January 10, and expect to be in the Far East over the Holidays.

Through discussions with our people there, including servicemen, I plan to obtain first-hand a review of this growing conflict; and on return to Washington in January, will report to the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees releasing that part of said report not classified.

In the next Congress, all our commitments abroad must be considered in the context of the monetary and fiscal problems which now confront the United States; because our economic stability is as important as our diplomatic and military position.

In the coming session, broad fiscal and monetary questions will be raised and must be answered.

A number of other legislative matters, about which many Missourians have written, will again be considered. These will include limits on earnings by recipients of Social Security pensions, changes in the Selective Service draft law, revision of the existing federal - state unemployment compensation laws, civil rights legislation respecting housing and reform of federal and state jury systems, campaign financing and various proposals for fighting the increase in crime. Attention will continue on the problems of the cities.

As we approach the new Congress it is worthwhile to review the record of the 89th Congress. Significant legislation passed in the first session included medicare, federal aid to elementary and secondary education, and expansion of voting rights. Action in the recently adjourned second session included far-reaching antipollution measures, increases in the minimum wage, auto and highway safety bills and a "demonstration cities" plan to attack the growing problems of our cities, including poverty and blight.

There are many domestic reasons for more effective control of inflationary pressures in the United States, and the imbalance of our international payments pertinent to the inflation problem and reflected in the drain of gold reserves, is a warning which must now be recognized in more practical fashion.

It was for such reasons that I voted against foreign economic aid appropriations, and co - sponsored a resolution expressing the Sense of the Senate that United States forces in Europe should be reduced; and supported the poverty program only at the level of the Administration request, voting against amendments presented to the Senate to increase the authorization to $2.4 billion.

Let me now review some important measures enacted in this last session.

TAXES AND ECONOMIC POLICY

Receiving much publicity was the FOREIGN INVESTORS TAX ACT. Originally this legislation was designed to induce more foreign investment in the United States by providing more equitable tax treatment of foreign investments; and when it was a measure to improve our balance of payments deficit, it had my support.

Senate amendments added unrelated costs to the central purpose of the legislation which will result in a loss of some $470 million in revenues; and even though some of these provisions were meritorious, others were not. In any case, it would seem we were acting with unusual haste in approving tax changes of such special nature. Therefore, I voted against the bill.

TWO ANTI - INFLATIONARY REVENUE MEASURES PASSED.

Early in the session, Congress approved the TAX ADJUSTMENT ACT providing accelerated payment of corporate tax liabilities and a system of graduated withholding of individual income taxes. In addition, the recently reduced automobile and telephone excise taxes were restored to their December 1965, level, 10 per cent for telephones and 7 per cent for automobiles. Scheduled reduction of these taxes was postponed until April, 1968. This measure also scheduled, beginning last October, monthly payments of $35 for those 72 or older not covered by Social Security benefits or other Federal, state or local pension programs.

Late in the session, Congress approved suspension from October 10, 1966, to December 31, 1967, of the existing 7 per cent INVESTMENT TAX CREDIT. Under the law, accelerated depreciation allowances would continue for a single new building valued at $50,000 or less and the 7 per cent investment tax credit would still be available for the first $20,000 of new equipment.

When the bill came before the Senate, numerous amendments were offered to exempt from the suspension of the tax credit various transportation industries -- railroads, trucks and aircraft. The purpose of the bill had been to remove temporarily the incentives for business investment in order to ease pressures on the tight money market and to restrain inflationary pressures. Without an evenhanded application of the suspension, the bill seemed of questionable value, and I therefore voted against it.

MOVED TO INCREASE SUPPLY OF HOME MORTGAGE CAPITAL

Some remedial relief for the growing shortage of mortgage money in the home building industry and rising interest rates was provided in the FEDERAL NATIONAL MORTGAGE ACT AMENDMENTS which I supported. This increased by about $4.76 billion the purchasing authority of FNMA in order to provide more mortgage capital for home financing.

In order to assist federal officials in controlling competition between banks and savings and loans associations, authority was given for one year to the Federal Reserve Board, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board to regulate maximum rates of interest paid by banks and other financial institutions on deposits or share accounts. The Federal Home Loan Bank Board was also given authority to directly establish dividend rates that savings and loan institutions may pay.

DEFENSE AND MILITARY

The heavy cost of the Vietnam war is shown in the appropriation figures for Defense. As the year opened, Congress approved $13.1 billion in supplemental 1966 appropriations, mainly for support of Vietnam operations. As the session neared adjournment, $58.1 billion was approved for 1967 Defense Appropriations. Of this amount, Vietnam and related funds were estimated at $13 billion.

Defense appropriation legislation also authorized the President to call certain individual members of the READY RESERVE to active duty in an effort to correct existing inequities in the law on military services. The measure makes available approximately 208,000 Reservists.

Under the VIETNAM READJUSTMENT ACT, those who have served in the Armed Forces during the Vietnam era are provided benefits comparable to those received by veterans of World Wars I and II and the Korean conflict. Included are provisions for educational assistance.

STUDIES UNDERWAY ON DRAFT LAW

The current draft law expires next year. In late June, Congress began an investigation of the current system. Also President Johnson has appointed a 20 - member National Advisory Commission on Selective Service soon to make its report.

Regardless of possible changes, however, no draft system is going to be comfortable for everyone. Decisions will have to be made in the coming session and hopefully will provide the maximum degree of fairness possible.

OTHER BENEFITS FOR MILITARY

I served as chairman of the subcommittee of the Committee on Armed Services which considered and reported the MILITARY MEDICARE legislation which became law in this session. There is a new outpatient program in civilian facilities for active duty dependents, covering such matters as doctor visits and drugs; a new civilian hospitalization and outpatient program for military retireees and their dependents; and a new program of governmental financial assistance for those on active duty who have mentally retarded or physically handicapped wives or children. Cost of the first year of this program is estimated at $142 million. More than 6 million dependents and retired personnel are covered.

EDUCATION

Minor changes were made in the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 as Congress increased authorized funds for the program -- $2.3 billion for fiscal 1967 and $3.1 billion for fiscal 1968. However, the program was not funded for the amount authorized, $1.3 billion being appropriated for elementary and secondary education activities during fiscal 1967. Under the HIGHER EDUCATION ACT, $3.6 billion was authorized over a three-year period to aid construction of college facilities, to strengthen small impoverished colleges and to enlarge student loan programs.

HEALTH

Authority was granted the federal officials under the CHILD PROTECTION ACT OF 1966 to ban from sale extremely dangerous children's toys and other articles intended for household use. The law also requires that hazardous children's toys and articles be so labeled.

$186 million has been authorized through fiscal year 1969 to expand the existing program of federal grants for state, local and regional air control pollution activities. The CLEAN AIR ACT AMENDMENTS under the Clean Air Act of 1963.

The CLEAN RIVERS RESTORATION ACT OF 1966 extends for six years existing federal - state cooperation programs in waste treatment. The federal government will bear $30 per cent of the cost and the local governments will finance the balance. Additionally, the law provides for the federal government to pay up to 50 per cent of the cost in areas which have formulated acceptable plans to control water pollution in entire river basins.

AGRICULTURE

The CHILD NUTRITION ACT expanded the School Lunch Program to include a 2-year pilot breakfast program in schools drawing attendance from low-income areas or in areas where children must travel long distances. All children in eligible schools may participate, but breakfasts would be served at nominal or no cost to those local school authorities find unable to pay.

AGRICULTURAL APPROPRIATIONS BILL of $6.9 billion for 1967 included $350 million of loan authorizations for the Farmers Home Administration to help rural people get a new start in farming or expand existing operations to improve their economic positions.

The FOOD FOR PEACE ACT OF 1966 extends the foreign food aid program for two years through calendar 1968, changing the emphasis from one of surplus disposal to planned production for export. Provisions were made for sales of agricultural commodities to friendly foreign countries under agreements for 20 - year dollar credits with a two-year grace period. Whenever practicable, however, 5 per cent of the purchase price is to be paid in dollars or other hard currencies.

TRAFFIC SAFETY AND TRANSPORTATION

The TRAFFIC SAFETY ACT provides for the establishment of safety performance standards for motor vehicles beginning with 1968 models.

The URBAN MASS TRANSPORTATION ACT of 1964 has been extended through fiscal 1969. The existing grant authorization of $150 million has been retained for each fiscal year. The measure also requires research to develop new systems and provides two - thirds grants for planning, engineering, and designing.

NEW CABINET DEPARTMENT

A 12th Cabinet - level department of the Federal Government -- the DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION -- was established during this session. The new department is responsible for the development, direction and coordination of Federal highway, air and rail policies, with emphasis on safety.

Through amendments to the Interstate Commerce Act, Congress has taken a hopeful step toward the eventual solution of the BOXCAR SHORTAGES. The measure, which I co-sponsored, authorizes the Interstate Commerce Commission to establish rental rate on freight cars that would provide an incentive for the building of additional freight cars.

URBAN PROGRAMS

Two particularly controversial measures receiving approval were RENT SUPPLEMENTS and the DEMONSTRATION CITIES PROGRAM. The rent supplement programs, authorized in the first session, was designed to improve housing conditions for low - income families by paying the difference between 25 per cent of their income and their rent in standard housing. In the second session, funding of the program was in issue. Ultimately Congress provided $12 million in contractual authority for rent supplements in fiscal 1966 and $20 million for contracts in fiscal 1967. I did not support this funding.

Approval was given to the DEMONSTRATION CITIES and METROPOLITAN DEVELOPMENT ACT with my support. This plan for a renewed and concentrated attack on urban blight provides that cities selected would receive up to 80 per cent of local costs for federal grand programs in housing, welfare and urban transportation. Probably 60 to 70 cities will participate.

LABOR

The MANPOWER DEVELOPMENT TRAINING ACT OF 1962 was amended during this session to provide a necessary flexibility in the programs and in their administration. These changes will permit a more effective method of dealing with the growing problem of skill shortages in certain areas and occupations.

Nearly eight million more workers will be covered under the provision of the MINIMUM WAGE law. Dexter Parade Features

"Keeping Christ In Christmas" Theme

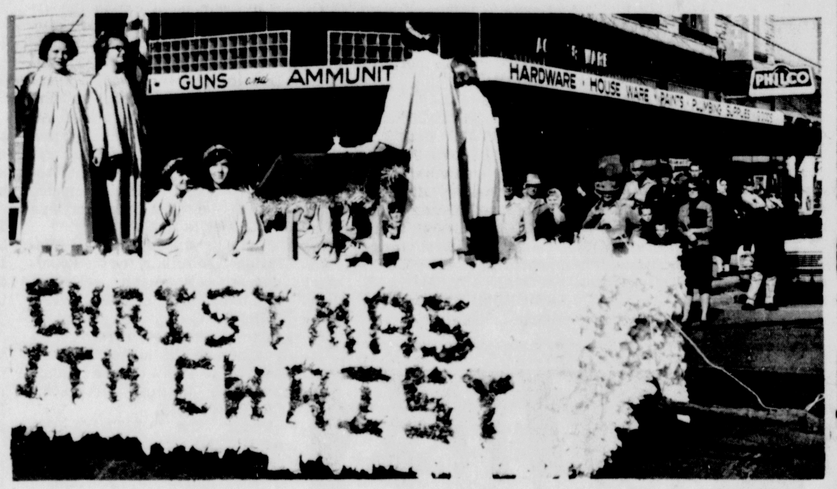
Family worship at Christmas time was the theme of the South Pleasant General Baptist church, north of Essex.



Keeping Christ in Christmas was the theme of the Dexter parade Saturday.

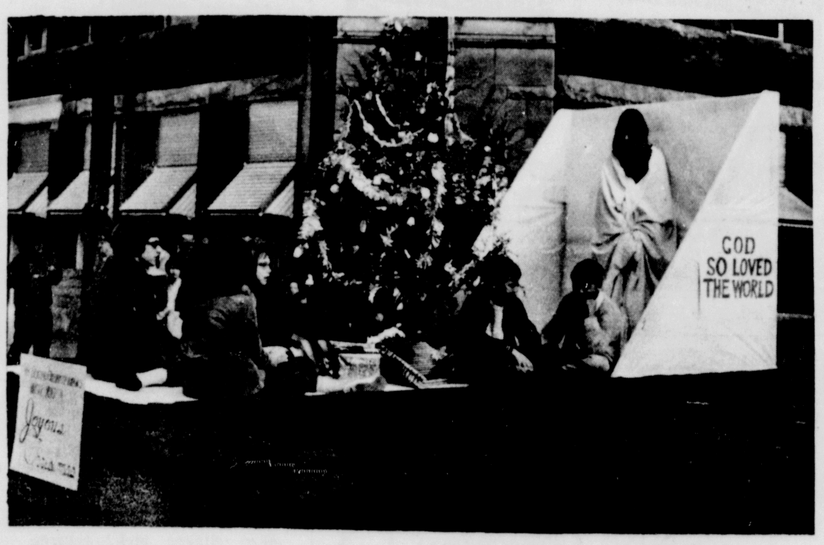
The wise men came to worship the Christ child, a float sponsored by the First Church of the Nazarene in Dexter.

The mighty Dexter high school band passes in review contributing holiday music for the theme of Keeping Christ in Christmas.

Three Wise Men point to the Star in the East, a float sponsored by the Southwest Nazarene church of Dexter.

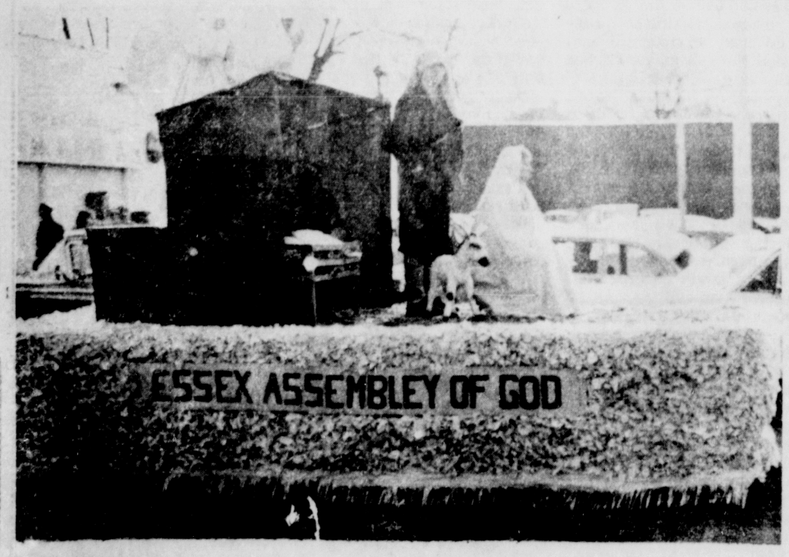
The Essex Methodist church present a manger scene with Mary and Joseph and the Christ child, the wise men and the angels.

Choral singers of the Dexter Second General Baptist church sing out with the Christmas story.



Sunday School children around a Christmas tree hear the Christmas story.

Richland high school band, led by majorettes, adds Christmas music to the parade.



The manger scene of the Christ child, sponsored by the Essex Assembly of God church.

Police were busy directing traffic on Dexter streets. Thousands gathered along the parade route.

Santa's Role Eyed for Research

MADISON, Wis. AP --"Santa Claus is an American figure" and the nature of the jolly old gentleman's role as the bearer of Christmas gifts could stand more research, a university sociologist said today.

Santa Claus is "not closely related to the old Dutch St. Nicholas, and is somewhat unique," said Warren O. Hagstrom, associate professor of sociology at the University of Wisconsin.

"He and the Three Wise Men are in competition," Hagstrom added. "It's worth looking into -- the role of Santa Claus in gift giving.

"Why should parents give presents to their kids in the name of Santa Claus? Gift giving doesn't seem to have much of a role anymore, as it did in ancient families. Now there is a subtle reciprocity expected.

"A gift becomes not subtle at all, but a bribe. The thing with Santa Claus is that a parent's gift is a bribe, but a gift via Santa is morally uncontaminated."

Hagstrom discussed Santa in an interview about his article -- entitled "What is the Meaning of Santa Claus?" -- in the latest issue of the American Sociologist, a professional quarterly published by the American Sociological Association.

Santa Claus also appears to be puzzling numerous parents, it says, adding: "Casual observation suggests considerable variation in the degree to which Santa is used as a child control device. Parents tell children that rewards from Santa are contingent upon good behavior. We need information on the social determinants of these aspects of the behavior of Santa Claus."

Hagstrom did not explain how research into Santa's behavior should be conducted.

MI NEW DAYTIME

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Only a devoted fan of the assorted televised beauty pageants could truly appreciate the new daytime program launched Monday by ABC. It is called "Dream Girl of '67."

In one half-hour, the producers somehow managed to squeeze in most of the worst aspects of the pageants and the cliches of daytime guessing games.

Inspired by the big Nielsen ratings built by the evening beauty contests, the new show each day will present four comely young women, to contend for "the coveted title of dream girl of 1967." This, should the show last that long, will be awarded at some date in the future.

The young women were paraded self-consciously before three male judges — as usual, actors with movies to plug — and asked questions such as "What would you take with you to live on the moon?" and, "What are your beauty secrets?"

The answers were alleged to reveal the contenders' "beauty, intelligence, poise — everything!" After that, the girls had to mince around wearing high-style pajamas in a sort of fashion show. The judges voted one girl in, and she walked proudly down a runway — without the usual tears but every inch a contender for the dream girl crown.

It is a boring show.

Music Teachers Will Convene at Cape Session

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Hundreds of music teachers will meet at Southeast Missouri State College for the 30th annual conference of the Missouri Music Educators Association Jan. 5-7.

The three-day program will include exhibits, discussion groups and clinics on nearly every aspect of music and music education.

In addition, there will be business meetings of the Association's various committees, and two meetings of the executive board. The first board meeting will be held on the Wednesday prior to the opening of the convention, with an evaluation meeting scheduled to be held immediately following the close of the convention.

College and public school music groups will be featured at many of the convention's clinics. Those participating include: Cape Central Junior High School; Rolla Junior High School; Northeast Missouri State Teachers College; Southeast Missouri State College; Festus High School; elementary schools of Cape Girardeau; Cape Girardeau Central High School; Central Missouri State College; DeSoto High School; St. Francois Central High School; Farmington High School; Potosi High School; Berkeley High School; Poplar Bluff High School; and Lebanon High School.

Two clinic features will be performances by the Southeast Missouri All-District High School Band and the Chicago Little Symphony.

The Little Symphony, conducted by Thor Johnson, will also present a public concert Jan. 6, at Academic Auditorium at 8:15 p.m.

Groups meeting during the convention include Past Presidents, Elementary Supervisors, American Choral Directors Association, Student Membership Committee, Student Chapter Sponsors and the Executive Board.

Other highlight events include Southeast Missouri State College night, to be held at 8 p.m. Jan. 5 in Academic Auditorium; The MMEA Banquet, to be held at 6 p.m. Jan. 6 in Memorial Hall Ballroom; and the recognition of 25-year school music educators, to be held at the fourth general session in Academic Auditorium on Jan. 7 at 11:45 a.m.

State officers of the group include George M. Turmail, president, Ladue.

Oysters were exported from the Thames estuary to Rome as early as A.D. 80.

SHOP EARLY FOR CHRISTMAS !

Santa's Role Eyed for Research

MADISON, Wis. AP --"Santa Claus is an American figure" and the nature of the jolly old gentleman's role as the bearer of Christmas gifts could stand more research, a university sociologist said today.

Santa Claus is "not closely related to the old Dutch St. Nicholas, and is somewhat unique," said Warren O. Hagstrom, associate professor of sociology at the University of Wisconsin.

"He and the Three Wise Men are in competition," Hagstrom added. "It's worth looking into -- the role of Santa Claus in gift giving.

"Why should parents give presents to their kids in the name of Santa Claus? Gift giving doesn't seem to have much of a role anymore, as it did in ancient families. Now there is a subtle reciprocity expected.

"A gift becomes not subtle at all, but a bribe. The thing with Santa Claus is that a parent's gift is a bribe, but a gift via Santa is morally uncontaminated."

Hagstrom discussed Santa in an interview about his article -- entitled "What is the Meaning of Santa Claus?" -- in the latest issue of the American Sociologist, a professional quarterly published by the American Sociological Association.

Santa Claus also appears to be puzzling numerous parents, it says, adding: "Casual observation suggests considerable variation in the degree to which Santa is used as a child control device. Parents tell children that rewards from Santa are contingent upon good behavior. We need information on the social determinants of these aspects of the behavior of Santa Claus."

Hagstrom did not explain how research into Santa's behavior should be conducted.

MI NEW DAYTIME

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Only a devoted fan of the assorted televised beauty pageants could truly appreciate the new daytime program launched Monday by ABC. It is called "Dream Girl of '67."

In one half-hour, the producers somehow managed to squeeze in most of the worst aspects of the pageants and the cliches of daytime guessing games.

Inspired by the big Nielsen ratings built by the evening beauty contests, the new show each day will present four comely young women, to contend for "the coveted title of dream girl of 1967." This, should the show last that long, will be awarded at some date in the future.

The young women were paraded self-consciously before three male judges — as usual, actors with movies to plug — and asked questions such as "What would you take with you to live on the moon?" and, "What are your beauty secrets?"

The answers were alleged to reveal the contenders' "beauty, intelligence, poise — everything!" After that, the girls had to mince around wearing high-style pajamas in a sort of fashion show. The judges voted one girl in, and she walked proudly down a runway — without the usual tears but every inch a contender for the dream girl crown.

It is a boring show.

Music Teachers Will Convene at Cape Session

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Hundreds of music teachers will meet at Southeast Missouri State College for the 30th annual conference of the Missouri Music Educators Association Jan. 5-7.

The three-day program will include exhibits, discussion groups and clinics on nearly every aspect of music and music education.

In addition, there will be business meetings of the Association's various committees, and two meetings of the executive board. The first board meeting will be held on the Wednesday prior to the opening of the convention, with an evaluation meeting scheduled to be held immediately following the close of the convention.

College and public school music groups will be featured at many of the convention's clinics. Those participating include: Cape Central Junior High School; Rolla Junior High School; Northeast Missouri State Teachers College; Southeast Missouri State College; Festus High School; elementary schools of Cape Girardeau; Cape Girardeau Central High School; Central Missouri State College; DeSoto High School; St. Francois Central High School; Farmington High School; Potosi High School; Berkeley High School; Poplar Bluff High School; and Lebanon High School.

Two clinic features will be performances by the Southeast Missouri All-District High School Band and the Chicago Little Symphony.

The Little Symphony, conducted by Thor Johnson, will also present a public concert Jan. 6, at Academic Auditorium at 8:15 p.m.

Groups meeting during the convention include Past Presidents, Elementary Supervisors, American Choral Directors Association, Student Membership Committee, Student Chapter Sponsors and the Executive Board.

Other highlight events include Southeast Missouri State College night, to be held at 8 p.m. Jan. 5 in Academic Auditorium; The MMEA Banquet, to be held at 6 p.m. Jan. 6 in Memorial Hall Ballroom; and the recognition of 25-year school music educators, to be held at the fourth general session in Academic Auditorium on Jan. 7 at 11:45 a.m.

State officers of the group include George M. Turmail, president, Ladue.

Oysters were exported from the Thames estuary to Rome as early as A.D. 80.

The Prayer For Today

From The Upper Room

There was no room for them in the inn. (Luke 2:7)

PRAYER: Dear Lord, we are ashamed that so often our hearts become full of worldy cares that we have little room left for the right things. Help us to rid our hearts of the trivial, so that there will be room for Thee. In Thy name we pray. Amen.

Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: I wonder how many parents are making the same mistake my parents made many years ago. When I was a small lad, the doctor said Dad had heart trouble. We kids were told that Dad might drop dead any minute. Whenever he got a pain in his chest or his stomach we were all sure he was dying. We were scared out of our wits when Dad went to bed not feeling well. We would stay up half the night listening at the door to make sure he was still breathing.

When I was 17 I began to have heart-pounding spells. I was sure I had inherited Dad's heart trouble. The doctor said I was O.K. but I didn't believe him. I went from doctor to doctor but nobody could find anything wrong with my heart. I suspected they were lying.

Today I am 55 years old. I have raised a family but I have never been happy because all my life I have been worried about dying. Oh yes, I ought to tell you that my dad died at 69 years of age, of cancer.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband I were sitting around last night talking because the TV broke down. In a teasing mood I asked Vernon what he was going to give me for Christmas. He replied, "Your teeth cost over $250. That's your Christmas present."

I said, "You're kidding." Vernon answered, "I've never been more serious in my life."

What do you think of a husband who would be so cheap? What am I going to tell people when they ask what Vernon gave me for Christmas? --DISAPPOINTED WIFE

Dear Wife: There are still three shopping days left till Christmas. I'll bet Vernon buys you a little gift to go along with the teeth. Even if he bought you a single red rose - it would make 33 gifts in all. Good luck.

Dear Ann Landers: Do you have a solution to the problem of people who are always late? One couple in our crowd never get anyplace on time. If the card game is called for 8:00 o'clock, they show up at 9:15. If it's dinner, they are an hour late and the hostess is furious. We have missed the first half hour of dozens of movies on account of these people.

I, for one, am fed up on their rudeness, but my husband says we should accept them for their many good qualities and overlook this one fault.

To the Editor:

It is unfortunate but I and my company must take a jaundiced view of the so-called war on poverty job training, state agencies, unemployment bureaus, etc., which exist to try and get the jobless gainfully employed. I have seen no direct results or accomplishments from these new programs.

It appears to me the country would be better off and possibly farther ahead to take the monies provided for these programs and dole them out to the unemployed in order to stop them floating around from job to job, creating problems and taking up company time required in hiring and firing.

We have found the best method to gain satisfactory employes is to advertise in the newspapers. Here, we find truly unemployed people desiring a job. These people stay on the job and are happy to work overtime when it is offered.

We have found very few people are willing to work overtime these days. They think a five-day, 40-hour week is sufficient for their needs and consider it a favor to the company if they work one or two hours overtime or come in on Saturday.

As we all know, overtime is on a time and a half pay basis and on Sundays and-or holidays, double pay basis. The majority of our employes just aren't interested.

This becomes a national problem because in my lifetime I have found that the country grew and prospered from hard working people with a desire to make more money. What has happened to drive and ambition in the labor market -- to want to become bosses and owners of businesses?

Each year, it seems, I find fewer people interested in becoming a boss (this includes college graduates).

This nation is becoming depleted in skilled labor because it is becoming a lazy nation, and the laziness is being compounded by the give-away programs in our government. It is a shame that our government rewards people for not working.

We have been "putting it on the cuff" so long that our cuff already is longer than our sleeve.

"Horse Latitudes"

One theory of how the "horse latitudes," a region noted for its calms, got that name is that sailing vessels carrying horses to the New World would, when becalmed, be forced to cast some of the horses overboard to lighten the vessel and take advantage of whatever breeze might be stirring.

Optical Illusion Gets Blame for Plane Collision

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Civil Aeronautics Board blamed today an optical illusion for the two-mile-high collision last December of two airliners with 112 persons aboard about 50 miles north of New York City. Four persons died in the accident.

One plane - a four-engine jet from San Francisco - landed at John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York City with 25 feet of its left wing missing. The other - a four-engine propeller craft on the Boston-Newark, N.J., shuttle - crashed into a rural hillside near the New York - Connecticut border.

The board said the probable cause of the collision was a misjudgment in altitude by the crew of the Eastern Air Lines shuttle because of an optical illusion created by the up-slope effect of cloud tops.

This, the board said, made it appear as if the plane were on a collision course, although both were at their proper altitudes-the Trans World Airlines Boeing 707 jet at 11,000 feet and the Eastern Air Lines Constellation at 10,000 feet.

The illusion prompted the crew of the Eastern shuttle to make an evasive maneuver - a sharp climb - while the crew of the jet made a right bank, the board said.

Bat Radar

Long before man invented radar, the bat had a perfect radar system of its own. It is supersensitive to sound waves and the sounds it utters in flight, thrown back to it by the objects around the bat, give it a very good idea of the surroundings in the dark.

The Prayer For Today

From The Upper Room

There was no room for them in the inn. (Luke 2:7)

PRAYER: Dear Lord, we are ashamed that so often our hearts become full of worldy cares that we have little room left for the right things. Help us to rid our hearts of the trivial, so that there will be room for Thee. In Thy name we pray. Amen.

Wood River E. L. Sparks

To the Editor:

It is unfortunate but I and my company must take a jaundiced view of the so-called war on poverty job training, state agencies, unemployment bureaus, etc., which exist to try and get the jobless gainfully employed. I have seen no direct results or accomplishments from these new programs.

It appears to me the country would be better off and possibly farther ahead to take the monies provided for these programs and dole them out to the unemployed in order to stop them floating around from job to job, creating problems and taking up company time required in hiring and firing.

We have found the best method to gain satisfactory employes is to advertise in the newspapers. Here, we find truly unemployed people desiring a job. These people stay on the job and are happy to work overtime when it is offered.

We have found very few people are willing to work overtime these days. They think a five-day, 40-hour week is sufficient for their needs and consider it a favor to the company if they work one or two hours overtime or come in on Saturday.

As we all know, overtime is on a time and a half pay basis and on Sundays and-or holidays, double pay basis. The majority of our employes just aren't interested.

This becomes a national problem because in my lifetime I have found that the country grew and prospered from hard working people with a desire to make more money. What has happened to drive and ambition in the labor market -- to want to become bosses and owners of businesses?

Each year, it seems, I find fewer people interested in becoming a boss (this includes college graduates).

This nation is becoming depleted in skilled labor because it is becoming a lazy nation, and the laziness is being compounded by the give-away programs in our government. It is a shame that our government rewards people for not working.

We have been "putting it on the cuff" so long that our cuff already is longer than our sleeve.

Dear Santa Claus,

I have been a good girl this year, I think. I am in the 2nd grade. My teacher is very nice, her name is Mrs. Lohr. For Christmas I would like a doll named Tickles, a watch, shoes, and some clothes, and some games.

Love,
Doris Beck

P. S. I will leave the front door open, and some cookies and hot chocolate milk on the table.

Dear Santa,

I am 10 years old and for Christmas I would like a 10 Transister radio, Pee Wee and their house, 4 games, necklace watch, and that's about all, Santa. I will leave the door open because we only have a furnace and not a fire place. Don't forget my piano teacher her stocking is hanging over the fire place so don't get it dirty.

Love,
Kathy Beck

Morehouse Residents Visit in Arkanas

MOREHOUSE --- Mrs. Bertha Savage and brother, Lewis Cossey, went to Memphis, Tenn., last week, where their sister, Mrs. Erna Murdock, joined them. All three went on to North Little Rock, Ark., to visit another sister, Mrs. Vetta Rambo. The four then went to visit their brother, Grady Cossey and family of Rolland, Ark. This was the first time in 15 years that all were together.

The Mary Martha class of the First Baptist church had their Christmas party in the church basement Tuesday. Guests were the members of the Tell Class, Mrs. Edna Boswell, Mrs. Tom Sheeter, Mrs. Pearl Starks, Mrs. Mont Frank and Mrs. Glen Bohannon, teacher.

Members of the Mary Martha class attending were Misses Thelma and Nellie Reynolds, Mrs. Woodrow Proctor, Mrs. Bill McFarling, Mrs. Bill Gurley, Mrs. M. H. Northcutt, Mrs. Virgil Oliver, Mrs. W. A. Johnson, Mrs. Ed Orr, Mrs. Bernice Bryant, Mrs. Marion Clark, Mrs. Byron Patterson and Mrs. O. D. Henning, teacher.

Mrs. Pearl Starks led in prayer before the supper, which was potluck. After supper, Mrs. Henning read the Christmas story. Gifts were exchanged and carols sung.

Mrs. Zita Schindler visited her sister, Mrs. Ethel Moore of Perryville on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ernst visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Ernst of Perryville on Sunday.

Mrs. Jerry Dixon of West Memphis, Ark., is visiting with her mother, Mrs. Zita Schindler, and will stay until Christmas.

"Horse Latitudes"

One theory of how the "horse latitudes," a region noted for its calms, got that name is that sailing vessels carrying horses to the New World would, when becalmed, be forced to cast some of the horses overboard to lighten the vessel and take advantage of whatever breeze might be stirring.

MRS. VIVIAN LEWIS has joined the sales force and office staff of Campbell Appliance. Mrs. Lewis is a graduate of Republic, Mo., high school and attended the Draughon's Business College in Springfield. She and her husband, Chuck, have two children and live at 825 William St.

Optical Illusion Gets Blame for Plane Collision

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Civil Aeronautics Board blamed today an optical illusion for the two-mile-high collision last December of two airliners with 112 persons aboard about 50 miles north of New York City. Four persons died in the accident.

One plane - a four-engine jet from San Francisco - landed at John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York City with 25 feet of its left wing missing. The other - a four-engine propeller craft on the Boston-Newark, N.J., shuttle - crashed into a rural hillside near the New York - Connecticut border.

The board said the probable cause of the collision was a misjudgment in altitude by the crew of the Eastern Air Lines shuttle because of an optical illusion created by the up-slope effect of cloud tops.

This, the board said, made it appear as if the plane were on a collision course, although both were at their proper altitudes- the Trans - World Airlines Boeing 707 jet at 11,000 feet and the Eastern Air Lines Constellation at 10,000 feet.

The illusion prompted the crew of the Eastern shuttle to make an evasive maneuver - a sharp climb - while the crew of the jet made a right bank, the board said.

Bat Radar

Long before man invented radar, the bat had a perfect radar system of its own. It is supersensitive to sound waves and the sounds it utters in flight, thrown back to it by the objects around the bat, give it a very good idea of the surroundings in the dark.

Attorneys for Mrs. Kennedy have drawn up a memorandum of law that they prepared for court today citing legal precedents for her suit and outlining the legal basis.

A hearing on the suit is scheduled for next Tuesday.

It was reported that Harper & Row, which plans to bring out the 300,000-word book in hard cover next April, would be willing to go along with the changes hammered out by the Look representatives and Goodwin.

Look is going ahead with plans to publish a four-part, 60,000 - word serialization of the book beginning in the issue scheduled to go on the newsstands Jan. 10.

While Look and Mrs. Kennedy appeared approaching an agreement, Don Congdon, literary agent for Manchester, said the author was determined to resist changes in the book demanded by Mrs. Kennedy, who alleges invasion of privacy and breach of agreement.

Manchester was understood to have been absent from Tuesday's meeting. It was said that he was being kept informed.

A source close to the Kennedy family said Mrs. Kennedy's main objections center on details dealing with the disposition, preparation and burial of her husband's body.

"Also," the source said, "she objects to the extent of the president's injuries, which is clinical, gruesome detail, and a couple of letters among other things."

From various persons who have read the manuscript, it was learned that Mrs. Kennedy specifically had objected to these other sections:

—Her reaction to being informed that Lee Harvey Oswald had been identified as her husband's assassin. "That's absurd," she was reported to have said. "He (President Kennedy) didn't even have the satisfaction of being killed for civil rights. It had to be some silly, little Communist."

—Manchester's detailed account of how she used petroleum jelly to slip her wedding ring from her finger and place it on her husband's hand. Her ring was later removed from the president's hand at Bethesda Naval Hospital. Mrs. Kennedy reportedly wore the diamond, emerald ring Monday night when she attended a performance here of the Broadway musical "Cabaret."

—A portion dealing with how she should tell her daughter, Caroline, then 5, that her father had been killed. Mrs. Kennedy reportedly asked her mother, Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, whether she felt it would be better for Caroline's nurse to tell the girl or whether she should tell Caroline herself. Mrs. Auchincloss reportedly took matters in her own hands and asked the nurse, Maud Shaw, to tell Caroline of the president's death.

—An account in Mrs. Kennedy's own words of the last night she spent with the president before moving on to Dallas on the tragic day of Nov. 22, 1963.

—Quotations from a love letter to her husband.

Goodwin said Tuesday members of the Kennedy family also were upset about the references to President Johnson in the book, that they felt Manchester had treated the President in an unfair manner and that once the book was published it might have an adverse effect on Robert Kennedy's political future.

Another source close to the Kennedy family also said members were upset about the references to President Johnson in the book, that they felt Manchester had treated the President in an unfair manner and that once the book was published it might have an adverse effect on Robert Kennedy's political future.

"The family decided that they would have to let that go," the source said. "They couldn't put Jackie through a lawsuit just for the sake of somebody's political career."

Winter to Bring Mercury Drop

KANSAS CITY AP - Winter will arrive in Missouri Thursday with a little colder weather and prospects of snow.

The official arrival time of the season is 1:29 a.m.

It will be cooler in most of the state and the weatherman says there is a chance for snow developing tonight in the east and central sections and continuing Thursday.

The lows tonight will be from 18 to 28 in the north to around 30 along the south border. The highs Thursday will be in the mid 40s to the low 50s in the northwest and in the upper 20s and low 30s in the east and south.

St. Joseph had the state's low of 20 this morning.

Legislators Eye Plush Motels in State Parks

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - Revision of the state park law to clear the road for construction of plush motels in places like Table Rock Park won tentative approval of a special legislative study committee Tuesday.

But the committee took no action on a proposal to deed Alley, Round and Big Spring state parks to the national scenic riverways on Current and Jack's Fork rivers.

Chairman William Fickle, D-Parkville, said if any such bill is introduced it would be only an authorization for the state Park Board to make the decision.

Under the revised park law, a concessionaire's contract could run from two to a maximum of 25 years. And a requirement a resort operator put up an original investment of $1 million was stricken.

Promoters of a proposed luxury motel at Table Rock Park have been blocked by that financial obstacle.

Park law enforcement also would be strengthened by allowing any authorized park board employe to make an arrest and requiring all law enforcement officials to help enforce the park laws.

Mushrooms Add Elegant Note To Beef Loaf

Elegance and ease go hand in hand in this beef loaf. Mushrooms give an ordinary meat loaf high style while onion soup in dehydrated form adds quick flavor.

To distribute the flavors smoothly, thorough but light mixing is essential in meat loaves, advises meat authority, Reba Staggs. Overmixing, however, will make them less tender.

Pouring the milk over the soft bread crumbs makes it easy to blend the mixture with ground beef. The meat should consist of 70 to 75% lean and 25 to 30% suet for best results. Time the baking (roasting) of the loaf carefully so it does not shrink by overcooking.

Beef Mushroom Loaf

2 pounds ground beef
¾ cup milk
1½ cups soft bread crumbs
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 package (1½ ounces) dehydrated onion soup
1 can (4 ounces) mushroom stems and pieces
¼ cup catsup
2 eggs, beaten

Pour milk over bread crumbs. Add ground beef, salt, pepper, soup, mushrooms and mushroom liquid, catsup and eggs. Mix thoroughly. Pack in a 9 x 5-inch loaf pan. Bake in a slow oven (325° F.) 1½ hours. 8 servings.

Airport Bomb Suspect Held

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Vern Allen Lyon, a young aerospace engineer charged in a federal warrant with placing a homemade dynamite bomb in the terminal of Lambert-St. Louis Airport, was described Tuesday by his landlady as a "quiet, awful quiet man."

"He was an awful nice man, but quiet - awful quiet," said Mrs. Mollie B. Lorts in whose suburban Overland home Lyon rented an upstairs room.

The 23-year-old Iowa State University graduate, on probationary status as an engineer at McDonnel Co. in St. Louis, was arrested by St. Louis County detectives and the FBI at his desk Tuesday.

He was charged in a warrant and ordered held in lieu of $15,000 bond after detectives and agents said they found seven sticks of dynamite and several blasting caps in his room. A hearing was set for Dec. 28 by Federal Commissioner William O. 'Toole.

Lyon denied the charge.

A time bomb in a shoebox, made of four sticks of dynamite, an alarm clock and two batteries, exploded in the airport terminal Saturday, shattering seven large windows and causing other damages. More than 1,000 persons were evacuated from the terminal after a custodian found the bomb benath a row of chairs. No one was injured.

Lyon, described by associates as "pretty much of a loner," was to have been married in his hometown of Boone, Iowa, last month, but the wedding was called off, said Major F. J. Vasel, chief of St. Louis County Detectives.

"It seems that he was jilted," said Vasel, who said state warrants from Missouri would be sought against Lyon today. The crime can be punishable by death in Missouri. It carries penalties of up to 20 years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine in federal courts.

The federal complaint issued Monday said, in part, the bomb had been placed in the airport "with intent to disable and wreck aircraft in the vicinity."

An Assistant U.S. Attorney said Lyon had reportedly talked with several persons about how to make a dynamite bomb. Vasel said a witness told him Lyon bought several sticks of the explosive before the bomb incident.

Neosho Teengers Go All out to Build New Recreation Center

By BILL BALL
The Neosho Daily News
For The Associated Press

NEOSHO, Mo. (AP) — What does a person do when the place used for recreation is burned down? Many people would complain and try to get a bond issue approved for a new building.

But not the teenagers of Neosho. They believe that since it was their building, they should be the ones to raise money for a new center.

The Community Recreation Center here burned down Dec. 11. The teenagers got together and launched a fun-raising campaign. Not just a local affair, but one that is nation-wide. And they hope to enlist the aid of a television personality, Dick Van Dyke, to get the job done.

Wes Langland, president of the Teen Town Council, explained it this way:

"The CRC was used mostly by teenagers, so why shouldn't it be up to the teenagers to replace it. We think we should and we hope we can."

During World War II it was used as a USO center for the 100,000 Signal Corps troops who trained at nearby Camp Crowder. The place was busy every night, and jammed on the week-ends. It was definitely "a home away from home" for the servicemen.

After the Korean War the Neosho School District obtained the building from the General Services Administration and used it to house a kindergarten class. Later, a Missouri State Training Center for the Mentally Retarded was housed there and, finally in the late 1950s, a city recreation department and the name was changed to CRC.

Two years ago the school district deeded the property to the city's recreation department, with the condition that the kindergarten classes could be housed there as long as necessary.

But the building was used for many more things. It was the site of the weekly Teen Town Council dances and Neosho High School Homecoming dances. Volley ball leagues were held there. Youngsters came there to play pool, table tennis, basketball, shuffleboard and others. It housed an art class. It was used for square dancing, but most of all it was the hangout of the town's teenagers.

Now it is in ashes and the youngsters have no place to spend their spare time. So they are working to get a new one.

Their plan, Langland said, is this:

"We are trying to get $1 from every ex-serviceman who was stationed at Camp Crowder. We believe that they will want to chip in and help us out. We also want to get Dick Van Dyke, who was stationed there and used Camp Crowder on his television shows, to give us some plugs. We believe we can raise this money. We don't want the people of Neosho to pay any more taxes. It was our center and it is up to us to replace it."

"This is the most enthusiastic bunch of kids I have ever seen," said Marvin Sprigg, recreation director and sponsor of the Teen Town Council. "They have a goal set and I would bet anything that they can reach it. They are certainly to be admired for their zeal and their enthusiasm. But more than that, they are to be admired for taking this project on their own. They started thinking about it before the fire was even put out."

Now, they are watching the mail for contributions addressed to the "Recreation Building Fund."

Minot, N.D., with a population of about 30,000, has 300 acres of parks within its boundaries, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

"He was an awful nice man, but quiet - awful quiet," said Mrs. Mollie B. Lorts in whose suburban Overland home Lyon rented an upstairs room.

The 23-year-old Iowa State University graduate, on probationary status as an engineer at McDonnel Co. in St. Louis, was arrested by St. Louis County detectives and the FBI at his desk Tuesday.

He was charged in a warrant and ordered held in lieu of $15,000 bond after detectives and agents said they found seven sticks of dynamite and several blasting caps in his room. A hearing was set for Dec. 28 by Federal Commissioner William O. 'Toole.

Lyon denied the charge.

A time bomb in a shoebox, made of four sticks of dynamite, an alarm clock and two batteries, exploded in the airport terminal Saturday, shattering seven large windows and causing other damages. More than 1,000 persons were evacuated from the terminal after a custodian found the bomb benath a row of chairs. No one was injured.

Lyon, described by associates as "pretty much of aloner," was to have been married in his hometown of Boone, Iowa, last month, but the wedding was called off, said Major F. J. Vasel, chief of St. Louis County Detectives.

"It seems that he was jilted," said Vasel, who said state warrants from Missouri would be sought against Lyon today. The crime can be punishable by death in Missouri. It carries penalties of up to 20 years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine in federal courts.

The federal complaint issued Monday said, in part, the bomb had been placed in the airport "with intent to disable and wreck aircraft in the vicinity."

An Assistant U.S. Attorney said Lyon had reportedly talked with several persons about how to make a dynamite bomb. Vasel said a witness told him Lyon bought several sticks of the explosive before the bomb incident.

Neosho Teengers Go All out to Build New Recreation Center

By BILL BALL
The Neosho Daily News
For The Associated Press

NEOSHO, Mo. (AP) — What does a person do when the place used for recreation is burned down? Many people would complain and try to get a bond issue approved for a new building.

But not the teenagers of Neosho. They believe that since it was their building, they should be the ones to raise money for a new center.

The Community Recreation Center here burned down Dec. 11. The teenagers got together and launched a fun-raising campaign. Not just a local affair, but one that is nation-wide. And they hope to enlist the aid of a television personality, Dick Van Dyke, to get the job done.

Wes Langland, president of the Teen Town Council, explained it this way:

"The CRC was used mostly by teenagers, so why shouldn't it be up to the teenagers to replace it. We think we should and we hope we can."

During World War II it was used as a USO center for the 100,000 Signal Corps troops who trained at nearby Camp Crowder. The place was busy every night, and jammed on the week-ends. It was definitely "a home away from home" for the servicemen.

After the Korean War the Neosho School District obtained the building from the General Services Administration and used it to house a kindergarten class. Later, a Missouri State Training Center for the Mentally Retarded was housed there and, finally in the late 1950s, a city recreation department and the name was changed to CRC.

Two years ago the school district deeded the property to the city's recreation department, with the condition that the kindergarten classes could be housed there as long as necessary.

But the building was used for many more things. It was the site of the weekly Teen Town Council dances and Neosho High School Homecoming dances. Volley ball leagues were held there. Youngsters came there to play pool, table tennis, basketball, shuffleboard and others. It housed an art class. It was used for square dancing, but most of all it was the hangout of the town's teenagers.

Now it is in ashes and the youngsters have no place to spend their spare time. So they are working to get a new one.

Their plan, Langland said, is this:

"We are trying to get $1 from every ex-serviceman who was stationed at Camp Crowder. We believe that they will want to chip in and help us out. We also want to get Dick Van Dyke, who was stationed there and used Camp Crowder on his television shows, to give us some plugs. We believe we can raise this money. We don't want the people of Neosho to pay any more taxes. It was our center and it is up to us to replace it."

"This is the most enthusiastic bunch of kids I have ever seen," said Marvin Sprigg, recreation director and sponsor of the Teen Town Council. "They have a goal set and I would bet anything that they can reach it. They are certainly to be admired for their zeal and their enthusiasm. But more than that, they are to be admired for taking this project on their own. They started thinking about it before the fire was even put out."

Now, they are watching the mail for contributions addressed to the "Recreation Building Fund."

Minot, N.D., with a population of about 30,000, has 300 acres of parks within its boundaries, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Classic Welsh Rarebit

There are few dishes which have survived the centuries more gracefully than classic Welsh rarebit. Served in the ancient manner over hefty slices of fresh hot bread, it becomes a marvelous meal for family or company.

Like most truly great recipes, Welsh rarebit is easy to make. Its basic ingredients are two: sharp aged cheese and beer or ale. Seasoning is usually limited to mustard and Worcestershire sauce. It can be cooked over low direct heat, in a chafing dish or a double boiler. In any case, it must be stirred constantly with a wooden spoon.

The technique is important because cheese is a natural food and varies in moisture content. A well-aged natural cheddar (not a processed cheese) is required to produce a thick rarebit and the beer or ale should be at room temperature (and measured without foam). Generally the proportion of 1 cup of beer to 1 pound of cheese is about right, but consistency is controlled by using more or less liquid. A little butter melted in the pan beforehand prevents the cheese from sticking.

Serve Welsh rarebit hot! Warm the plates; heat the bread; spoon on the rarebit while scalding hot. And of course, the traditional beverage with classic Welsh rarebit is beer or ale.

CLASSIC WELSH RAREBIT

1 pound aged natural Cheddar cheese
1 teaspoon butter
1 cup beer or ale (about)
2 teaspoons dry mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon paprika
Large round loaf fresh white bread

Remove rind and grate cheese coarsely or cut in small pieces. Melt butter in large pan and tip pan to coat bottom well. Over very low heat, add cheese and as it begins to melt, gradually add warm beer or ale. Stir constantly with wooden spoon. Add seasonings and continue stirring until the cheese "follows the spoon around the pan." If too thick, carefully add more beer or ale. Have bread ready for serving: Cut loaf into serving pieces and butter well between slices. Reassemble, wrap in aluminum foil; heat at 350°F. Serves 6-8.

When I Was A Boy

Since the publication of the late H. J. (Jack) Blanton's "When I Was A Boy" reminiscenes in book form in 1942, they have become increasingly popular. All the books have been sold, and are difficult to obtain. Because of the increasing demand for these articles, the Standard is reprinting them during the next few weeks in the belief that its readers, young and old, will enjoy reading about 70 to 100 years ago. Clip and save them.

THE LECTURE ERA

When I was a Boy the lecture course was a nationwide institution. All the smaller cities and larger villages patronized them. Educators and statesmen were among their principal offerings. This furnished two motives for booking a lecture course. One was that it enabled local people to see in person individuals who had made places for themselves in newspapers and magazines. The other was the information and culture they would imbide from the lectures, which usually were pretty tiresome and dull.

The lecturer I recall with the most pleasure was Bob Burdette, a Burlington, Iowa, newspaper man who was considered the greatest humorist of his day. His discourse was on the philosophy of laughter. Coming into Paris on an early morning train, Burdette used our newspaper office as a loafing place during most of the day. I felt quite important that night when he used my name in connection with a story he was telling. The comics in today's metropolitan newspapers vindicate the philosophy he argued, which was that everything that really is funny dates back to something that was pretty serious to somebody. Always in our comics, it seems, one of the characters gets knocked in the head, thrown into a stream, run over by a car, or outwitted by his wife.

The Chautauqua of pleasant memory was an outgrowth of the lecture course. Paris and other small towns felt that their importance had at last been recognized when a Chautauqua company got a contract, duly signed by enough responsible citizens.

The proudest moment of my public career was when I was selected by a Kansas City Company to manage the local Chautauqua. This put me in personal touch with all the celebrities and the added privilege of making a speech every time one was to be introduced. It also was my duty to meet them on arrival and pay them upon their departure.

Bob Burdette's philosophy of laughter was fully vindicated by a tragic accident when the former court musician in the royal establishments of Russia and Italy was to be the week's headliner. He had bushy hair, a foreign brogue and a Stradivarius violin. He was to get $300 for a 30-minute recital. Previous to his arrival, however, Mrs. Frank Allen, cultured wife of a local minister, suggested that I smuggle half a dozen bottles of beer into the stage end of the tent, saying that a friend of hers was prominent in the Chautauqua company had said that the great violinist, whose name I have forgotten, always was inspired to supreme efforts by a bottle or two of beer. Although Paris was a local option town, I managed to get six bottles from a blind tiger.

The first violin number did not go over so good, mainly because the audience was more familiar with the Turkey in the Straw school of music. While a subordinate was making a long list of announcements, I asked the great man if he would be offended if offered a bottle of beer, to which he replied with some enthusiasm that it would save his life.

Unfortunately I had forgotten to get an opener. With knife, keys, nails, and other things I attacked that bottle top. It was unyielding. Finally, the former associate of royalty laid his Stradivarius on the grass back of the stage, and took a hand. He, too, was baffled for quite a while, during which he would pause to mop his perspiring brow and mutter, "My Gott, dis is awful." Then, without any warning at all, the top came off. The beer spurted upon his evening clothes and gushed over his Strad. The strings were put out of tune, and the concert was at an end. Meantime, somebody came forward with an opener and the great man proceeded to imbibe the balance of the beer.

SITTIN UP WITH THE DEAD

When I was a boy the custom of sitting up with the dead was still in vogue. Although nothing filled me with quite so much horror as being close to a corpse, it very often fell to my lot to spend the night with one. This was all right, too, when there were enough "sitters" to make a party and convert an otherwise terrifying situation into as cheerful a thing as an Irish wake.

The sitters usually arrived just after supper. The presence of the sorrowing family gave a solemn atmosphere to the occasion. Little was said. The meager conversation was in subdued tones. Eventually the loved ones withdrew. First, however, the sitters were told where food would be found for the midnight lunch, and instructions were given about bathing the face of the corpse with some sort of a liquid, which looked and smelled like viegar, every hour.

The sitters, who usually were young people, preserved a dignified silence until the loved ones were asleep. Gradually, however, youthful spirits asserted themselves, and until morning all would be as merry as the proverbial marriage bell. The midnight lunch was quite an event for everybody except the unfortunate individual who had taken over the job of bathing the departed one's face. In spite of repeated hand washings, the memory and odor lingered, and the appetite refushed to respond while boiled ham, lightbread, boiled eggs, pickles, cake and pie were being devoured by the others.

Embalming had never been heard of when I was a boy. The condition of the corpse sometimes made sitting up a most disagreeable thing, as the sitters always had to be in the same room with the departed. Eventually, undertaking progressed to the point where the corpse was packed in ice and thus was enabled to reach the funeral in fair state of preservation.

The most horrible night I ever spent was the one on which Chris Buerk and I, both about 14 years old, sat up with the body of an old man named Cook, who died at the home of the Widow Abernathy in Paris.

When Chris and I arrived to take up our duties as sitters, an aged spinster and several other women were awaiting us. Before giving instructions, however, they talked at length about terrible things that happened on such occasions, one of which was a mass attack from mad cats which crashed through window panes and devoured most of the corpse. Another dealt with corpses which came to life and reared up in the coffin to demand what it was all about. Another dealt with mysterious sounds and ghostly visitations.

One of the instructions had a two-fold purpose. One was to foil any raid mad cats might make by keeping the lid on the coffin. The other was to lift the lid and bathe the face once every hour. After all that cheerful conversation and those minute instructions the neighbor women went home and the loved ones went to bed. Two more thoroughly frightened boys were never left alone with a corpse. Along about 11 o'clock a cat fight started out in the yard. Our fears magnified the facts a thousand fold. We would have sworn there were 1000 cats from which it was going to be impossible to save the poor old body in the casket. This danger finally passed.

We worried along until 2 o'clock when Sal Abernathy whose room was just over where we were sitting, had a nightmare of huge proportions. The screams she emitted were most terrifying.

Fearing the corpse might rear up in the coffin, and being too frightened to lift the lid and bathe the face any more, we frantically screwed the lid down as tightly as possible and left the poor body to shift for itself. That was the longest and most terrible night two boys ever spent. It was a crime against childhood to draft us for such a duty.

SAN DIEGO, CALIF. (FHTNC) -- Marine Private Richard H. J. Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Long Sr. of 809 Mary St., Sikeston, Mo., was graduated from eight weeks of recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot here.

He will now undergo about three weeks of individual combat training and then, after leave at home, will report to his first Marine Corps assignment.

The intensified Marine recruit training emphasizes rigid physical conditioning and survival techniques, both at sea and ashore, to develop self-confidence and endurance. Marksmanship with the M-14 rifle and 45-calibre pistol are equally stressed, and close order drill instills the traditions of Marine Corps teamwork.

A thorough study of basic military subjects; hygiene, first aid and sanitation; and the customs, courtesies, history and mission of the Marine Corps serve to polish the new Marine's recruit education and prepare him to join Marine combat forces.

Court Decision Principal Freed On Weapons Charge

CHICAGO (AP) - Danny Escobedo, 29, principal in an historic U.S. Supreme Court ruling on the right of suspects to legal counsel, was acquitted Monday of a charge of unlawful use of weapons.

Escobedo was found innocent by a Circuit Court jury which had been told by defense attorney Marshall Schwarzbach that "the Chicago Police Department is out to get Danny Escobedo." Schwarzbach said the police have made Escobedo their "most hated person" because of the Supreme Court ruling in his favor.

Escobedo was arrested March 20 by Patrolman Joseph Curtin who testified he found a loaded gun in the front seat of Escobedo's car.

Escobedo is awaiting trail on charges of disorderly conduct and burglary.

Marvelous Mincemeat

by Betty Crocker

Of course, use mincemeat for pies. That's traditional. But branch out. Put mincemeat into puddings and cakes and coffee cake, too. Use it for sauces and toppings. To personalize prepared mincemeat, add a little grated orange peel or the juice, or a freshly chopped apple. And try it sometime served hot over ice cream. For another mincemeat marvel, fold this fruity mixture into whipped cream and spoon over warm gingerbread. (½ cup mincemeat and ¼ cup sifted confectioners' sugar to 1 cup whipped cream.) And for the holiday cookie platter, here are two quick cookie recipes . . . combining the talents of mincemeat and Bisquick.

MINCEMEAT COOKIES

¾ cup undiluted evaporated milk
2 cups Bisquick
1 cup brown sugar (packed)
½ teaspoon salt

Heat oven to 400°. Place mincemeat and milk in saucepan and slowly heat to simmering, stirring frequently. Continue cooking slowly about 10 minutes or until mixture is thickened. Immediately stir in remaining ingredients. Dough should be soft. Drop dough by teaspoonfuls about 2 inches apart on greased baking sheet. Bake about 10 minutes. Makes about 3½ dozen cookies.

To pretty up the cookie plate, lace paper doilies are festive. Sprigs of holly, too . . . or a fat candle in the center. For a solid gold setting, spray-paint it gray.

BANBURY COOKIE BARS

2½ cups Bisquick
1 cup sugar
1 egg
3 tablespoons butter
¼ cup milk
1½ cups mincemeat

Heat oven to 375°. Grease oblong pan, 13x9x2 inches. Mix thoroughly all ingredients except mincemeat. Pat half of mixture into prepared pan to within ½ inch of edge. Spread with mincemeat. Pat other half of mixture on waxed paper to same size. Place on mincemeat; remove waxed paper. Bake 30 minutes. While warm, cut into bars. Makes 4 dozen bars. Very nice served with eggnog ice cream. Also, cinnamon coffee: ½ teaspoon cinnamon added to 8-cup pot before perking. And that's what I call making merry with mincemeat!

Onion Soup Mix Makes the Gravy For Veal Steak

Contrast in both flavor and texture plays an important role in the choice of food combinations.

There's a good example of this in these veal steaks with onion sauce. The veal is mild in flavor but firm in texture. It's served with onions from a dehydrated soup mix which are definitely soft in texture but quite pronounced in flavor.

Only one-half cup of the reconstituted soup is used for braising the veal steaks, points out meat authority, Reba Staggs.

Veal Steaks in Onion Sauce

2 pounds veal round steak, cut ½-inch thick
½ cup enriched flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup fat or drippings
1 package (1½ ounces) dried onion soup
2 cups boiling water

Combine flour, salt and pepper. Dredge veal steaks in seasoned flour. Reserve any remaining flour for gravy. Brown steaks in fat or drippings. Pour off drippings. Dissolve onion soup in boiling water and add ½ cup to steaks. Cover tightly and simmer 1½ hours, or until tender. Remove steaks from frying pan. Stir in flour. Add remaining soup. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Serve with steaks. 6 servings.

Autumn Lamb Now Stars in Savory Harvest Lamb Stew

There was a time when stew consisted of large, uneven pieces of meat and whatever vegetables you happened to have on hand.

But lamb stew has become refined. The meat in this particular lamb stew is cut by the retailer in even-sized boneless cubes measuring about one and one-half inches square, says Reba Staggs, meat expert.

Vegetables number five and they're chosen carefully for flavor, color and texture interest. Just imagine the lovely combination which uses tomatoes to combine with the rich brown of autumn lamb, pale green zucchini circles, green pepper strips, green beans and golden carrots.

Harvest Lamb Stew

2 pounds boneless lamb for stew, cut into 1½-inch cubes
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 can (1 pound 12 ounces) tomatoes or 6 medium-sized fresh tomatoes, cut in wedges
½ cup coarsely chopped onion
2½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon thyme
1 teaspoon paprika
2 bay leaves
2 carrots, cut into ½-inch pieces
1 green pepper, cut into ½-inch strips
½ pound green beans, cut into 1-inch pieces
3 small zucchini squash, cut into ½-inch slices
Flour for gravy

Brown meat in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add tomatoes, onion, salt, pepper, thyme, paprika and bay leaves. Cover tightly and cook slowly 1 hour. Add carrots, cover and continue cooking 30 minutes. Add green pepper, green beans and zucchini and continue cooking about 30 minutes or until meat and vegetables are done. Discard bay leaves. Thicken cooking liquid with flour for gravy, if desired. 6 to 8 servings.

Use Grandma's Way Of Cooking That Good Beef Soup

Grandmother knew that few things were more welcome on a cold, snappy day than a kettle of homemade soup.

The meat in this soup is from a less known cut that's wonderfully flavorful. They're called cross-cut beef shanks, explains Reba Staggs, meat expert. To bring out their full flavor before simmering in the water, brown them first.

There's no more soaking the beans overnight before making the soup. The up-dated method covers them with water, brings them to a boil, boils them for two minutes, then lets them stand covered for an hour.

Grandma's Beef Soup

3 cross-cut beef shanks, cut 2-inches thick
5 cups water
1 pound (2 cups) navy beans
2 tablespoons lard or drippings
Water
4 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 cup chopped celery
1½ cups chopped onion
1 can (1 pint 2 ounces) tomato juice
3 tablespoons chopped parsley
3 tablespoons chopped celery leaves

Cover navy beans with 5 cups water. Bring to a full boil and boil 2 minutes. Remove from heat; cover and let stand 1 hour. Brown beef shanks in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Measure liquid from beans and add enough water to make 2 quarts. Add water, salt, pepper and beans to beef shanks. Cover tightly and simmer 2 hours. Add celery, onion and tomato juice. Cover and continue cooking about 1 hour or until meat and vegetables are tender. Ten minutes before serving remove meat and chop. Add parsley, celery leaves and chopped meat to soup. Heat thoroughly. Yield: approximately 4 quarts.

At first tea outstripped coffee during the colonial days but after the Boston Tea Party coffee became more popular.

Autumn Lamb Now Stars in Savory Harvest Lamb Stew

There was a time when stew consisted of large, uneven pieces of meat and whatever vegetables you happened to have on hand.

But lamb stew has become refined. The meat in this particular lamb stew is cut by the retailer in even-sized boneless cubes measuring about one and one-half inches square, says Reba Staggs, meat expert.

Vegetables number five and they're chosen carefully for flavor, color and texture interest. Just imagine the lovely combination which uses tomatoes to combine with the rich brown of autumn lamb, pale green zucchini circles, green pepper strips, green beans and golden carrots.

Harvest Lamb Stew

2 pounds boneless lamb for stew, cut into 1½-inch cubes
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
1 can (1 pound 13 ounces) tomatoes or 6 medium-sized fresh tomatoes, cut in wedges
½ cup coarsely chopped onion
2½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon thyme
1 teaspoon paprika
2 bay leaves
2 carrots, cut into ½-inch pieces
1 green pepper, cut into ½-inch strips
½ pound green beans, cut into 1-inch pieces
3 small zucchini squash, cut into ½-inch slices
Flour for gravy

Brown meat in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add tomatoes, onion, salt, pepper, thyme, paprika and bay leaves. Cover tightly and cook slowly 1 hour. Add carrots, cover and continue cooking 30 minutes. Add green pepper, green beans and zucchini and continue cooking about 30 minutes or until meat and vegetables are done. Discard bay leaves. Thicken cooking liquid with flour for gravy, if desired. 6 to 8 servings.

Use Grandma's Way Of Cooking That Good Beef Soup

Grandmother knew that few things were more welcome on a cold, snappy day than a kettle of homemade soup.

The meat in this soup is from a less known cut that's wonderfully flavorful. They're called cross-cut beef shanks, explains Reba Staggs, meat expert. To bring out their full flavor before simmering in the water, brown them first.

There's no more soaking the beans overnight before making the soup. The up-dated method covers them with water, brings them to a boil, boils them for two minutes, then lets them stand covered for an hour.

Grandma's Beef Soup

3 cross-cut beef shanks, cut 2-inches thick
5 cups water
1 pound (2 cups) navy beans
4 tablespoons lard or drippings
Water
4 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 cup chopped celery
1½ cups chopped onion
1 can (1 pint 2 ounces) tomato juice
3 tablespoons chopped parsley
3 tablespoons chopped celery leaves

Cover navy beans with 5 cups water. Bring to a full boil and boil 2 minutes. Remove from heat; cover and let stand 1 hour. Brown beef shanks in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Measure liquid from beans and add enough water to make 2 quarts. Add water, salt, pepper and beans to beef shanks. Cover tightly and simmer 2 hours. Add celery, onion and tomato juice. Cover and continue cooking about 1 hour or until meat and vegetables are tender. Ten minutes before serving remove meat and chop. Add parsley, celery leaves and chopped meat to soup. Heat thoroughly. Yield: approximately 4 quarts.

At first tea outstripped coffee during the colonial days but after the Boston Tea Party coffee became more popular.

Consumer Restraint Cuts Retail Sales

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Consumer restraint is now playing a powerful role in slowing the American economy. Many purchases are being postponed. Lower-priced items are becoming more attractive.

This change has been developing undramatically for many months. There have been no statements, no announcements. But the evidence is obvious: There is a growing tendency toward a buyer's rather than a seller's market.

Retail sales during the latest calendar month showed a dip crease in installment credit by consumers has turned lower.

Although higher than last year, Christmas sales in some stores are still not as high as had been expected.

Automobile dealers are complaining of lower sales, and all automobile manufacturers have cut back production. Sales of luxury products and big-ticket items are not up to expectations in many areas.

Some of the major appliance manufacturers have scaled down their expectations for 1967 and have, in fact, announced sizable production cutbacks of such items as home laundry equipment and refrigerators.

Furniture sales are off, related perhaps to the depression in housing. House construction has fallen to one of the lowest rates in many years, the result primarily of high interest rates.

A big exception seems to be color television set sales, which manufacturers say are booming. Even so, one of the major mahufacturers has laid off some workers at one plant.

Consumer confidence has been on the wane throughout the year. The highly regarded University of Michigan Consumer Study found that at this time a year ago confidence was at a very high peak. It has dropped steadily since then.

Why? Perhaps because of all the cautionary talk of inflation, recession, higher taxes and escalation in Vietnam. Perhaps also it is a straight dollars and cents matter — that the less the consumer has to spend the less confidence he has in spending it.

A study by the National Industrial Conference Board shows that there was very little increase this year in the consumer's discretionary purchasing power; that is, in the amount left over after essentials were paid for.

The board attributed this slow growth to factors such as a decrease in disposable income, tight money, and a speedup in the withholding of personal income taxes.

Reflecting this consumers increased their instalment credit by only $380 million during October -- the latest figure -- the smallest monthly advance in nearly two years.

A slowdown isn't all bad, however. For a time it might make life a bit less pleasant than before. But a slowdown offers hope in correcting the economic imbalances that have produced pickpocket inflation.

A maid who's been long in the service of a playwright treasures an autograph book she's kept for years. Charmer Gertrude Lawrence inscribed it: "Remember, dear Frances, that great elms from little acorns grow." Then a producer signed it: "Remember, dear Frances, that Gertrude Lawrence is a star and not a botanist."

Sheffield Will Be Secretary of River Group

VICKSBURG -- Col. Paul R. Sheffield has been assigned as secretary of the Mississippi River Commission and deputy division engineer of the lower Mississippi valley division of the army corps of engineers, Maj. Gen. R. G. MacDonnell, MRC president and division engineer.

He will assume his duties Feb. 15, succeeding Col. Joe A. Clema, who is retiring from active army service at the end of February after serving since August of 1964. He is now deputy director of military construction in the office of engineers, Washington, D. C.

Colonel Sheffield's new assignment might be called a "homecoming tour of duty," as he is a native Mississippian. Born in Pittsboro, he was reared and educated in Jackson, Miss., where his mother, Mrs. H. C. Sheffield, and sister, Martha Frances, live. His wife is the former Carolyn Buck, of Tuchula, Miss., whose parents and brother live in Senatobia, Miss.

The Sheffields have three children. The eldest daughter, Sandra, is married to Lt. James Crook, air force. They are stationed at Laredo Air Force Base, in Texas, and have welcomed a daughter, Christine Elizabeth, to their home. Paul Jr., is a yearling (sophomore) at West Point. Crickett, the youngest daughter, is 10 years old.

Colonel Sheffield is a graduate of Millsaps College, Jackson, Miss. He took graduate work in civil engineering at Texas A&M College, and he is a graduate of the air force institute of technology.

In World War II he served as commanding officer, 1200th engineer group, in New Guinea and the Philippines, and as training officer at Ford Leonard Wood, Mo.

His post - war assignments included three years, 1949 to 1952, in Europe, with headquarters, 1st infantry division, and headquarters, seventh army. He served from 1954 to 1956 in Korea, as commanding officer, 185th engineer combat battalion and the 76th engineer construction battalion.

After being graduated from the command and general staff college in 1957, he was assigned as area engineer, Minot, N. D., area of the Omaha District, Neb. In 1960 he attended the armed forces staff college, at Norfolk, Va., and served as Antilles Engineer, San Juan Puerto Rico. From 1962 to 1964 he was assigned to Heaequarters, U. S. army southern command, Panama. He reported for duty in the office, chief of engineers, in June 1964.

In his new position, he will work under General MacDonnell on flood control, improvements for navigation, and related water resources conservation and development activities in the main valley of the Mississippi River and some of its tributaries from about Hannibal, Mo., to the Gulf of Mexico. This work is located in eight states: Missouri, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Texas. There are four district engineer offices in the division: Memphis, New Orleans, St. Louis, and Vicksburg.

Colonel Sheffield is a registered professional engineer in North Dakota, and a member of the National Society of Professional Engineers and the Society of American Military Engineers.

Refinishing Furniture Is Hobby of Don Glovers

Editor's Note: This is the 17th in a series of articles about the home life of Sikeston area families.

By Ruth Dillender

Refinishing furniture is a hobby shared by Mr. and Mrs. Don Glover, 103 Dudley. They have refinished most of the furniture in their living room.

The couple has four children, Mark, eight; Grant, six; Keli, four, and Tim, three years old. Mark is a second grade student at Lee Hunter school and Grant Glover attends the Methodist kindergarten.

Glover is pastor of the Southside Church of Christ where Mrs. Glover teaches the Ladies Bible class on Thursday. She is also responsible for many of the church's recreational activities. Mrs. Glover, along with her husband and other church teachers, attends Christian and teacher training workshops.

Mr. and Mrs. Glover are members of the Lee-Hunter Parent-teacher Association. Mrs. Glover says that she loves to cook and to sew. She makes most of her and her daughter's clothes.

A treasure in the Glover home is an afghan given to the family by his mother, Mrs. Marie Glover of Houston.

The Glovers met at Harding College in Searcy, Ark. They have lived in Sikeston five years.

Some of Mrs. Glover's favorite recipes are:

BASIC SUGAR COOKIES

Cream 1/2 cup butter and 3/4 cup sugar. Beat in 1 egg, 1-1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Add 1-1/2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder and 1/4 teaspoon salt and mix.

Cover bowl and chill dough 1 hour. Roll out on lightly floured board and cut with cookie cutters. Bake at 350 degrees approximately six minutes.

CHEWY, FUDGEY BROWNIES

2 1-ounce squares, unsweetened chocolate
1/2 cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup chopped nuts

Melt chocolate over hot water. Cream butter and sugar and add eggs. Beat. Blend in melted chocolate, vanilla and flour. Mix nuts into batter.

Pour into greased 8 x 8 x 2" pan and bake at 325 degrees about 30 minutes. Frost with chocolate fudge frosting. Keep brownies tightly covered in refrigerator.

GREEN BEAN CASSEROLE

2 cans of green beans, drained
1 can undiluted cream of mushroom soup
1/2 pint sour cream or 1/2 cup grated American cheese
1 can French fried onion rings

Put beans in baking dish and season. Mix soup and sour cream together and heat. Stir until well blended. Pour over beans. Bake 20 minutes in a 350 degree oven. Sprinkle onion rings on top and bake 10 minutes longer or until lightly browned.

GARLIC CHEESE GRITS

Cook 1 cup grits in 4 cups boiling water and 1 teaspoon salt. Stir over low heat until thickened.

Remove from heat and add 1/4 pound butter. Stir until butter melts. Add 8 ounce package garlic cheese and mix.

Put 2 eggs in measuring cup and add enough milk to make 1 cup. With mixer, combine eggs with cheese and grits. Mix well. Pour in oblong greased baking dish. Bake at 325 degrees from 45 minutes to 1 hour.

Mrs. Glover says that this dish may be served hot or cold with chicken, ham or roast.

COFFEE CORNER by Cherie

Dear Santa,

Well, being as I am almost completely caught up with the million and one things I have to do to get ready for this festive occasion which is four days hence, I've decided if I want to get remembered at all this year, I'd best sit down and get my letter off to you and so--

Dear Santa, I would like to find under the tree on Christmas morning (like most women who are truly honest), a little diamond bauble of some sort, I'm not particular, I'll take a ring, bracelet, earrings, necklace, even a nose ring would do nicely just as long as it sparkles; an Autumn Haze mink jacket, and dear Santa, if you bring this or any clothing for that matter, would you please try and get somewhere near my size, and I don't mean to be smart aleck and come up with a size six sweater, and a size sixteen skirt (like you've managed to do on other occasions); a new car wouldn't be frowned upon either (any brand I don't mind), and not that I mean to be disrespectful to Lizzie either, but poor thing I don't know which of us is the most pooped, although I suspect when I reach her age, somebody might have to choke me a few times to get me started on these chilly mornings also; and then, a plane ticket to Nassau or Hawaii for a vacation would be just simply divine (I will however at this stage of the game settle for a week in the Bertrand rest home!); and a platium wig would be most wonderful, as my hair is terribly icky from running my fingers through it so much, and when you've been making caramels, -- UGH! Oh well, Santa, I could go on, and on, and on, and the real truth is, I don't expect to find any of those items under my tree, no not even the nose ring, but Ole Saint Nick, I do wish and most sincerely, you'd fill one or two of my stockings with such lovely dreams as good health for all my family, happiness for my three boys, a big bag full of patience for a nervous mother, a sleigh full of common sense to be sprinkled throughout a world that seems to be fast losing it, and especially, for joy - love and abundant hope to rise in each and every heart on Christmas morning.

A devoted admirer,
Your friend Cherie

P. S. By the way, in case you'd like to take the recipe for the treat I left you under the tree home to Mrs. Claus, here it is.

ABSOLUTELY PERFECT FUDGE

(that is, if you absolutely follow directions)

Melt two 1 - ounce squares of unsweetened chocolate in 3/4 cup of scalded milk. Add 2 cups of sugar, and 1 tsp. of light corn syrup, cook slowly, stirring until sugar dissolves. Cook gently to soft - ball stage (234 degrees), stirring frequently. Remove from heat, add 2 TBS of butter and cool at room temperature to 110 degrees without stiring even once.

Add 1 tsp. of vanilla. Beat vigorously until fudge becomes very thick and loses its gloss. Quickly spread in greased pan. I always add at the end 1 cup of chopped pecans.

Missouri Press Report

Sen. Edward V. Long

Jobs for 5,047 Missouri college students will be provided under new funds just approved by the U.S. Office of Education.

Under this program, young men and women are working their way through college by taking part-time jobs on and off campus.

Forty-two Missouri colleges qualify for these work study grants for the January-June semester, 1967.

Across the country, work study programs are making it possible for 190 thousand students to attend college, most of whom would have dropped out by now due to lack of funds.

Twenty-three Missouri towns are now tackling their urban growth problems with assistance from the Federal Housing and Urban Development Department and the Missouri State Government's Division of Commerce and Industrial Development.

Under the Urban Planning Assistance program, towns can now launch up to 18 months of study, including everything from blight and congestion to public housing and recreation space.

The twenty-three towns with studies begun by September 1966 include: Ava, Bethany, Bowling Green, Butler, Cape Girardeau, Charleston, Concordia, De Soto, Excelsior Springs, Fredericktown, Grandview, Higginsville, Houston, Lee's Summit, Marceline, Marshfield, Mound City, Perryville, Richland, Rockport, Sedalia, Tarkio, and Willow Springs.

The work release program to assist offenders in locating jobs near the Medical Center in Springfield, Missouri, is working successfully thanks to Work Release Coordinator William L. Sugg.

Mr. Sugg was in Washington, D.C. recently to receive the Department of Justice Sustained Superior Performance Award for his fine work. The award was presented by the Acting Attorney General Ramsey Clark.

The Medical Center began its work release program soon after Congress passed the work release bill in November 1965. Believe this program is of great help in getting Federal offenders to become reliable and responsible members of their community.

Just how busy was the 89th Congress? Final statistics show that a total of 4,116 measures were introduced and passed by the Senate and House during the 1965 and 1966 sessions of the 89th Congress.

Included in these bills was some of the most important legislation in American history.

An additional 22,450 bills were introduced but failed to win final Congressional passage.

In the Senate, we met for a total of 1,814 hours and 34 minutes for a total of 345 days. The House was in session for a total of 336 days.

Wholesalers Plan To Merge

Malone & Hyde, Inc., one of the nation's largest wholesale food distributing firms, announced a merger with F. Strauss & Son, Inc., of Monroe, La., linking grocery wholesalers with annual sales of about 303 million dollars.

J. R. Hyde Jr., president of Malone & Hyde, Inc., said that Strauss shareholders will receive about 155,000 shares of the Memphis firm's stock. This means a transaction of about $3,875,000 based on the $25 bid, $25.50 asked prices on Malone & Hyde, Inc. stock in the Memphis over-the-counter securities quotations.

The Strauss firm also operates real estate investment and alcoholic beverage firms in Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas which will not be a part of the deal.

The agreement has been signed, Mr. Hyde said, and the merger approved by directors of both companies. It is subject to approval of stockholders of both conpanies at meetings to be held on undecided dates.

Strauss will operate as a Malone & Hyde, Inc. autonomous affiliate and its present managements will continue.

Clifford M. Strauss, a co-founder, is chairman of the board and president.

He and his father, Fred Strauss, who came to America from Germany as a youth, started the firm in 1920 as a fruit and produce operation. It was the first in a series of several branches and related Strauss operations.

Included in the transaction are three Stauss subsidiaries, Triple "S" Development Corp., Triple "S" Advertising Agency, Inc., and Monroe Fixture Co., Inc.

Strauss, which started with three employes and now employs about 200, expects to reach 28 million dollars in sales this year. Malone & Hyde, Inc., had sales of 251 million dollars in the fiscal year ended June 30 and looks for 275 million dollars in the current fiscal year, Mr. Hyde Said.

The Monroe firm inaugurated a retailer - wholesaler voluntary group in its area which is known as the Triple S. Plan. It serves 145 Triple S. Co-Operatives Food Stores in Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi. It also supplies about 155 independent grocers.

Malone & Hyde Inc., which became a publicly-held corporation in November, 1961, previously acquired Stedman Co. of Beaumont, Texas; Ragland, Potter & Co. and Cooper & Martin, Inc., of Nashville; Pic-Pac Food Stores, Inc. and Quality Stamp Co. of Memphis; assets of two Dixiemart and one Corondolet grocery departments; Giant K Food Store of Nashville; and U-Totem Stores, Inc. of Jackson, Tenn.

The Memphis wholesale food firm services about 1,450 retailers, many of whom are included in the M&H Co-Operative Plan started in 1945. Sales and profits have increased every year since the plan went into effect. J. R. Hyde is chairman of the board of Malone & Hyde, Inc.

Agency Delays Subject of Study By Senator

WASHINGTON -- Sen. Edward V. Long, (D-Mo.), chairman of the senate subcommittee on administrative practice, today released a detailed study showing the causes and cures of delay and red tape in federal administrative agencies.

Senator Long urged federal administrators to "read this report, study it. This report spotlights the urgent need to speed up the work of our government."

Included in the study are estimates of the number of days the eight main federal regulatory agencies could have saved in their regulatory proceedings during 1963.

The senator praised the coast guard, the National Labor Relations Board and the Atomic Energy Commission for having the best records out of the 60 types of proceedings studied.

The senator said his study shows that 14 Federal agencies might have saved more than 100 work days in typical adjudications during fiscal year 1963.

Based on responses by chairmen, commissioners, examiners and expert lawyers, the senator's study lists a large number of possible ways in which Federal agencies could cut down unnecessary delay.

Senator Long said he hoped other senate and house committees will study his report in the coming months. "We must do all we can to bring about a long overdue speed - up in the administrative process. The whole nation's economy, and the welfare of each individual citizen, depend on whether or not we can have an efficient, fast working government," Senator Long said.

Go Home, Young Graduate

Where the Good Jobs Are

NEW YORK -- (NEA) -- The myth that New York, Chicago or San Francisco are the only cities in the country worth the attention of a bright college graduate is quickly dying.

Instead of catching the first train to Metropolis after graduation, many graduates are now checking out industry in their home towns and finding that even Grind Stone, Inc., has corporated offices in Tokyo, Teheran and Paris, not to mention New York.

Local Chambers of Commerce are encouraging renewed student interest in local business through the sponsorship of career conferences usually held the last week of December for the student's convenience.

The conferences go by a variety of names: Operation Native Son, Operation Contact or Kentuckiana Career Expositions, but in each city the idea is basically the same -- to give local employers and local students, attending schools in or out of town, an opportunity to look each other over during the Christmas vacation.

The "Native Son" idea originated several years ago in Milwaukee where the chamber offered free lunches to seniors who would come in and talk with local business people. The response was unexpectedly enthusiastic. Just to make sure the enthusiasm was real, the free lunch was dropped the following year, but area students showed up in droves anyway.

In 1964, when Toledo tried out the idea, 20 companies interviewed more than 1,200 students with excellent results in terms of savings of time and money for both students and employers.

Much publicity was given to Toledo's plan and subsequently the idea swept the country. This year about 70 communities, large and small, will be having career conferences for students.

Students become acquainted with the business people in the local community, and get some insight into how they think and what they are planning. Students will also be able to get a wider perspective on qualifications necessary for different kinds of jobs. Seniors and graduate students will make contacts that will be valuable almost immediately. Others will have a chance to do a bit of job-fishing.

Almost all conferences are being held Dec. 27, 28, or both days.

Come prepared. The more specific questions you can ask, the better. What training programs does a company offer math majors? Will they hire someone with his army service still ahead of him? Are summer jobs available?

Don't settle for the standard patter from company representatives. Let them know you're alive and curious.

If the conference is large, you probably won't have time to see every company. The ones you do see, however, should be followed up with a letter or phone call to the interviewer.

Also, note company literature. Is it creative and designed for today's students or does it date from 1947? A company's attitude towards its recruiting material often reveals its attitude towards its recruits.

Philadelphia has a typical program. Here both the Junior and Senior Chambers of Commerce have co-operated in inducing 62 companies to shell out $200 apiece to set up interviewing booths in the main ballroom of the Sheraton Hotel. (Philadelphia is mainly interested in seniors and graduate students. Most communities, however, will be happy to receive all interested students.)

Thirty-minute interviews are permitted each student. The aim is initial contact, and no jobs are offered on the spot. However, arrangements may be made for a plant visit in the future.

The following cities plan Native Son programs: Arkansas: Magnolia. Illinois: Chicago, Danville, Rockford. Indiana: Crawfordsville, Evansville, Fort Wayne, Indianapolis, Marion, Muncie, South Bend. Iowa: Cedar Rapids, Des Moines, Muscatine. Kansas: Kansas City. Kentucky: Ashland, Louisville. Maryland: Baltimore, Bethesda, Salisbury. Massachusetts: Springfield. Minnesota: Minneapolis, St. Paul. New Jersey: Morristown, Passaic. New Mexico: Las Cruces. New York: Binghamton, Buffalo, Jamestown, Olean, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica. North Carolina: Charlotte. Ohio: Akron, Canton, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Dayton, Marietta, Middletown, Toledo, Youngstown. Pennsylavnia: Greensburg, Latrobe, Harrisburg, Philadelphia. Rhode Island: Providence. Texas: Dallas, Fort Worth. Washington: Tacoma. Wisconsin: Janesville, Milwaukee, Wausau.

24-Prepaid Dental Care -- Budgeting for Health

PRECEDE: The following article is one of a series being presented by The Daily Standard in cooperation with The Scott County Dental Society.

More than one million persons are now covered by some form of dental prepayment and by 1970 that figure may rise to 15 million according to the American Dental Association.

In group plans written by commercial insurance companies, employees and their dependents are insured for nearly all phases of dental treatment. In most of the plans currently in operation the employer or union pays the premium.

Typically, the employee pays a modest deductible for his entire family and then pays about 20 per cent of subsequent expenses. The insurance policy covers the remaining 80 per cent up to an established maximum commitment.

These plans make it possible for a man and his family to budget for dental care on a regular basis. According to the ADA, regular dental care prevents most dental difficulties from arising; it's the best insurance against the severe disorders which result from postponed treatment.

These insurance plans allow each person to select his own dentist, and the dentist retains his professional freedom to recommend the course of treatment he thinks best.

Another method of dental prepayment approved by the Association is the dental service corporation. These corporations are nonprofit service organizations similar to Blue Cross-Blue Shield, sponsored by a state dental society. To date, 23 states have organized them, and more than one and a half million persons are covered.

One such state is California, where some 500,000 persons are covered by the service corporation. More than 13 million dollars worth of dental care has been financed this way by California's dental service corporation since it was established.

According to Dr. F. Gene Dixon, vice-president and managing director of the corporation, the demand for prepayment dental care is steadily rising.

The dental profession has taken the lead in developing prepayment programs "to insure the maintenance of professional responsibility for quality and cost control," he said.

You can find out if your state has such a dental service corporation by contacting your local dental society.

Whether or not such a plan exists, and whether or not you have dental insurance, don't let the cost of treatment keep you from seeing your dentist.

The ADA recommends that you discuss fees freely with him before treatment begins, and methods of payment can usually be worked out satisfactorily.

One thing is certain -- seeing your dentist regularly twice a year, or more often if necessary, is the least expensive in the long run. Keeping your mouth healthy avoids those problems stemming from neglect which are difficult to treat, and require extensive, time-consuming, and, therefore, expensive, dental care.

Corn Picking Aids Missions

CANALOU -- The Woman's Missionary Council of the Assembly of God church earned $95 for its treasury.

Each member gave one day of her time to pick corn donated by William Wilkening and sold to Clarence Hood.

The money will be used to purchase items for a treasure chest that is sent to missionaries.

Participating were Francis Hood, Loyal Jones, Fern Johnson, Willie Campbell, Glenda Uthoff, Helen Drake, Dedsil Davidson, Grace Haney, Ella Smith, Carlene Pointer, Dimply Malloy, Shirley Malloy, Cindy Pierce, Rose Duncan, Lucy McDonald, Sue McDonald, Stephen Duncan, Gregory Duncan, Debra Duncan, Randy Pointer, Ray Uthoff, Bradley Cude, Earl Jones, Hood and the Rev. Jess Duncan.

"Open wide," demanded the dentist as he began his examination of a new patient. "Good grief!" he said. "You've got the biggest cavity I've ever seen -- the biggest cavity I've ever seen!"

"You didn't have to repeat it," snapped the patient.

"I didn't," said the dentist. "That was the echo!"

QUICK QUIZ

Q—How fast do the particles that become meteors travel?

A—From 10 to 40 miles per second.

Q—What does vegetable ivory come from?

A—Coquilla nuts, the seeds of the ivory palm, a Brazilian member of the coconut group.

Q—Who was known as the "Belle of Epping Forest"?

A—Mary Ball Washington, mother of George Washington.

Q—What French holiday is equivalent to our Fourth of July?

A—Bastille Day, celebrated on July 14th.

Named By Lumberjacks

Flagstaff, Ariz., was named by lumberjacks celebrating the Fourth of July in 1876, when they nailed a U.S. flag to the top of a tall pine and called the unnamed settlement Flagstaff, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

The National Football League made the wearing of socks mandatory in league games in 1945.

Like most fish, salmon is a good source of high quality protein. Nutritional studies by the U.S. Department of the Interior show that it also boasts strong vitamin and mineral content and is easy to digest.

Calorie-wise this fish is quite reasonable, too. A 3-ounce serving of canned pink salmon contains about 120 calories -- less than an equal-sized serving of lean red meat.

Do you question the economy of canned salmon? Consider the price per pound (one of the popular tall cans) and you will see how it compares with other protein sources. What's more, the entire contents of that can are edible. In fact, most recipes suggest using the whole canful--liquid, bones and skin as well as the "meat". Many of the vitamins and minerals are in these parts.

With supplies currently much larger than usual, canned salmon may well provide consumers with even more economy. The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service advises watching for specials on this food from the sea.

Influenced Young

John C. Fremont explored Utah's Great Salt Lake, which is now shrinking, in 1843 and his description influenced Brigham Young, the Mormon pioneer, to come to the lake area.

WHAT COUNTS WITH CANNED SALMON

Whether counting pennies, minutes, nutritive value or calories. . .you can count on canned salmon.

When minutes count, the convenience of a can of pink or red salmon is invaluable. This ready-to-eat item can be kept handy on a cupboard shelf at all times, and indefinitely.

Go Home, Young Graduate

Where the Good Jobs Are

NEW YORK -- (NEA) -- The myth that New York, Chicago or San Francisco are the only cities in the country worth the attention of a bright college graduate is quickly dying.

Instead of catching the first train to Metropolis after graduation, many graduates are now checking out industry in their home towns and finding that even Grind Stone, Inc., has corporated offices in Tokyo, Teheran and Paris, not to mention New York.

Local Chambers of Commerce are encouraging renewed student interest in local business through the sponsorship of career conferences usually held the last week of December for the student's convenience.

The conferences go by a variety of names; Operation Native Son, Operation Contact or Kentuckiana Career Expositions, but in each city the idea is basically the same -- to give local employers and local students, attending schools in or out of town, an opportunity to look each other over during the Christmas vacation.

The "Native Son" idea originated several years ago in Milwaukee where the chamber offered free lunches to seniors who would come in and talk with local business people. The response was unexpectedly enthusiastic. Just to make sure the enthusiasm was real, the free lunch was dropped the following year, but area students showed up in droves anyway.

In 1964, when Toledo tried out the idea, 20 companies interviewed more than 1,200 students with excellent results in terms of savings of time and money for both students and employers.

Much publicity was given to Toledo's plan and subsequently the idea swept the country. This year about 70 communities, large and small, will be having career conferences for students.

Students become acquainted with the business people in the local community, and get some insight into how they think and what they are planning. Students will also be able to get a wider perspective on qualifications necessary for different kinds of jobs. Seniors and graduate students will make contacts that will be valuable almost immediately. Others will have a chance to do a bit of job-fishing.

Almost all conferences are being held Dec. 27, 28, or both days.

Come prepared. The more specific questions you can ask, the better. What training programs does a company offer math majors? Will they hire someone with his army service still ahead of him? Are summer jobs available?

Don't settle for the standard patter from company representatives. Let them know you're alive and curious.

If the conference is large, you probably won't have time to see every company. The ones you do see, however, should be followed up with a letter or phone call to the interviewer.

Also, note company literature. Is it creative and designed for today's students or does it date from 1947? A company's attitude towards its recruiting material often reveals its attitude towards its recruits.

Philadelphia has a typical program. Here both the Junior and Senior Chambers of Commerce have co-operated in inducing 62 companies to shell out $200 apiece to set up interviewing booths in the main ballroom of the Sheraton Hotel. (Philadelphia is mainly interested in seniors and graduate students. Most communities, however, will be happy to receive all interested students.)

Thirty-minute interviews are permitted each student. The aim is initial contact, and no jobs are offered on the spot. However, arrangements may be made for a plant visit in the future.

The following cities plan Native Son programs: Arkansas: Magnolia. Illinois: Chicago, Danville, Rockford. Indiana: Crawfordsville, Evansville, Fort Wayne, Indianapolis, Marion, Muncie, South Bend. Iowa: Cedar Rapids, Des Moines, Muscatine. Kansas: Kansas City. Kentucky: Ashland, Louisville. Maryland: Baltimore, Bethesda, Salisbury. Massachusetts: Springfield. Minnesota: Minneapolis, St. Paul. New Jersey: Morristown, Passaic. New Mexico: Las Cruces. New York: Binghamton, Buffalo, Jamestown, Olean, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica. North Carolina: Charlotte. Ohio: Akron, Canton, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Dayton, Marietta, Middletown, Toledo, Youngstown. Pennsylavnia: Greensburg, Latrobe, Harrisburg, Philadelphia. Rhode Island: Providence. Texas: Dallas, Fort Worth. Washington: Tacoma. Wisconsin: Janesville, Milwaukee, Wausau.

24-Prepaid Dental Care -- Budgeting for Health

PRECEDE: The following article is one of a series being presented by The Daily Standard in cooperation with The Scott County Dental Society.

More than one million persons are now covered by some form of dental prepayment and by 1970 that figure may rise to 15 million according to the American Dental Association.

In group plans written by commercial insurance companies, employees and their dependents are insured for nearly all phases of dental treatment. In most of the plans currently in operation the employer or union pays the premium.

Typically, the employee pays a modest deductible for his entire family and then pays about 20 per cent of subsequent expenses. The insurance policy covers the remaining 80 per cent up to an established maximum commitment.
